ENGLISH LITERATURE

ITS HISTORY AND SIGNIFICANCE FOR THE LIFE OF THE ENGLISH-SPEAKING WORLD

By WILLIAM J. LONG

8vo. Cloth. xv + 582 pages. Illustrated. List price, $1.35

A DIRECT, simple, interesting account of the great periods of English literature. The emphasis is always upon men rather than upon classes or periods, and upon literature rather than upon what has been written about it. There is an interesting biography of every great literary man in his own natural and social environment, followed by a study of his best works, and then a clear, concise summary or criticism of his place and influence in the history of literature. The book is delightfully readable, showing admirable judgment in the treatment of the different periods, and all the graces of a finished prose style.

No English text-book in literature, of equal size, can compare with this in wealth and quality of illustrations. The frontispiece — The Canterbury Pilgrims — is a lithograph in eleven colors of a direct copy taken from a manuscript in the British Museum, and is believed to be the finest illustration ever printed in a text-book.

Besides giving the pupil a keen insight into English literature, this book is sure to stimulate him to read more for himself. Bibliographical helps and questions supply every need.

> The best text-book on English literature I have ever met with.
> HIRAM CORSON, Cornell University
> In some respects far superior to any other text-book of the kind.
> A. I. SPANTON, Buchtel College, Ohio
> A trustworthy, usable, and original book.
> CHARLES F. RICHARDSON, Dartmouth College

CIVICS AND HEALTH

By WILLIAM H. ALLEN, Secretary of the Bureau of Municipal Research, New York City. With an Introduction by Professor WILLIAM T. SEDGWICK, Professor of Biology in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology

List price, $1.25

Adopted by the Teachers' Reading Circles of Maryland, Kentucky, North Dakota, South Dakota, Oklahoma, New Mexico, South Carolina, Alabama, Arizona, Illinois, Michigan, Colorado, Texas, Virginia, Iowa, Arkansas, Wyoming, Missouri, Indiana, Nebraska, and Washington

FOR Dr. Allen prevention is a text and the making of sound citizens a sermon. In "Civics and Health" he sounds a slogan which should awaken every community in this country to its opportunities in municipal reform. Every teacher who reads this book will gain a new sense of duty in matters of hygiene and sanitation.

Civics and Health is enthrallingly interesting. It is humanized sociology. Cleaning up children by scientific illumination will appeal to every father and mother, every child lover who has any patriotism or desire to learn how we as a people are to make moral-reform agitations fruitful through health of American children, and so establish health of national life. — Boston Transcript.

This is one of the books we wish the law required every citizen to have in his house and to know by heart. Then, indeed, mankind would have made an immense stride forward. — Chicago Medical Recorder.

The book is alive from cover to cover. It breathes reform but not of the platform variety. It abounds in ugly facts but superabounds in the statement of best methods of getting rid of this ugliness. As claimed by the publishers, it is preëminently a book on "getting things done." — Hygiene and Physical Education, Springfield, Mass.

The advantages of the Biflex over other loose-leaf devices

1. EASE OF MANIPULATION. The entire pack of paper may be inserted or removed by one simple operation. Single sheets or several sheets can be inserted or removed with greater ease than with any other loose-leaf binder.

2. UNBROKEN ARCHES. There is no chance for paper to catch and tear.

3. SIZE OF ARCHES. The arches are large enough to allow free movement of the paper. Paper can be punched at a greater distance from its edge than with other binders.

4. COMPLETE WITHIN ITSELF. There are no rings or metal parts to scratch the polished surface of a desk.

5. CONSTRUCTION. The metal parts are securely riveted to the cover, giving strength and durability.

6. FLY LEAVES. These are reinforced so that they lend strength to the entire pack.

See the directions inside the front cover of each Biflex Binder

¶ Our list of Copyrighted Fiction as shown on pages 3 to 63 includes most of the great popular successes of recent years, many of which have had enormous sales, and are now for the first time obtainable at Popular Prices. Our plan of re-issuing these books at such prices as will place them within the reach of all has met with universal approval, as it makes it possible for every home to have its own library of books that are really worth while.

These books are all handsomely bound in cloth, with attractive individual cover designs, many of them being identical in appearance with the original editions,

As many of them have been issued in limited editions, it is impossible to guarantee their delivery for an indefinite period.

¶ We invite special attention to the additions we have made to our list of books of serious character, such as Gardening and Nature Study, Economics and Social Science, History, Biography, etc. Never before have books of such character and value been offered at Popular Prices.

¶ Our Various Series of Books for Young People have been augmented this year by the addition of a number of new titles that are sure to appeal strongly to the juvenile population, and should prove more than ever attractive to those parents who desire to see good books placed in the hands of their sons and daughters.

¶ In compiling this list the various books have been arranged alphabetically by author, both for convenience in reference and for the purpose of grouping together each author's works. A title index will be found in the back.

¶ Any book in this list will be mailed, postpaid, on receipt of price by the publishers.

FAMOUS COPYRIGHT BOOKS IN POPULAR PRICED EDITIONS

ADAMS, FREDERICK UPHAM.

John Burt. With illustrations and inlay cover.

This powerful and original novel is an unusually strong story with an unusually strong man for its central character. The Stock Exchange story is vividly told. The human passions, revenge, treachery, cunning, caution, judgment, daring, stupidity and avarice of this age of commercial and industrial barbarism have never been so effectively portrayed. The love story that runs through the book is charming, is handled with infinite skill and never loses its interest.

ADE, GEORGE.

In Babel.

Gives vivid scenes from the Human Comedy in the Babel of Chicago. "Mr. Ade possesses in an unusual and high degree the gift of graphic characterization. He knows the American type of character. He observes as closely as a Dickens and writes with the breeziness and picturesqueness of a Kipling."—Phila. North American.

AITKIN, ROBERT.

The Golden Horseshoe. With frontispiece, inlay cover, and wrapper in color by Harrison Fisher.

Not since Richard Harding Davis wrote "Soldiers of Fortune" has a book been written which holds the reader's interest as does this rattling story of love and adventure. The heroine is the cousin of the President of a South American Republic, who abducts her from New York and plots to marry her against her will; the hero is the disowned son of an American millionaire, who loves the girl and follows her to South America for the purpose of rescuing her from her plotters. Americans and Englishmen with two or three of the loveliest girls in the world form a sort of composite hero and heroine while the President of the ebullient nation is the villain for them all.

ALEXANDER, GRACE.

Judith. With illustrations by George Wright.

A story of Southern Indiana in the candle-lit fifties, and of Judith La Monde and her lovers—a farmer and a minister. It is the chronicle of a soul's struggle against overmastering temptation; a love deep and lasting and refusing to be denied—the very magnitude of which endows it with a certain dignity and justification. As a picture of life in a vanished past and a statelier day it is sensitive, sincere and admirable.

ALLEN, JAMES LANE.

The Choir Invisible.

"The largest, strongest and most beautiful of Mr. Allen's novels."—Chicago Tribun "Alive with the passion of beauty and of pain * * * distinguished by a sweet and nob seriousness, through which there streams the sunny light of a glancing humor * * * h descriptions of nature are genuine poetry of form and color. He has given us somethir strong, deep, reverential, that will teach us how to live."—The Bookman.

ATHERTON, GERTRUDE FRANKLIN.

The Californians.

"She imparts to her narrative a sense of the exuberant spirit and crude civilization the Pacific coast, and her Californians are studies from life. Such books are documents the history of culture."—The Dial. "It is so well told that it is sure to outlast a great de of the current fiction."—New York Herald.

The Conqueror: The True and Romantic Story of Alexander Hamilton.

Alexander Hamilton's life ended in a dramatic episode quite in keeping with that my terious romance which surrounded his origin and lineage. His career is all of a piece, an because it forms so rounded and complete a narrative, revealing throughout one prevailin character, it lends itself to Gertrude Atherton's purposes of "a dramatized biography" bett than any other that could be selected. The tragedy of such an end is one of the ironies history. In intellectual grasp, virility and compelling interest, it is a notable productio "A remarkable production, full of force, vigor, brains, insight and spirit."—Boston Herald.

Patience Sparhawk and Her Times. A novel.

The title is a little old fashioned, but Patience is not a Puritan maiden and the "times are not colonial. On the contrary, she is a California girl of to-day; and the scenes ar Monterey, Del Monte and San Francisco, with its brilliant bay, colorless hills and Orient city; thence New York. Town Topics calls it "a powerful story," and says it "reaches genuine height in American fiction."

BACHELLER, IRVING.

Darrel of the Blessed Isles. With illustrations by Arthur Keller.

"Darrel, the clock tinker, is a wit, philosopher and man of mystery. Learned, strong kindly, dignified, he towers like a giant above the people among whom he lives. It is anothe tale of the North Country, full of the odor of wood and field. Wit, humor, pathos and hig thinking are in this book."—Boston Transcript. "A character as new and lovable as Ebe Holden, but more fascinating."—New York Times.

D'ri and I: A Tale of Daring Deeds in the Second War with the British Being the Memoirs of Col. Ramon Bell, U.S.A. Illustrated by F. C. Yohn

"Mr. Bacheller is admirable alike in his scenes of peace and war. D'ri, a mighty hunte has the same dry humor as Uncle Eb. He fights magnificently on the 'Lawrence,' and wa among the wounded when Perry went to the 'Niagara.' As a romance of early America history it is great for the enthusiasm it creates."—New York Times.

Eben Holden: A Tale of the North Country.

"As pure as water and as good as bread," says Mr. Howells. "Read 'Eben Holden'" i the advice of Margaret Sangster. "It is a forest-scented, fresh-aired, bracing and wholl American story of country and town life. * * * If in the far future our successors wish t know what were the real life and atmosphere in which the country folk that saved this natio grew, loved, wrought and had their being, they must go back to such true and zestful an poetic tales of 'fiction' as 'Eben Holden,'" says Edmund Clarence Stedman.

Silas Strong: Emperor of the Woods. With a frontispiece.

"A modern Leatherstocking. Brings the city dweller the aroma of the pine and the music of the wind in its branches—an epic poem * * * forest-scented, fresh-aired, and wholly American. A stronger character than Eben Holden."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Vergilius: A Tale of the Coming of Christ.

A thrilling and beautiful story of two young Roman Patricians whose great and perilous love in the reign of Augustus leads them through the momentous, exciting events that marked the year just preceding the birth of Christ. A well-told story; true to the time; and a great triumph in the art of historical portrait painting * * * A story of tender affection and strong situations, and the final scene is a crowning touch of rare beauty.

BARBOUR, A. MAYNARD.

At the Time Appointed. With a frontispiece by J. N. Marchand.

Relates the fortunes of a young mining engineer who through an accident loses his memory and identity. In his new character and under his new name the hero lives a new life of struggle and adventure. A highly romantic story full of thrilling adventure and sentiment. Vivid in its characterizations and thrilling in its dramatic situations.

Breakers Ahead. With a frontispiece in colors by James L. Wood.

"Mac" Denning is a man of great force of character, resourceful, clever and attractive, but very selfish. He accumulates a large fortune in mines and banking, but still is not happy, for he cannot throw off the memory of the wife he had deserted because of her inferior social position. The latter part of the story is full of dramatic incidents, when an attractive widow with a lovable little daughter, and his son, whom he has never seen, appear on the scene.

The Boston Herald says: "A novel to stir the pulse of the most blasé reader of fiction." And The Bookman remarks: "The author has a trick of seeming to explain everything every little while, whereas she really explains nothing until the very last chapter."

That Mainwaring Affair. With illustrations by E. Plaisted Abbott.

A novel with a most intricate and carefully unraveled plot. A naturally probable and excellently developed story and the reader will follow the fortunes of each character with unabating interest * * * the interest is keen at the close of the first chapter and increases to the end. There is a genuine surprise in the working out of the plot.

"The book keeps the reader on the alert, defies the efforts of those who read backwards, deserves the applause of all who like mystery."—Town Topics.

BARR, AMELIA E.

The Maid of Maiden Lane: A Love Story. With illustrations.

"Interesting from start to finish."—Boston Globe. "A charming tale of the Revolutionary period."—Boston Literary Review. "Its chief charm lies in its historic and local color, in the group of well-sustained and vital characters it marshals in its admirable style, and in the thoughts noble and true to be found upon its pages."—Phila. Item.

A Song of a Single Note: A Love Story. Illustrated by Anna Whelan Betts.

"Love, the song of a single note, is a story of New York during the British occupation. A graphic picture of social life in the metropolis at that time is given with Mrs. Barr's usual attention to picturesque detail and historical accuracy."—The Outlook. "Few writers can present such stories in historical settings so attractively."—Springfield Republican. "An ingenious story told in a delightful way."—New York World.

Thyra Varrick: A Love Story. With illustrations by Lee Zeigler.

"Thyra Varrick" loves and is beloved by Robert Thorson. Hector MacDonald, a fervid partisan of the Pretender, meets Thyra, and it is a case of love at first sight. She is about to be married to Hector when her father carries her off on his vessel bound for India. One of the sailors, an old schoolmate, helps her to escape from the ship, and she lands in Edinburgh at the time of the Rising. Here she sees her faithless lover married to another. At the battle of Culloden Hector is taken prisoner, but escapes the traitor's death. The old love for Robert comes back and the story ends as your heart wishes.

BARR, ROBERT.

A Chicago Princess. With illustrations by Francis P. Wightman.

A characteristic, breezy and humorous romance of an over-rich Chicago girl with a craze for titled personages.

The story is told by Rupert Tremorne, the secretary of the father of the heroine, a Chicago multi-millionaire, traveling in the East in his yacht, who takes the party to Korea, where the Emperor falls violently in love with the Chicago "Princess" and desires to marry her. His courtship is fast and furious and leads to many strange complications which Mr. Barr tells in his bright and vivid way.

Tekla: A Romance of Love and War.

"Robert Barr has always known how to tell a good story, but he has outdone himself in 'Tekla.' This romance of love, war and politics of the thirteenth century is one of the best tales we have read for a long time * * * thrilling interest attaches to the tale from first to last."—The Dial. "A brilliantly breathless romance."—London Star.

BARRETT, WILSON.

The Sign of the Cross. Reproductions of Scenes from the Play.

An absorbing book, dramatic in every page. The story of Nero and the early Christian persecutions was never more picturesquely told. As a play it proved a notable success * * * it has delighted thousands, and is certain to hold the stage for years.

BARRIE, JAMES M.

The Little Minister. Illustrated from Photographs of Scenes from the Play.

One of the "classics" of recent literature and one of the most widely read novels of this generation. Dramatized and played with great success here and in England.

"The reader is held spellbound by the strong sympathy which is evoked in his breast with those whose fortunes he is asked to follow."—London Speaker.

BARTLETT, FREDERICK ORIN.

The Web of the Golden Spider. With illustrations by Harrison Fisher and Charles M. Relyea.

A treasure-seeking story that for stirring and absorbing reading comes next to "Treasure Island." A romance told with a joy in the telling that carries the reader breathlessly along. Out of the darkness the girl and the man meet, only to be swept into the toils of an adventurer mad with the lust of gold, and suddenly thrust apart again. Swifty and with desperate chances by land and sea, they follow the golden trail of daring. "There is no other modern tale which contains so many astonishing and unexpected turns."—Phila. Inquirer. "A remarkably well-told story."—N. Y. Sun.

BEECKMAN, ROSS.

Princess Zara. With illustrations by Bert Knight.

Is a Russian noblewoman and an active agent of the Nihilist propaganda. Her betrothed's sister, exiled to Siberia, was degraded by Russian officers and lost her reason. The brother reaches Siberia, sees the sister and kills her; and vows to kill the Czar and the man who had betrayed the sister.

Dan Derrington is appointed chief of the Russian police, and his official position brings him into contact with the Princess Zara. They meet—and read life's meanings in each other's eyes. A good, well-told story ending happily.

The Last Woman.

"The characters are taken from New York's busy world of finance. A dash of Western chivalry supplies the romantic element of the story. The heroine of which is an admirable girl with good commonsense and noble sentiment happily combined."—New York Herald.

BELL, LILIAN.

Abroad with the Jimmies.

Jimmie himself is eminently likable * * * one grows fond of him in the course of the trip; and one shares his admiration for the beautiful, imperturbable, serious Mrs. Jimmie. "Amusement is practically inevitable, nor is food for serious thought lacking."—Chicago Record-Herald. "Her choice phrases linger in your memory. Her insight into human nature delights your soul."—Philadelphia Item.

At Home with the Jardines.

A faithful and amusing record of the joys and sorrows of first housekeeping—a clever mingling of fun, philosophy and sentiment. Those who have read "Abroad with the Jimmies" will hail with delight this sequel to it. Over and over again has this tale of adventurous tempting of the fates been told * * * but rarely with such realism and entrain as is here disclosed. The book contains a very pretty love story and will undoubtedly be welcomed and read with pleasure.

Carolina Lee. With a frontispiece by Dora Wheeler Keith.

Its keynote is "Divine Love" in the understanding of the knowledge of all good things that may be obtainable. When the tale is told, the sick healed, wrong changed to right, poverty of purse and spirit turned into riches, lovers made worthy of each other and happily united, including Carolina Lee and her affinity, it is borne upon the reader that he has been giving rapid attention to a free lecture on Christian Science; that the working out of each character is an argument for "Faith," and that the theory is persuasively attractive. A Christian Science novel that will bring delight to the heart of every believer. A well-told story, entertaining, and cleverly mingles art, humor and sentiment.

BELLAMY, EDWARD.

Looking Backward, 2000-1887.

"Is the 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' of the Industrial Slavery of to-day, a noble dream admirably wrought out," says James Jeffrey Roche. "It is a revelation and an evangel," says Frances Willard. "Bellamy's wonderful book," says E. E. Hale. "The most wonderful book of the century."—New York Examiner. "A glowing prophecy and a gospel of peace."—The Nation. "A marvellous story, combined with social philosophy, and a forecast of the millennium."—Portland Transcript.

BENSON, B. K.

Who Goes There? The Story of a Spy in the Civil War.

"Thoroughly worth reading because it is the study of the Civil War as it appeared to a typically intelligent American soldier."—Outlook. "An exquisitely written as well as exceedingly brilliant and captivating romance."—Atlanta Constitution. "The best spy story of the Civil War. * * * Quite the most extraordinary and remarkable story of personal adventure in warfare * * * a story of such vividness and power that once you have gotten immersed in it you want to shut out the rest of the world completely until you have finished it."—Boston Herald. "One of the best war stories we ever read. Remarkable is too conservative a word for these breathless stories of a time happily long past."—New England Magazine.

The Old Squire: The Romance of a Black Virginian.

"There are spirit and heart in the pages of this 'Romance of a Black Virginian,' and a cordial sympathy throughout that leave a tender memory behind. A pretty thread of a heart interest weaves in and out of the sterner stuff of the book, but the real love story is that of Old Squire for his adored 'Mahs Chahley,' and it is here that one's eyes grow moist and one's throat tight, for the pathos is true pathos and the tragedy unforced and sincere."—Independent. "This novel is written 'not to defend slavery,' but to do justice to the slave. It tells of a faithful slave whose attachment to his young master is truly pathetic. The character of the old man is exquisitely drawn, his native humor, his nonchalance and simple faith being cleverly brought out. The twin brothers, Morgans, are well conceived, and the love story of one of them is good. A book to be read."—Current Literature.

BINDLOSS, HAROLD.

The Cattle Baron's Daughter. A Novel. Illustrated by David Ericson.

The strife between the herdsmen and the homesteaders for possession of the plains is the basis for this exciting story. Intense interest is aroused by its pictures of life in the cattle country at the critical moment of transition when the great tracts of land used for grazing were taken up by the incoming homesteaders, with the inevitable result of fierce contest, of passionate emotion on both sides, and of the final triumph of the inevitable tendency of the times.

For Jacinta. With frontispiece in color by G. W. Wood.

The story of two men, one a plucky and forceful American, the other an Englishman of leisurely and artistic tastes, each influenced by a particular woman in a certain way. One of these women is the charming Jacinta. The two men go in quest of a sunken steamer, which lies in a lovely river in a forest on the West Coast of Africa, and is thought to contain a valuable cargo. The search for it takes the desperate adventurers ashore amid the perils of hostile savages, plague and starvation. The situations described are of the sort to temper men's nerves to a steely quality.

"A well-told and interesting story in which the character of Jacinta is the dominating one throughout. She is an attractive girl, with plenty of poise and determination, knows what she wants and how to get it."—Boston Transcript. "It is a pleasure to come upon a novel possessing so much genuine excellence and quality."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Winston of the Prairie. With frontispiece and cover in color by W. Herbert Dunton.

A man of upright character, young and clean, but badly worsted in the battle of life, consents as a desperate resort to impersonate for a period a man of his own age but of a scoundrelly type, though of an aristocratic and moneyed family. How he is barred from resuming his own name, how he comes into the other man's possessions, how he wins the respect of all men and the love of a delicately nurtured girl, is the thread upon which the story hangs. It is one of the best stories of the West that has appeared for years.

BLAKE, KATHERINE EVANS.

Hearts' Haven. With illustrations in colors by E. M. Ashe.

The author of this beautiful story maintains that the love of a man for a maid and the love of a parent for a child are the dominant motives of life, surviving the mutations of years, stronger than heredity, stronger than loyalty to a religious leader, never to be obliterated, even by fanaticism, and proving ultimately irresistible to the sane heart. The setting for the development of this poignant truth is the Rappite community of celibates at New Harmony in early Indiana. Seldom, indeed, have the conquering impulses of young love and the overriding instincts of parenthood been expressed with such searching tenderness and such intimate reality.

BLOSSOM, HENRY M., JR.

Checkers: A Hard Luck Story. With Scenes from the Play.

"'Checkers' is an interesting and entertaining chap; a distinct type, with a separate tongue and a way of saying things that is oddly humorous."—New York Recorder. "'Checkers' himself is a distinct creation, and his racy slang expresses a lively wit. The racing part is clever reporting and as horsey as one could ask."—Springfield Republican.

BONNER, GERALDINE.

Rich Men's Children. With illustrations by Charles M. Relyea.

An extremely absorbing romance of California in the bonanza days, dealing with the conflict of generations and the bold passions of the Far West. It is unique in plot, powerful in situations, graphic in style, and told with intense force. The dénouement is wonderfully well managed and the surprise is as complete as possible.

BOOTH, EDWARD C.

The Post Girl. With cover of striking beauty by Denman Fink.

It is as witty as it is wise, and its reading an education for the mind and the heart. "The Post Girl" is the dearest, most bewitching piece of quaintness and tenderness put into a book for many a long day. The New York Times says: "Fresh, original, delightful, absorbing. It is simply an illumination of life."

BRADY, CYRUS TOWNSEND.

A Little Traitor to the South: A War-time Comedy with a Tragic Interlude. With illustrations by A. D. Rahn, and decorations by C. E. Hooper.

"A Southern war story—the scene of which is Charleston and Charleston harbor. The girl and her two lovers are ardent Confederates and she only becomes a traitor inconsequentially. It is a charming story breathing the atmosphere of the quaint old town from which is gleaned an excellent conception of the spirit of her people."—Charleston Herald.

The Patriots: The Story of Lee and the Last Hope. With illustrations in colors by Walter H. Everett.

"Around Lee and the last hopes of the Confederacy revolves the romance. The appreciation of Lee is a great piece of literary work. It is vigorously written, is strong in delineation of character and vivid in picturing scenes."—Philadelphia Record. "An historical melodrama of much strength * * * stirring and full of dash."—Boston Herald.

BREBNER, PERCY.

The Princess Maritza. With illustrations in colors by Harrison Fisher.

"The hero is an English officer who turns his back on his country and dedicates his sword to the service of the King of Wallaria. This small but important state, supposed to stand for Servia or Bulgaria, since its affairs rivet the attention of all the European cabinets, has all the equipment of the novel of the type of 'The Prisoner of Zenda' or of 'Graustark.' It is full of life and incident, and makes particularly lively reading."—The Book Buyer.

Vayenne. With illustrations by E. Fuhr.

This romance, like "The Princess Maritza," is charged to the brim with adventure in which an unlawful successor to the Duchy of Montvilliers resorts to foul treachery to push his claim, but is outwitted by a young soldier of fortune and a court fool. Sword play, bloodshed, justice grown eloquent to sway the multitude, sacrifice and romance mingle in dramatic episodes that are born, flourish and pass away on every page.

ROUGHTON, RHODA.

Foes in Law.

A wonderful character study of two women, sisters-in-law, mentally antipathetic, yet ced to meet in daily association. The result, often humorous, sometimes tragic, creates eries of dramatic incidents of fascinating interest.

"If unwearied brilliancy of style, picturesque description, humorous and original dia- ue, and a keen insight into human nature can make a novel popular, there is no doubt atever that 'Foes in Law' will take a high place."—London Standard.

ROWN, ALICE.

Meadow-Grass: Tales of New England Life.

"Shows how rich one village among the New England hills is in the quiet, and, perhaps, ıost unnoticed vagaries of human life. It has a pathos that springs from its dignified uralness, and there is a quiet humor, which is deliciously captivating. * * * The stories full of tenderness, love and human sympathy."—Boston Herald. "Thoroughly wholesome l cheery, kindly in its humor, sweet and pleasant in sentiment, and fresh in interest."— ston Advertiser.

JRGESS, GELETT.

The Heart Line. Illustrated by Lester Ralph. Inlay cover in colors.

A great dramatic story of the city that was. A story of Bohemian life in San Fran- co, before the disaster, presented with mirror-like accuracy. Compressed into it are the sparkle, all the gayety, all the wild, whirling life of the glad, mad, bad, and most ightful city of the Golden Gate.

The realism of "The Heart Line" is startling and fearless. The author has staged dream to perfection, filled his stage with men and women who would fascinate any lience, and worked out an ingeniously contrived plot to an amazing climax.

A Little Sister of Destiny.

In this ingenious story an American heiress, with a spirit of adventure, becomes suc- sively a New York chorus girl, cashier, manicurist, artist's model, and maid-servant. . Burgess's opulent fancy is afforded ample opportunity in untangling the difficulties i love affairs of the various chapters. The reader is in the secret throughout and shares fun with the heroine. The story is novel, clever and entertaining.

JRNETT, FRANCES HODGSON.

The Making of a Marchioness. Illustrated with half-tone engravings by Charles D. Williams. With initial letters, tail-pieces, decorative borders. Beautifully printed, and daintily bound, and boxed.

A delightful novel in the author's most charming vein. The scene is laid in an English ıntry house, where an amiable English nobleman is the centre of matrimonial interest the part of both the English and Americans present. Graceful, sprightly, almost delicious its dialogue and action, it is a truly charming and entertaining little work. It comes in h dainty fashion that the reader is won almost before he reads a single line. The truth the matter is that Mrs. Burnett has done nothing more charming than "The Making a Marchioness." It is a book about which one is tempted to write ecstatically.

The Shuttle. With inlay cover in colors by Clarence F. Underwood.

This great international romance relates the story of a remarkable American girl who, rescuing her sister from the ruins of her marriage to an Englishman of title, displays endid qualities of courage, tact and restraint. As a study of American womanhood of ıdern times, the character of Bettina Vanderpoel stands alone in literature. As a love ry, the account of her experience is magnificent. The masterly handling, the glowing le of the book, give it a literary rank to which very few modern novels have attained.

URNHAM, CLARA LOUISE.

A Great Love.

"When Clara Louise Burnham writes a novel," says the Buffalo Times, "she accom- shes it with a fineness of detail, and a display of knowledge of the world and the people ıo inhabit it, that is altogether delightful. The notable feature of this talented woman's ırk is the consistency of her characters, for there is about each of her creations an in- viduality that is never lost sight of."

BURNHAM, CLARA LOUISE.—Continued.

Dr. Latimer.

A fresh, wholesome little story, the larger part of the scene of which is laid in Cas Bay. It details in fascinating fashion the struggles, trials and happy termination of all t afflictions of three most charming girls. Dr. Latimer is a very lovable character, and h entry into the lives of the Ivison girls is fraught with blessed consequences to them a the greedy reader. "The descriptions of lovely Casco Bay are colorful and vigorous enou for one to really feel the salt air's bracing effect."—Boston Transcript.

Jewel: A Chapter in Her Life. Illustrated by Maude and Genevieve Cowle

A sweet, dainty story, breathing the doctrine of love and patience and sweet nature a cheerfulness. Nobody can read it without feeling wonderfully touched and uplifted. S can never grow old because of the immortality of love she brings to mankind. Christia Science could hardly be more amiably presented than in this refined and delicately fashion story. The New York Times characterizes it as "one of those delightfully natural pictur of child life which have a charm for all readers."

Jewel's Story Book. With illustrations by Albert Schmitt.

Readers of "Jewel" will recall that she was left in charge of her grandfather whil her parents went to Europe, and that she completely won the hearts of him and all h household, as well as those of her readers. The present book sustains the standard set b the former, and brings Jewel's parents back to a happy homecoming.

The St. Paul Press says: "Is a sequel to 'Jewel.' One of the most successful storie in juvenile literature. The heroine is the sweetest of little maids, and the stories are thos especially written for her by her mother. Girls from twelve to sixteen will find it a mos interesting story book. And The New York Sun in a lengthy notice says: "The friend of Jewel will rejoice in the sequel."

Miss Pritchard's Wedding Trip: A Novel.

"Miss Pritchard's Wedding Trip" is a characteristic story in which a narrative of trave abroad and a love story are engagingly interwoven. * * * A story of continuous interest and has the delight of many surprises. The heroine is a New England spinster disappointe in an early love and requited in an original fashion. The man she loves dies and intrust to her his daughter, who so much resembles her father that the European trip on whic Miss Pritchard accompanies the girl assumes for her the semblance of the wedding journe she had long since planned to take with the girl's father. It is a pleasant fancy happil carried out.

CAINE, HALL.

The Christian. With Reproductions of Scenes from the Play.

High life and low life in the weltering Babylon of London does Mr. Caine portray Now we are in a great West-end hospital, where his heroine is a nurse; we follow her t a baby-farmer's; then we are led through the deeps of the "Halls"; to "Poverty Corner" i the Waterloo Road, whither lion comiques out of place do wend their way; become familia with agents' ways; frequent Soho clubs, where song and dance and drink are provided; the scenes through which Glory Quayle passes before she takes the town. Dresser at a burlesque theatre, society entertainer, mimic, singer, and, finally, leading lady at a theatre, where her will is law; she is all these by turn, and nothing long. At the very moment o her triumph she gives up all for love of John Storm, "the Christian."

The Eternal City.

The hero, David Rossi, is a twentieth-century Rienzi, whose dream is the glori-fication of Italy and of Rome. The monarchy is to be abolished, and there is to be a republic of perfect liberty, and working at its side a purely spiritual Papacy which shall make the Pope the arbiter of the world. Rome is once more to become a model and example for all the nations. The gospel therefore which David Rossi preaches is a sort of religious socialism, and the charter of the Republic of Man which he draws up is based purely and simply upon the Lord's Prayer.

"The 'Eternal City' will compare favorably with the greatest work in fiction of many seasons."—San Francisco Call. "Fascination is remorseless."—New York Times. "A story of the people's power * * * throbbing with emotion."—Phil. Item. "One of the strongest productions in fiction that the present age has been privileged to enjoy."—Phil. Press.

ASTLE, AGNES AND EGERTON.

Flower o' the Orange: and Other Tales of Bygone Days.

"Love, gallantry, devotion, sword-play—there is a sufficiency of these elements in the oup of tales. That they are cleverly done goes without saying, for the Castles are at me in this special field of fiction and can write a short story of the days of Stuart or noverian or Jacobite that is fully within its degree as any of the novels that have been work of their joint pens, and that is saying a good deal, for their novels are among most interesting examples of romantic fiction."—Brooklyn Eagle.

My Merry Rockhurst: Being some Episodes in the Life of Viscount Rockhurst, a friend of King Charles the Second, and at one time Constable of His Majesty's Tower of London. Illustrated by Arthur E. Becher.

"In these eight stories of a courtier of King Charles Second, which are here gathered ether, the Castles are at their best, reviving all the fragrant charm of those books, like he Pride of Jennico," in which they first showed an instinct, amounting to genius, for ny romances * * * The book is absorbing, and it is, into the bargain, as spontaneous feeling as it is artistic in execution."—New York Tribune.

The Pride of Jennico: Being a Memoir of Captain Basil Jennico.

"What separates it from most books of its class is its distinction of manner, its unual grace of diction, its delicacy of touch, and the fervent charm of its love passages. It a very attractive piece of romantic fiction relying for its effect upon character rather n incident, and upon vivid dramatic presentation."—The Dial. "A stirring, brilliant and shing story."—The Outlook. "A bewitching romance."—New York Tribune.

The Secret Orchard. With illustrations by Charles D. Williams.

"Artfully contrived and full of romantic charm * * * it possesses ingenuity of incident, mation of manner, and a diction of absolute touch and delicacy. The secret orchard is figurative designation of the unhallowed scenes in which unlicensed love accomplishes d wrecks faith and happiness."—London Athenæum.

Wroth.

A stirring story in the style for which the authors are famous. Ever since the Castles otured us with the "Pride of Jennico" we have grown to expect a great deal from them, d "Wroth" gives no ground for disappointment. The Philadelphia Ledger says: * * * here is a sweep in this story like the sweep of the open country; a vigor of youth. There power behind the tale."

ASTLE, EGERTON.

Young April. With illustrations by A. B. Wenzell.

"It is everything that a good romance should be, and it carries about it an air of disction both rare and delightful."—Chicago Tribune. "With regret one turns to the last ge of this delightful novel, so delicate in its romance, so brilliant in its episodes, so rkling in its art, and so exquisite in its diction."—Worcester Spy.

HAMBERLAIN, ESTHER AND LUCIA.

The Coast of Chance. With illustrations by Clarence F. Underwood, and reproduction on the cover of the famous Chatworth Ring.

"A book of intense interest, a most ingenious and startling story. Its wholly unexpected max, its uncommon love story, and its marked distinction should make it extremely pular. Just one good, interesting story, clean in word, and above all else alluring in stery."—The Bookman. "A story cleverly fabricated, clearly projected, closely knit, tile in conjecture, imperative in interest."—Milw. Free Press.

HAMBERLAIN, LUCIA.

The Other Side of the Door. With illustrations by Herman Pfiefer.

"Is unique in that it actually presents some situations new to fiction and makes the der's heart beat hard and fast."—Chicago Record-Herald. "Distinctly among the stories early San Francisco that are worth while. Forcefully told, with a charm and reminiscent ectness that capture the imagination."—San Francisco Argonaut. "Fascinates and enterns and delights."—Chicago Journal. "A really charming romance * * * has the icacy and charm of the blossom-time of the year."—Baltimore Sun.

CHAMBERS, ROBERT W.

Ashes of Empire: A Romance.

Two British journalists during the siege of Paris lodge at a shop kept by two pre convent-bred French girls. These girls aid the Empress in her escape from Paris a they became objects of suspicion to the Republican clubs of the neighborhood. How t Englishmen protect the girls from their enemies; how they share their danger; and ho through all the tumult and struggle they manage to fall in love with them is vigorou and sympathetically told. The most idyllic love scenes alternate with the booming cannon, the uproar of street riots, and midnight assassins. The story, indeed, stands itself, but its historical setting is finely wrought out. Some of the descriptions of t scenes and events of that time will be remembered; the work is altogether a memorable o

The Firing Line.

A story of society life with a strong love interest showing the pitfalls and dange which beset young men and women in the exotic society of rich Americans. From t vivid opening of the first chapter to the vivid closing of the last, there is no moment wh character is not being tested in the crucible of circumstances. * * * It is a wa full-blooded tale of American life and love.

The New York Sun says: "There is no more adorable person in recent fiction th Sylvia Landis"; and The Boston Transcript remarks: "There rarely has been collected any story such a fascinating company as those who take part in the battle of love 'The Firing Line.'"

The Reckoning. With illustrations by Henry Hutt.

Mr. Chambers has surpassed himself in telling the tale of the love of Carus Rena and Lady Elsin Grey in this historical novel of the last days of the Revolutionary W Never was there daintier heroine or more daring hero. Never did the honor of a gre hearted gentleman triumph to such an extent over the man. Never were there dainti love passages in the midst of war. It is a book to make the pulses throb and the heart b high. "It is an exceedingly fine specimen of its class, worthy of its predecessors and a j to all who like plenty of swing and spirit."—London Bookman.

CHURCHILL, WINSTON.

The Celebrity: An Episode.

"No such piece of inimitable comedy in a literary way has appeared for years. It the purest, keenest fun."—Inter-Ocean. "A delightfully entertaining novel."—Bost Courier. "The most effervescent and refreshing bit of amusement possible * * the most delightful surprise to the usual novel reader."—New Orleans Times-Democr "A humorously sensational novel of a rather unusual kind, decidedly original and ente taining, and one of the best pieces of construction that has appeared in a long while. * * An altogether clever and out-of-the way sort of book."—Philadelphia Evening Telegra "A clever achievement * * * adorned with a portrait or two more living than me pen-work. Most notable of these is that of the Western magnate and turfman, who is st prisingly possible, although at once unbearable and a good fellow."—The Nation.

The Crisis. With illustrations by Howard Chandler Christy.

"A book that presents the great crisis in our national life with splendid power a with a sympathy, a sincerity, and a patriotism that are inspiring. The several scenes the book in which Abraham Lincoln figures must be read in their entirety, for they gi a picture of that great, magnetic, lovable man, which has been drawn with evident affecti and exceptional success."—Chicago Tribune. "Has elements of originality and power and profoundly interesting. It possesses the great quality of interpreting American life from intelligent American point of view—a process rarer than most people think."—The Outloo

The Crossing. With illustrations by Sydney Adamson and Lillian Bayli

"A well-planned, well-constructed and well-written novel. It describes the batt of Fort Moultrie and the British fleet in the harbor of Charleston, the blazing of t Kentucky wilderness, the expedition of Clark and his handful of dauntless followers in Illinois, the beginnings of civilization along the Ohio and the Mississippi, and the treaso able schemes builded against Washington and the Federal Government by the dissatisfi politicians of the frontier. In the course of the narrative the reader is brought face to fa with all the historical characters of the land and period."—The Bookman.

LOUSTON, J. STORER.

The Lunatic at Large. With illustrations by Latimer J. Wilson.

A young physician is given an opportunity to travel with a lunatic. He does not ıcy the job, but the fee is alluring, and he takes the lunatic to a private asylum, and th a confederate impersonating the patient, he goes for a good time on the Continent. ıe real lunatic escapes from the asylum, and it is with his adventures that the book is ıcerned. There is a love story that helps to complicate matters, and the final unraveling the curious web of deception is eminently satisfactory.

ORELLI, MARIE.

Barabbas: A Dream of the World's Tragedy.

Power, grandeur, authority and truth are expressed in this great Scriptural novel in ıich all the most important characters in Biblical history are introduced. It deals with ; events grouped about the ministry of Christ in Judea and includes pen pictures of many the famous incidents referred to in the Four Gospels. One of the principal characters the book is Judith Iscariot, with whom Barabbas is in love.

The Master Christian. New edition.

In vigor of style, in boldness of conception, in tenderness and pathos, and in its wide peal, "The Master Christian" presents features of extraordinary interest. It is im- ssible to sketch the outline of this romance, and it is enough to say that it deals with great problems of humanity and religion, the eternal struggle between the spirit and flesh. An allegory of striking beauty runs through the book.

The Sorrows of Satan; Or, The Strange Experience of One Geoffrey Tempest, Millionaire. With a frontispiece.

Geoffrey Tempest, a starving literary hack in London, suddenly finds himself heir to unaccountable estate of five millions. He makes the acquaintance of Lucio Rimanez, d he marries Sibyl Eaton, the daughter of a nobleman, who tells him that "she, like the unmarried women in her sphere, was for sale to the highest bidder." Their mar- d life was short and unhappy. She ends her life by poison, but not before discovering ıt Lucio, with whom she was passionately in love, was Satan himself. How Geoffrey capes paying the penalty of his dalliance with Satan the book tells. One of the characters the story, Mavis Clare, is supposed to be a pen portrait of the author's self.

The Soul of Lilith. With a frontispiece by E. B. Starkweather.

"A psychological and theosophical story dealing with the return to earth of a disembodied irit. The dominant characteristic of this strange and striking book is its poetic quality * * Passages of a psalm-like dignity and melody are of frequent occurrence; happy taphor and brilliant illustration spring readily to hand. A keen sense of beauty and inement in the choice of language, and a complete mastery of the writer's technique are ıstant qualities in the work."—Literary World.

Temporal Power: A Study in Supremacy. With a Special Preface to American Readers.

"Miss Corelli announced this as her greatest book. It is Marie Corelli at her most aracteristic."—Public Opinion. "The tale is told with genuine power."—Philadelphia cord. "Numerous vivid descriptions and much interesting knowledge of human nature." The Critic. "That Marie Corelli has the gift to write powerfully, forcibly, masterfully, no e can deny after reading 'Temporal Power.'"—Current Literature.

RADDOCK, CHARLES EGBERT.

A Spectre of Power.

Miss Murfree's welcome is always assured. She has pictured the Tennessee mountains d the mountain people in striking colors and with dramatic vividness, but goes back to the ıe of the struggles of the French and English in the early eighteenth century for posses- ın of the Cherokee territory. The story abounds in adventure, mystery, peril and suspense.

The Storm Centre: A Novel.

A war story; but more of flirtation, love and courtship than of fighting or history. The e is thoroughly readable and takes its readers again into golden Tennessee, into the nosphere which has distinguished all of Miss Murfree's novels.

CRAWFORD, F. MARION.

Saracinesca.

"His highest achievement. It has two distinct merits, either of which would serve make it great—that of telling a perfect story in a perfect way, and of giving a graph picture of Roman society in the last days of the Pope's temporal power."—Boston Travele

Sant Ilario: A sequel to Saracinesca.

"A singularly powerful and beautiful story, admirably developed, with a naturalne beyond praise, fulfilling every requirement of artistic fiction."—New York Tribune.

Don Orsino: A sequel to Sant Ilario.

"The third in a remarkable series of novels dealing with three generations of the Sar cinesca family. * * * These novels present an important study of Italian life, customs, ar conditions during the present century. Each is worthy of very careful reading and offe exceptional enjoyment in many ways, in the fascinating absorption of good fiction, in t interest of faithful historic accuracy, and in charm of style. The 'new Italy' is striking revealed in 'Don Orsino.'"—Boston Journal.

Fair Margaret. With illustrations by Horace I. Carpenter.

Tells the story of Margaret Donne, the beautiful and fascinating English girl, who wonderful voice carries her to world-wide triumph as Margarita da Cordova, the greate diva of the age. In protraying the character of this charming girl the author has displaye the skill in plot construction for which he is famous, and "Fair Margaret" is one of his mo engaging characters. The characters are of all nationalities, and the atmosphere is so cosm politan that the book has been classed as one of the "international novels."

The Heart of Rome: A Tale of the Lost Water.

"As richly colored and as elaborately broidered as some rare piece of tapestry."—Lond Literary World. "Warm, vivid and dramatic."—Brooklyn Eagle.

DICKSON, HARRIS.

She That Hesitates. With illustrations by C. M. Relyea.

The scene of this dashing romance shifts from Dresden to St. Petersburg in the rei of Peter the Great, and then to New Orleans. The hero is a French soldier of fortun as brave a blade as ever rode through fiction. And the Princess who hesitates—but y must read the story to know how she that hesitates may be lost and yet saved. "A splend story of adventure, written with artistic restraint."—New York Sun.

DILLON, MARY.

In Old Bellaire. With illustrations by C. M. Relyea.

A story of wonderful charm, told with a vivacity and skill that captivate the read and hold him enthralled to the end. The author has scored a decided success, and will place her on a yet more exalted level than "The Rose of Old St. Louis," which was warmly received by an appreciative public.

The Rose of Old St. Louis. With illustrations by Andre Castaigne an C. M. Relyea.

"It is a genuine love-story * * * Full of incident * * * The author has done h work in a delightful fashion, blending the historical and the romantic so deftly that ea helps the other to the working out of a complete and satisfying impression."—The Examine "A love-story, strong, thrilling, and fine; and the dainty Pelagie, with the hero whose nam she whispers, will be found sufficient to the interest of any reader with a heart for wooin and winnings."—New York World.

DIX, BEULAH MARIE.

The Fair Maid of Graystones.

Miss Dix has made peculiarly her own the period of Cavalier and Roundhead. "T Fair Maid of Graystones" is an example of her subtle art, direct, graphic, almost unique innocent of dialect or technicality, pure and vigorous in style. It is full of a faithful, ge erous and sympathetic knowledge of life in an old English countryside just after the su render of the Cavalier stronghold of Colchester to the Parliamentary forces in 1648.

DIXON, THOMAS, JR.

The Leopard's Spots. A story of the White Man's Burden. 1865-190 With illustrations by C. D. Williams.

The epic of the South; portraying in a most graphic manner the dramatic events Destruction, Reconstruction and Upbuilding. The work is able and eloquent, and t verifiable events of history are followed closely in the development of a story full struggle. The love element that runs through the story is skilfully handled. It has be called the "most noteworthy book of recent years."

The Clansman. With illustrations by Arthur I. Keller.

A novel with a great deal to it, and which very properly is going to interest ma thousands of readers. In his pictures of the fearful condition of a certain part of t South during the Reconstruction period, under the domination of negroes and carpe baggers, Mr. Dixon is undoubtedly writing with great sincerity, candor, even self-restrai It is a big subject to him, something very near to his heart and through it all there the ring of truth and honesty and hot-eyed indignation.

In "The Clansman," as in "The Leopard's Spots," there is hardly an incident of historical nature that is not based on actual fact.

The Traitor. A Story of the Fall of the Invisible Empire. With illustrations by C. D. Williams.

"The Clansman" ended with the political triumph of the Klu Klux Klan, an Invisible npire. "The Traitor" the scene of which is laid in North Carolina (the closing volume of remarkable trilogy of novels relating to Reconstruction), deals with the Secret Service ganization; and is a thrilling story of love, adventure and treason.

The One Woman. A story of Modern Utopia.

A story with the divorce problem, but as well, a love story and character study of ree strong men and two fascinating women. The hero is a popular preacher and a cialist, who abandons Church and family in his infatuation for a Venus-like charmer th millions who builds a Temple for her "affinity." Nemesis lands the shattered idol in ibo for killing his rival. The Philadelphia Public Ledger says: "Even if it is exasperating, u will decide that it is a great book."

OUGLAS, HUDSON.

A Million a Minute. With illustrations by Will Grefé.

The scene is laid partially in New York City and in Paris, both places being vividly d accurately described. It is full of thrills and heart-throbs. It is a dainty love yarn, volving three men and a girl, with not a dull or trite situation in the book.

The mechanism of the plot is unusually clever and well concealed, and its development cidedly unique and absorbing."—Chicago Record-Herald. "The plot is the best thing out the story and does not reveal the significance of the title of the book until the closing apter, and one must remain in ignorance to enjoy the full benefit of the climax."—Louisle Times.

OYLE, A. CONAN.

The Hound of the Baskervilles. Another Adventure of Sherlock Holmes. With illustrations by Sidney Paget.

Dr. Doyle has provided a criminal who, as Mr. Holmes admitted, is indeed a foeman orthy of his steel. Hitherto he has found it comparatively easy to unmask his antagonists. ut in this case he finds himself checkmated again and again. There is pitted against him skill nearly equal to his own, and he wins the game almost by a hair. The reader may ve a suspicion as to the identity of the man who has contrived the murderous plot; but e motive of the murder is baffling almost to the end, and the mystery of the Hound is explicable until the beast is actually on the scene.

Tales of Sherlock Holmes. With illustrations.

A collection of the best known "adventures" as those thrilling detective stories have en termed. Dr. Holmes tells us that his literary recognition began with "The Study in arlet," and this was followed by "The Sign of the Four," when a writer of real merit is welcomed. Beside these—the longest and most important and most absorbing of all s stories—the volume contains "A Case of Identity," "A Scandal in Bohemia," and others.

The Return of Sherlock Holmes.

In response to the urgent demands of a multitude of readers to whom Holmes had come the most interesting personage in fiction, Dr. Doyle was compelled to bring him ck to life, which he has done in "The Return of Sherlock Holmes" * * * The thirteen ories are marked with the fertility and ingenuity of imagination characteristic of the evious writings that exploit the doings of the solver of seemingly impenetrable secrets crime, and the literary style is of that clearness and directness that have become asso-ated with the name of Sir Conan.

REISER, THEODORE.

Sister Carrie. With a frontispiece, and wrapper in color.

A terrible, truthful, pitiless picture of the tragedy of two human souls.

"There is more tonic value in Sister Carrie than in a whole shelf full of sermons."—The ookman. "Sister Carrie is a novel of solid merit and genuine documentary value and serves success. Whilst large, dignified and generous, the scheme of the story here is not etentious, or complex, or ambitious. It is a very plain tale of a plain though eventful e. Between its covers no single note of unreality is struck."—The London Athenæum.

DUNCAN, NORMAN.

Doctor Luke of the Labrador. With a frontispiece and inlay cover.

How the doctor came to the bleak Labrador coast and there in saving life made ex piation. In dignity, simplicity, humor, in sympathetic etching of a sturdy fisher people Doctor Luke is worthy of great praise. Character, humor, poignant pathos, and the sa grotesque conjunctions of old and new civilizations are expressed through the medium o a style that has distinction and strikes a note of rare personality.

EGGLESTON, EDWARD.

The Hoosier Schoolmaster: A Story of Backwoods Life in Indiana. Re vised, with an introduction and notes on the District by the author, with Character sketches by F. Opper and other illustrations by W. E. B Starkweather.

Racy with Western primitive life, and ranks among the classics of American literature "The Hoosier Schoolmaster" was the earliest of the dialect stories—the folk speech o the southern part of Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois of nearly sixty years ago. It depicted th old Western life with essential truth—and this explains its long continued popularity.

EGGLESTON, GEORGE CARY.

A Daughter of the South. Illustrated by E. Pollak, and decorated cover

One of the best novels of the South that has been written. Charming in its portraya of those qualities in human nature which are the best heritage of the race—a love story a sweet and pure as any one could wish.

"Here is a pleasant, readable story, simply and smoothly written, high in tone, full o action, containing vivid pictures of war's terrible effects, relieved by warm human sympath and the happily ending love episode."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Dorothy South: A Love Story of Virginia Just Before the War. With illustrations by C. D. Williams.

"No writer in the score and more of novelists now exploiting the Southern field can for a moment, compare in truth and interest to Mr. Eggleston. He is to-day the single novelist who writes of the Virginias and Carolinas as they really were before the war between the States. We see the planter as he was. We are taken into the life of the people. We are shown the hearts of men and women. Light and shade are skilfully handled. Characters are clearly drawn, and incidents are skilfully presented."—Baltimore Sun.

Evelyn Byrd. With illustrations by Charles Copeland.

In this, the third of the romances of the Civil War, the story is told of a high-minded and courageous Southerner, Kilgariff, who joins the army of Lee. "Dorothy South" and other characters endeared to the readers of Mr. Eggleston's previous novels appear again as the friends and advisers of Kilgariff, who is, himself, the embodiment of Southern daring and chivalry.

"It describes the events preceding the fall of the Confederacy, and introduces large elements in commerce and finance. The heroine is an appealing character, a girl of many and varied adventures, throughout which she preserves a sweetness and simplicity of character seldom found in modern romance. The war scenes are particularly well done."—The Dial.

Love Is the Sum of It All. With illustrations by Hermann Heyer.

In this "plantation romance" Mr. Eggleston resumes the manner and method that made his "Dorothy South" one of the most famous books of its time.

"Love Is the Sum of It All" is first and last and all the time a romance of love and high purpose. There are two—even three—tender love stories embodied in it. There are two unusually interesting heroines, utterly unlike each other, but each possessed of a peculiar fascination which wins and holds the reader's sympathy, but the "sum of it all" is the intensely sympathetic love story.

The Master of Warlock: A Virginia War Story. Illustrated by C. D. Williams.

"Like the other stories, this one is ideal in its purity of sentiment, and presents a Southern woman's character at a trying period in a beautiful light. Life in old Virginia is reproduced with fidelity. Adventure and tender love are skilfully intermingled. The soldiers in it are drawn with a masculine hand, but the same hand also depicts the tenderness and mystery of a true woman's heart."—Louisville Courier Journal.

ELDRIDGE, WILLIAM TILLINGHAST.

Hilma. With illustrations by Harrison Fisher and Martin Justice, and beautiful inlay cover in colors by Fisher.

It is a rattling good tale, written with charm, and full of remarkable happenings, dangerous doings, strange events, jealous intrigues and sweet love making. The reader's interest is not permitted to lag, but is taken up and carried on from incident to incident with ingenuity and contagious enthusiasm. The story gives us the "Graustark" and "The Prisoner of Zenda" thrill, but the tale is treated with freshness, ingenuity and enthusiasm, and the climax is both unique and satisfying. It is written with charm and will hold the fiction lover close to every page. Hilma is, all in all, an out and out good story, and admirably told.

ELLIS, ELIZABETH.

Barbara Winslow, Rebel. With illustrations by John Rae, and striking colored inlay cover.

A tale of adventure and romance; a heroine bewitching and vivacious; one whose courage was no less than her sweet womanliness.

The following taken from the story, will best describe the heroine: A TOAST: "To the bravest comrade in misfortune, the sweetest companion in peace and at all times the most courageous of women—Barbara Winslow." "A frankly romantic story, buoyant, eventful and in matters of love exactly what the heart could desire."—New York Sun.

EVANS, AUGUSTA J.

St. Elmo. With eight full-page illustrations specially drawn for this edition by Culmer E. Barnes.

"With the exception of 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' and 'Ben Hur' there has probably never been a novel written by an American author that has so endeared itself to the reading public. Not a line of it was penned that was not inspired by sincerity and belief in lofty ideals. It has done much to brighten the lives of hundreds of thousands of readers * * * It is a noble work, the work of a noble woman."—The Bookman.

EYRE, ARCHIBALD.

The Girl in Waiting.

A father is so overcome with dining too well that when he and his daughter are landed on the steps to their house she is powerless to move him further. Along comes a young man who proffers assistance, and puts himself into action by breaking into the basement window of the house. Just then the girl discovers the key, and the father is carried within just as the amiable young man is learning that he has broken into someone else's house and is arrested for burglary. This is the beginning of the acquaintance. It continues through a whole series of similar crimes without the intention of criminality, until the series of accidents close with the young man and the young lady on the high road to matrimony. The story is full of delightful wit, and the humor of the situations, some of which are worthy of Stevenson or Stockton, is highly enjoyable. The book closes with the anticipation of a wedding.

FIELD, EDWARD SALISBURY.

A Six-Cylinder Courtship. With a color frontispiece by Harrison Fisher, and illustrations by Clarence F. Underwood, decorated pages and end sheets. Harrison Fisher head in four colors on cover. Each book in box.

One of the most captivating and enchanting of love stories. The scene is laid in New York, among modern and up-to-date people. The humor is piquant and the action is of the rapid type that carries the reader with a rush. The story relates the masquerading for Love's sweet sake of a wealthy bachelor, who is mistaken by a charming girl for a professional chauffeur, and who jumps at the chance of carrying on the impersonation in order to enjoy her company. The theme leads to some exciting situations; and the story is very entertainingly told. What the author has so delightfully written has been artistically pictured by Harrison Fisher and the result of the collaboration is a very dainty and fetching volume.

FORD, PAUL LEICESTER.

The Honorable Peter Stirling. And What People Thought of Him.

"One of the strongest and most vital characters that have appeared in our fiction * * * A very charming love story."—The Dial. "Telling scenes and descriptions of political organization, all of which are literal transcripts of life and fact * * *. In the use of dramatic possibilities, Mr. Ford is discreet and natural, and without giving Stirling a heroic pose, manages to win for him very hearty sympathy and belief."—The Nation.

FORD, PAUL LEICESTER.—Continued.

Janice Meredith: A Story of the Revolution. With Colored Frontispiece and colored inlay cover.

"Janice is one of the most lovable and interesting figures in modern fiction."—New York Sun. "An historical novel of very high rank. Few female characters in recent fiction can compare with Janice Meredith in naturalness and charm. Despite her great beauty she is modest, sincere and unaffected. In all the trying situations of the story she remains the lovable and warm-hearted girl we would have her be."—Booklovers' Magazine.

The Story of an Untold Love.

"The unconventional purity and sweetness of the story are singularly striking. Never has a hero given a more perfect portrait of himself to the world in the wholesome spirit of humility * * *. A delightful note of purity and adoration characterizes every page."—Boston Herald. "A genuine love story, simply and plainly written."—London Athenæum.

FRAZER, MRS. HUGH.

The Custom of the Country: Tales of New Japan.

"Reflects in graphic and colorful phrases each passing phase of life, as it stamped itself on a receptive mind. Charming pen pictures of the country are diversified by delightful character sketches."—Boston Transcript. "Her book is full of charm and freshness * * * A welcome and inspiring book."—The Book Buyer.

FREDERIC, HAROLD.

The Market Place. With illustrations by Harrison Fisher.

"A strong story of finance and business for men, and of social struggles and English country life for women. The book is unquestionably both strong and interesting."—The Dial. "A strong and interesting story."—Chicago Post. "Combines power in its plan and portrayal of character with a literary style that is uniformly enjoyable."—Phila. Press.

FULLER, ROBERT H.

The Golden Hope: A Story of the Time of Alexander the Great.

Among stories that help to recreate the classic past this tale of the times of Alexander the Great will take an honorable place. The pictures of the life in democratic Athens, the loves of Clearchus and Artemesia, of Thais and Chares, and the stirring scenes incident to Alexander's conquest of the East are told with a vigor and sympathy that make the dead ashes of history glow into living flame. The book riots with color, adventure and the romance that for so long have surrounded his name. The scenes and events follow the historical narrative accurately and offer a series of vivid pictures of the time without any wearisome descriptions.

GALE, ZONA.

The Loves of Pelleas and Etarre.

The author of "Friendship Village" gives us a unique book, and it does not seem rash to prophesy that it will take a place of its own in our literature. Because Pelleas and Etarre after their fifty years of married life are still so completely in love with each other, they are also in love with the whole world, and it is this spirit that keeps them perennially young. The whole book is strong with the quiet power of true love.

"This delightful novel of lovers of seventy-odd, who believe that 'every soul should die rich, if it's anything of a soul,' is certainly a most original and beautiful book. Nothing for a long time has approached it in the charm of its ideals."—Brooklyn Eagle. "To all who know the hidden sources of human joy and have neither grown old in cynicism nor gray in utilitarianism, Miss Gale's charming love stories, full of fresh feeling and grace of style, will be a draught from the fountain of youth."—Outlook.

Romance Island. With illustrations by Hermann C. Wall.

An island of pure romance supposed to lay in the South Pacific, where all knowledge and all languages belonged to the people, and where marvelous things were constantly happening. Two charming love affairs, which are admirably handled, a vein of piquant sentiment and a style of unmatched grace unite to make this story a golden nugget among novels. The characters are well drawn and remind one of "Graustark."

GALLIZIER, NATHAN.

The Sorceress of Rome.

"For downright adventure, intrigue and love, few romances present more dramatic possibilities than 'The Sorceress of Rome.' The style is brilliant and the story is exciting."—Boston Globe. "A splendid bit of old Roman mosaic, or a gorgeous piece of tapestry. Otto is a striking and pathetic figure. Description of the city, the gorgeous ceremonials of the court and the revels are a series of wonderful pictures."—Cincinnati Enquirer. "There is color, there is sumptuous word-painting in these pages; the action is terrific at times; vividness and life are in every part; brilliant descriptions entertain the reader; mystic scenes and prophecies give a singular fascination to the tale, which is strong and forceful in its portrayal."—Chicago Record-Herald.

GARLAND, HAMLIN.

The Captain of the Gray-Horse Troop.

"Mr. Garland is at his best in 'The Captain of the Gray Horse.' Strong, direct, dramatic, with the human touch that rings true to historical fact. There is life in it, and human nature, and the still primitive West, which its author knows and interprets so well. Youth, beauty and love: these form the trinity upon which the romance is founded."—The Book Buyer. "A well-informed book that is good to read, and is likely to prove an effective ally in the work of dealing justly with the Indians."—Review of Reviews.

Her Mountain Lover. With a Frontispiece.

"The story of a Colorado prospector who goes to London with a mine to sell. He invades society, shocks it, amuses it, and is lionized by it, but returns to America, his mine unsold, discouraged and homesick. The mine increases in value while he is away, and the story ends with his winning the love of a charming American girl. It is a story picture of the contrasts."—The Dial.

Hesper.

The love story of a gently-bred girl, Ann Rupert, who is brought into association with resolute men—miners and ranchers. A strike, high up on the mountain peak, makes a thrilling background for the wooing of Ann—a fascinating love episode. Life in a mountain mining camp is described as it never has been before. A work of remarkable realism and dramatic intensity.

GAY, MAUDE CLARK.

The Knitting of the Souls: A Romance of Seventeenth Century Boston. With illustrations by Frank T. Merrill.

"While Virginia and its neighboring States have been so freely drawn upon in the field of Colonial fiction, the impressive early history of Boston has remained undeveloped by novelists of sufficient power, with the exception of Hawthorne, to do it justice. Maude Clark Gay has found here a triumphant opportunity, and her book will at once take rank with the strongest American fiction of recent years, and is in a number of respects worthy the high claim of being better than any previous Colonial novel."—New York Times.

GEORGE, HENRY, JR.

The Romance of John Bainbridge.

"A book of first-rate interest and importance. It is written forcefully and brilliantly * * * as a picture of present-day conditions, it is a remarkable piece of description and analysis."—Prof. Franklin Giddings, of Columbia University. "Its chief value is in its vivid portrayal of the means by which men have acquired vast wealth, and the use they have made of it in controlling legislation, press, university and pulpit."—The Congregationalist. "It is the most important contribution to the vital, social, political and economic literature of America that has appeared within the past year—a book no friend of republican government can afford to ignore."—The Arena.

GIBSON, CHARLES D.

My Lady and Allan Darke.

An exciting tale of early plantation days in Virginia, brightly written, with an undercurrent of dainty romance.

A delightful love story with a wilful but yet a most winsome womanly heroine. There is a cleverly concealed mystery in this thrilling plot unguessed to the end.

GLYN, ELINOR.

Elizabeth Visits America.

In transporting her Elizabeth, now the Marchioness of Valmond, into the American "smart set," Mrs. Glyn has a subject to her hand, and she treats it with characteristic levity and incisiveness. Elizabeth has had a tiff with her husband, and flown to the arms of her great-aunt Maria. She finds the old lady on the point of starting upon a "second honeymoon" in an automobile on the Continent, joins the expedition, and from this peripatetic beginning is whisked across the Atlantic upon an extended American tour. At the end of the book her husband tracks her out, explains the misunderstanding, and the couple rush into each other's embrace, "perfectly incoherent with passionate joy." The gist of the book lies between these two poles, and consists of Elizabeth's letters to her mother describing her experiences. The well-known vivaciousness and tantalizing charm have not lessened, while the crisp sketches of types and manners are as artless and as humorous as ever.

GOODWIN, MAUD WILDER.

Four Roads to Paradise. With illustrations by Arthur Keller.

"The Four Roads (Fame, Money, Influence, and Love) should make its way without pushing, if excellence counts for anything in literature. Here is a book which will hold the interest with its epigrams and clever conversations, and is bristling with telling phrases * * * Mrs. Goodwin uses her local color lavishly and skilfully."—The Book Buyer.

GOSS, CHARLES FREDERICK.

The Redemption of David Corson: A Story of Temptation.

Dr. Goss deals skilfully with some of the elemental emotions—love, jealousy, doubt, sin, fear, remorse—and uses only a few colors on his palette. Yet he draws a bold, strong picture—he actually paints a soul. The book is a perfect piece of art.

The Boston Traveler says: "* * * For high purpose, distinct aim, earnestness, human interest and appreciation of nature, we cannot recall any recent novel which is its equal." The Interior says: "* * * This is a book that is worth while. Though it tells of weakness and wickedness, of love and license, of revenge and remorse in an intensely interesting way, yet it is above all else a clean and pure story."

GREEN, ANNA KATHARINE.

The Filigree Ball: Being a true account of the solution of the mystery surrounding the Jeffrey-Moore affair. Illustrated by C. M. Relyea.

Mrs. Green's latest and one of her very best stories of mystery. A bride is found lying shot through the heart—the third mysterious death in the uninhabited, ill-reputed Moore House. Mrs. Green develops the situation clue by clue, step by step, cleverly keeping the suspense and mystery intact until the surprising discoveries which precede the end. The story is clean-cut and wholesome, with a quality that might be called manly.

The Forsaken Inn. With illustrations by V. Perard.

Edwin Urquhart is loved by two sisters, and marries the elder one, who carries the purse. Her he takes on a bridal tour, and they stop at the "Happy-Go-Lucky-Inn," a hostelry situated near Albany in the pre-Revolutionary period. The husband insists on occupying a dingy apartment known as the "Oak Parlor," which contained a secret chamber, not known even to the hostess. The bride of four hours is murdered and buried in this secret room, and the crime is discovered by the merest accident some sixteen years thereafter. Who was the lady that went away with the bridegroom, and how was the substitution effected? The mystery is complete, ingenious, exciting, full of unexpected and puzzling developments, and works steadily up to a stirring climax.

The Mayor's Wife. With illustrations by Alice Barber Stephens, and an inlay cover picture by Clarence F. Underwood.

It is a detective story without a detective, but it is none the less entertaining because of the absence of that irrepressible official.

The great constructor of mysteries has here with infinite deftness woven one of her most alluring plots. The story seems to come toward the reader from the page and take hold of him in its compelling grip. The suspense is increased from chapter to chapter, and the solution, awaited with breathless interest, is not given till the very end. "The best novel Anna Katharine Green has written."—Chicago Record-Herald.

HAGGARD, H. RIDER.

Ayesha: The Return of She. With illustrations.

"The imagery and realistic picture building of the story is superb; its originality of charm undoubted."—London Bookman.

"One of the weirdest and most thrilling stories ever written."—London Daily News. "It can and does do what no other writer now living can do; it creates a fairy world of passion and romance so vivid as to be almost real."—London Graphic.

HAMILTON, CECILY.

Diana of Dobson's. With a frontispiece.

A London shop-girl of beauty, ambition and talent unexpectedly falls heir to £300. and decides for just one month to know what a life of fashion and luxury really means, and during this month, while masquerading as a rich widow, meets a man who incidentally teaches her some unexpected depths in her nature. "Diana of Dobson's" is a love story of unusual charm, unusual interest and unusual originality. It is an excellent lesson in self-reliance, a pathetic picture of a splendid struggle and an unexpected surprise, as refreshing as it is unconventional. "It's something genuinely new in the way of a story."—New York Times. "As refreshing as a splendid breeze on a sunny hillside."—Phila. Press.

HARLAND, HENRY.

The Cardinal's Snuff Box.

"It's a book to enjoy and to praise."—New York Tribune. "A book among a thousand."—New York Times. "One of the prettiest of love stories."—The Outlook. "So happily flavored with witty and brilliant conversation, and so full of charm in its love avowals, that it is truly irresistible. Altogether, it is one of the most refreshing love stories of modern fiction."—St. Paul Press. "Full of sunshine and sparkle."—New York Sun.

My Friend Prospero.

The scene is laid in an Austrian castle in north Italy, and that serves as the background for the working out of a love story between a heroine who is brilliant and beautiful and a hero who is quite her match in cleverness and wit.

"It is a novel of light * * * He uses words as if they were jewels—their light shine, their colors sparkle. A story so sweet, so pure, so bright, so full of life and laughter is delicious and merits a wide popularity."—New York Eve. Post.

HARTE, BRET.

The Luck of Roaring Camp. And Other Sketches.

"'The Luck' established Bret Harte's reputation, and contains some of his very best stories. Bret Harte and California will always be inseparable. He wrote the early history of the region in a way that will always remain."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Tales of the Argonauts.

Bret Harte is a story teller whose genius has been recognized throughout the English speaking world. His California tales, beyond their interest as works of fiction, have an historical value in giving the best picture in all our literature of the conditions of life in the far West fifty years ago. In his artistic and vivid portrayal of a form of life in this country which has passed away, Bret Harte has rendered a unique service to American literature.

Three Partners; or, the Big Strike on Heavy Tree Hill.

"Bret Harte has depicted pioneer life and pioneer character in California with a master hand. The writer saw all that was grotesque, incongruous and picturesque in the rough miners and their surroundings, but he did not stop there. He looked into the soul of things with poetic insight, and interpreted the inner spirit of the times with absolute fidelity and with the most felicitous coloring."—Chicago Journal.

HAZELTON, GEORGE C., JR.

Mistress Nell: A Merry Tale of a Merry Time. With a rare frontispiece portrait of Nell Gwyn in duotone, after the painting by Sir Peter Lely.

A story of the famous Nell Gwyn and King Charles II, and the most scandalous court which England has seen. The merry and open-hearted "Nell" was faithful to Charles, and mindful of old friends, and a liberal patroness of the poets Dryden, Otway and Butler. The talented actress Miss Henrietta Crosman made a great success of the play.

HEMING, ARTHUR.

Spirit Lake. With illustrations.

Quick, compacted, wonderfully powerful and realistic stories of the Indian fur traders in the fox-hunting country of the Far Northwest. These legends of the good and evil spirits roaming the hillside forests are saturated with the spirit of the genuine Indian point of view and are described with all the dramatic force of a complete and intimate knowledge. Read the first, and the succeeding stories clamor to be read, one directly after another. An additional charm lies in the twenty-four spirited illustrations by Mr. Heming which, in a fashion all their own, illuminate and supplement the pen pictures of the author.

HERRICK, ROBERT.

The Memoirs of an American Citizen. Copiously illustrated.

"Paints the portrait of a Chicago pork-packer who, from the first, had no scruples to lose. His steady nerves were never shaken by the constant expectation of dishonor. Publicity for this resourceful hero always meant ruin, but at the critical moment he never failed to buy a fresh lease of secrecy. Success never seemed more unlovely, but it is still success, and this time justice is hopelessly beaten in the race."—The Nation. "In the qualities of truth and vitality it takes high rank."—The Dial.

The Common Lot.

"A strong piece of work, such as few of our novelists could hope to equal. It has much variety of character and scene, almost photographic observation, and it has many interesting incidents of secondary importance; but its chief virtue is to be found in the impressiveness with which it presents the ethical problem and enforces the teaching that the moral life is a unity—that conduct cannot be a matter of compartments, and that each of our acts must affect all the others for good or for evil."—The Dial. "A novel of searching insight and absorbing interest. A first-rate story, and sincere to the core in its matter and in its art."—Bookman. "Strong and throbbing with reality."—Mail and Express.

The Real World.

"A very remarkable novel; remarkable for its exposition of life and for its showing of imaginative power * * * an excellent piece of fiction writing."—Boston Transcript. "The title of the book indicates the strange dreamlike quality of life to the man who has not yet fought his own battles, or come into conscious possession of his will—only such battles bite into the consciousness."—Chicago Tribune.

Together.

"A novel of married lives as lived in America"—exactly defines this, the biggest and most important story Mr. Robert Herrick has ever written. "Together" opens with the marriage ceremony. What marriage means to the American man, with his absorption in business; what it means, above all, to the American woman, with her dominating influence in social life, her ambitions and aspirations, and her often-defeated longings for sentiment after the years of courtship—these are the themes of Mr. Herrick's new novel.

"In 'Together' we have a book of first magnitude, that handles a momentous theme boldly, wisely, sympathetically and with an insight into racial traits that makes it in the best sense a representative American novel. * * *"

"The whole spirit of the book is too earnest, too wise, too healthy in its recognition of the splendid realities of life ever to offend the thinking man or woman."—The Forum.

HEWLETT, MAURICE.

The Fool Errant: Being the Memoirs of Francis Anthony Strelley, Esq., Citizen of Lucca.

"We feel that he is simply saturated with the life of the time, the color and the environment, and that he has reproduced these with marvelous fidelity. This is the chief title of the book to praise, and a high title it is."—The Dial. "Full of excellent descriptions, of amusing characters, of picturesque adventure brilliantly related * * * with infinite humor and vivacity."—New York Herald.

Richard Yea and Nay.

"A masterpiece of fiction, finely, felicitously, nobly written in pure, melodious, harmonious English. A historical chronicle, a poetic biography and a new, rare and admirable friend."—Mail and Express. "A book which stirs one like a trumpet."—New York Herald. "A masterpiece."—New York Sun.

HICHENS, ROBERT.

The Garden of Allah.

"Love in the desert is the theme of Mr. Hichens' latest book, which is far and away the strongest he has yet given us. All the gamut from fierce passion to bitter renunciation is run in this story of an unconventional English woman and a mysterious Trappist monk, who meet in an oasis of the Sahara. The wonder and enchantment of the desert have never before found so skilled an interpreter."—Phila. Press.

The Prophet of Berkeley Square.

"The 'prophet' in the story is a young man who has become so infatuated with the science of astronomy that he has a huge telescope mounted in his drawing-room so that he may observe the heavenly bodies from the window. From their study he has ventured to make two prophecies, each of which to his utter amazement is fulfilled to the letter. It took experience * * * and finally the police to cure the prophet of prophecy. Abundant humor, with a satirical analysis of the dulness of a society which feels itself brilliant."—New York World. "The whole thing is most delightfully absurd and abounds in droll hits at many of the fads of the rich and mighty."—Boston Transcript.

HIGGINSON, THOMAS WENTWORTH.

Tales of the Enchanted Islands of the Atlantic. With illustrations by Albert Herter.

"Turns to graceful account the unexploited field of legendary lore that the European fancy for more than a thousand years wove into the mysterious isles, real or fancied, of the Western Ocean. There are twenty tales, and it is an especially acceptable and stimulating book for young readers."—The Dial.

HILL, FREDERICK T.

The Web. With illustrations by Arthur Keller.

"A novel of the law and its meshes, with a divorce, an important mining lawsuit, and a murder all intimately connected. It is a strongly conceived domestic story filled with earnestness and fine idealism."—New York Times. "The greatest study of American life ever contributed to American fiction."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

HILL, HEADON.

The Duke Decides. With illustrations by C. J. Budd.

A baffling, mystifying, exciting story. A clever adventuress in New York schemes to substitute fifteen million dollars of spurious bonds for the real ones that are to be delivered to the Bank of England, in London. She picks out an impecunious Englishman who engages to make the exchange with the promise of a share in the plunder if he is successful and assassination if he flunks. The situations are full of interest, and the story swings along in a vein of excitement, cleverly keeping the suspense and mystery intact until the surprising discoveries which precede the end.

HILLIS, NEWELL DWIGHT.

The Quest of John Chapman. The Story of a Forgotten Hero.

A romance (one-half religion and one-half fiction) of early Colonial days when, wandering through parts of Ohio, Kentucky, and Indiana, "Johnny Appleseed" sowed and planted the orchards that were to prove a benefaction to future settlers. This quaint pioneer figure is Mr. Hillis's "forgotten hero." We should have imagined him less surrounded by sweetness and light, but in any case he could not be spoiled.

HOLMES, GORDON.

By Force of Circumstances. With frontispiece in colors.

The plot is complicated, the action swift, the incidents dramatic and the mystery skilfully handled. The love story that goes with the mystery is well sustained. C. Bagot, the forcer of circumstances, is the personification of insinuating, seducing, hypnotizing devilishness, and out-rivals any demon of modern fiction or drama. There is no resisting the impulse to read on and on. It is one of those baffling mystery stories in which the characters are entangled in a web of complications, from which there seems to be no possible escape.

HOLMES, GORDON.—Continued.

The Mysterious Disappearance.

A detective story of considerable merit wherein the fate of a lady of high rank, who suddenly disappears in London, is shrouded in mystery until the very surprising end of the story. A Scotland Yard detective is "in the case," but the real sleuth is M. Bruce, a barrister whose logical deductions lead him at length to the truth. His adventures in following the numerous false clues and ultimately the true one forms the theme of this animated story.

HOLMES, MARY JANE.

Lucy Harding: A Romance of Russia. With a Frontispiece.

Mrs. Holmes is a peculiarly pleasant and fascinating writer. Her books are always entertaining, and she has the rare faculty of enlisting the sympathy and affections of her readers, and of holding their attention to her pages with deep and absorbing interest.

HOPE, ANTHONY

Phroso: A Romance.

"It seems to us that 'Phroso' is likely to rank among the masterworks of sensational and exciting fiction. * * * We care not how sated and cynical a man may have become, we defy him to lay 'Phroso' down if he once takes it up; he will finish it at a sitting and count a night's rest well lost."—New York Sun.

The Prisoner of Zenda. With illustrations by Charles Dana Gibson.

This remarkable romance of adventure in modern Germany has been very widely read, and has been translated into German and Spanish, and given successfully as a play.

"A story of love and war which cheers and charms and stirs the imagination. A rousing romance and a dashing success."—The Bookman.

Rupert of Hentzau: A Sequel to "The Prisoner of Zenda." With illustrations by Charles Dana Gibson.

The Critic characterizes it as "even better than 'The Prisoner of Zenda.'" And the New York Tribune says: "It is absorbing, and especially is it an excellent sequel."

HORNUNG, E. W.

Raffles: Further Adventures of the Amateur Cracksman. With illustrations by F. C. Yohn.

"Not a dull page in the book from beginning to end."—New York Sun. "The stories are short and to the point; each is suggested with admirable art and each is finished to perfection."—London World. "An audaciously entertaining volume."—London Spectator.

HORTON, GEORGE.

Like Another Helen. With illustrations by C. M. Relyea.

This powerful romance stands in a new field, and brings an almost unknown world in reality before the reader—the world of conflict between Greek and Turk on the Island of Crete. There is a certain new force about the story, a kind of master-craftsmanship and mental dominance, that holds the reader. The Chicago Record-Herald says: "Here are chapters of illuminated description, fragrant with the atmosphere of art." The Chicago Chronicle comments thus: "It is an exquisite creation not unworthy to rank with 'Alice of Old Vincennes.' Time and scenes are different, but both books have the same healthy vitality, rapid movement and breathless interest. 'Alice' is an American girl, an exquisite creation of singular charm and beauty. 'Helen' is a Greek, beautiful, desolate, defiant—pure as snow."

HOUGH, EMERSON.

Heart's Desire: The Story of a Contented Town, Certain Peculiar Citizens, and Two Fortunate Lovers. With illustrations.

"It is all in a sort of golden glow such as may shine upon the West that never quite was, and comrades and a girl of one's heart of hearts that never quite were—but it is very delightful reading."—New York Times. "Embodies with indefinable affection, humor and pathos the West of our dreams."—Chicago Tribune.

The Law of the Land: Of Miss Lady, Whom It Involved in Mystery, and of John Eddring, Gentleman of the South. Who Reads Its Deeper Meaning. With illustrations by Arthur Keller.

"A powerful novel, vividly presented. The action is rapid and dramatic, and the mance holds the reader with irresistible force."—Detroit Tribune. "Pre-eminently superior any literary creation of the day. Its naturalness places it on the plane of immortality."—ew York American.

The Mississippi Bubble: How the Star of Good Fortune Rose and Set and Rose Again, By a Woman's Grace, for One John Law, of Lauriston With illustrations by Henry Hutt.

"One of the best novels that has come out of America in many a day. It is an excitg story, with the literary touch on every page."—The Critic. "As a novel embodying a onderful period in the growth of America, 'The Mississippi Bubble' is of intense interest. s a love story it is rarely and beautifully told."—Chicago American.

:OWELLS, WILLIAM DEAN.

A Chance Acquaintance. With illustrations by William L. Sheppard.

The action of this delightful story takes place in Canada, of the scenery of which it ntains full and fascinating descriptions. "One can hardly over-praise the charm and ace with which Mr. Howells has invested the 'Acquaintance,' and the exquisite delicacy ith which he has treated the love into which it ripened."—Boston Advertiser.

The Rise of Silas Lapham.

Mr. Howells's story of a sturdy Vermonter who found it easier to gain wealth than cial position. The story is vigorous and realistic in the extreme, and is one of his ongest books.

:YNE, C. J. CUTLIFFE.

Captain Kettle, K. C. B. With a Frontispiece.

"Nobody who has followed the gallant sailor—diminutive, but oh, my!—in his previous ventures around the earth, is going to miss this red-hot volume of marvellous exploits." N. Y. World. "It has the dash and tinge of reality that makes you feel as if you were in e midst of it all."—Detroit Free Press.

McTodd.

McTodd, the engineer, was quite as popular a hero in the Captain Kettle book as that ry little sailor, and he is now the chief character in a better story. The author's invenon never flags, and the new story is full of incidents and experiences of the liveliest and ost fascinating kind. Besides drawing a better character, the author has made his exriences more like those of real people, and has constructed a story which is well knit, rceful, and absorbing. His new creation will give him a much better place in literature d will greatly strengthen his hold on the popular approval.

Thompson's Progress.

Mr. T. Thompson, poacher, merchant and promoter, is a resourceful personality whose ventures make an exciting, amusing, and readable record. He began life without proper ptismal credentials, married the girl of his choice, made millions, and ended with a ospect of a peerage—not a barren, if a somewhat variegated "progress" through life!

"The book will find many readers, for there is plenty of go in it."—New York Sun. New characters worth knowing."—Mail and Express. "A series of spirited tales most attractive for their vigor and vividness."—Phila. Press.

;HAM, FREDERIC S.

Black Friday. With illustrations by Harrison Fisher.

"There is much energy, much spirit, in this romance of the gold corner. Distinctly an ulent and animated tale."—New York Sun. "The love story is handled with infinite skill. ne pictures of "the street" and its thrilling, pulsating life are given with rare power."—ston Herald. "The scenes which culminated in the historical Black Friday are vividly scribed."—Baltimore Sun.

JACOBS, W. W.

Many Cargoes. With 33 illustrations by E. W. Kemble.

"Nothing written in recent years has so inexhaustible a view of irrepressible humor through it as 'Many Cargoes.' It is designed with a keen sense of the fictional art. It secured Mr. Jacobs a prominent place among the humorists of the time."—Phila. Press. "Those spontaneously funny stories which only the born humorist could write. We congratulate the reader who takes up 'Many Cargoes.'"—New York Tribune.

JEFFERSON, THOMAS.

Letters and Addresses. Edited by William B. Parker and Jonas Viles. With a Life of Jefferson, the Story of the Book, Notes on the Text, a List of Authorities, and an Index.

Gives a most intimate and comprehensive view of the life and achievement of one of the world's greatest men, and America's greatest statesman * * * a work of great historic interest that should be in every home where books form any part of the daily life.

JEWETT, SARAH ORNE.

A Country Doctor.

"Miss Jewett's work is as purely and finely New England as Whittier's poetry. Her country doctor is unmistakably a loving portrait from life. By the side of Dr. Leslie is a most gracious figure, first a wayward child, then a girl of eager heart but steady will."—The Nation.

Tory Lover, A. With illustrations.

"A thoroughly wholesome and charming book."—Eve. Post. "The love story is fine, delicate, charming in every line. * * * The 'Tory Lover' ranks high and is a beautifully finished piece of literary work."—Boston Transcript. "It tells an admirable story of courage and devotion to country, and is at once strong, brilliant, spirited, graceful and true."—New York Press.

JOHNSTON, MARY.

Audrey. With illustrations by F. C. Yohn.

One feels everywhere that Miss Johnston knows the life and spirit of the times as if she had been a part of them. The Critic describes Audrey as "a graceful, pretty figure and a decided variant from the ordinary heroine." The Bookman says "'Audrey' is a distinct advance upon 'To Have and to Hold' in every essential particular—in construction, in execution and in style."

Prisoners of Hope: A Tale of Colonial Virginia.

"It is, indeed, a work so nearly perfect of its kind—a kind so large and so fine and so noble—that the impulse is toward wholesale enthusiasm, regardless of any attempt at critical discrimination."—The Bookman. "The book is one of strong interest, and singularly graphic power in narration. Is really a remarkable novel, and one that we are inclined to prophesy will take high rank in American literature of fiction."—N. Y. Herald. "It is a fine piece of character drawing and a superior novel in all respects."—The Congregationalist.

To Have and To Hold. With a Frontispiece.

"Never a dull page."—New York Tribune. "The great American novel."—Literary Review. "More intensely human, spontaneous and natural than any other 'instant success'."—Boston Globe. "Never read a more tender and delicate romance."—Phila. American. "One of the best Colonial romances produced."—Chicago Tribune.

KELLY, MYRA.

Little Citizens. With illustrations by W. D. Stevens and decorated cover.

A more humorous, more piquant, more delicious set of small folk is not to be found in modern literature. Some of the dearest, brightest, cutest children who ever lived smile at the reader from the pages of this charmingly fresh and original book * * * no more lifelike, laughable, touching and thoroughly human writing has ever appeared. The book is full of illustrations—but none were needed—the characters describe themselves. A woman must have kept wondrously fresh-hearted to have so interpreted the heart of a little child.

NNEDY, SIDNEY R.

'he Lodestar. With many illustrations.

A love story full of sparkling dialogue. Its characters are chiefly members of a house y at the country home of "Brinton, the millionaire."
"The Lodestar" is the brown-eyed girl to whom artist and novelist and millionaire e give their love. As for her—"but it would be an unusual girl that would throw down ı S. Brinton, now wouldn't it?"

LDARE, OWEN.

Ty Mamie Rose: The History of My Regeneration.

This autobiography is a story taken straight from life. It will deservedly attract a t deal of serious attention. Reads like the strangest fiction. Is the strongest truth deals with the story of a man's redemption through a woman's love and devotion. Hall Caine says: "Nothing more true or human has come my way for many a day. ; a real transcript from life, and brought tears to my eyes and a thrill to my heart."

NG, GENERAL CHARLES.

ın Apache Princess: A Tale of the Indian Frontier. With illustrations by Frederic Remington and E. W. Deming.

A story of frontier life in a military post where mysterious complications within the p added to the Indian rebellion make things lively. The lovers of the tale are young ltenant Blakely, commonly known as "Bugs," and his Captain's daughter.

Between the Lines.

An exciting story of the Civil War, with which is interwoven a charming romance. descriptions of the military events occurring in the course of the story are most vivid. charm of the story is in its portrayal of those types of character which were actuated he higher sentiments held by both North and South—by humanity above sectionalism, by nobility and generosity rather than essential enmity and revengefulness.

ı Broken Sword: A Tale of the Civil War. With Portrait of the Author.

"It is as 'military' as it can be—which is saying a good deal. General King writes with point of his sword dipped in blood, and has had more military experience than any wn author, except perhaps Cæsar."—St. Louis Republic.

Captured: The Story of Sandy Ray. With illustrations and inlay cover.

In "Captured" the soldier-author gives us a thoroughly readable story with plenty of and exciting and realistic incident. His service in the archipelago gives the narrative ne of veracity, and he faithfully describes incidents which came under his personal rvation. The insight into army and navy life under the republic is both absorbing instructive. The characters stand out in fine and finished detail * * * Impressingly r-cut pictures of camp life * * * A rattling good story of army life in the Philippines is full of fresh and vivid material.

Comrades in Arms: A Tale of Two Hemispheres. With illustrations by George Gibbs and E. W. Deming.

A complication and a murder at a frontier post in the Black Hills of Dakota begin the y. Then the Spanish War breaks out, and the comrades are ordered to the Philippines.) brave soldiers in the end find the proverbial reward.

ı Daughter of the Sioux: A Tale of the Indian Frontier. With illustrations by Frederic Remington and E. W. Deming.

ı Knight of Columbia: A Story of the War. Illustrated by George Gibbs.

"As strong a story of army life as General King has written, and he is undoubtedly at head of his class."—Washington Post. "The chapters on Chancellorsville are achieve- ts worthy of superlative praise."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

KING, GENERAL CHARLES.—Continued.

The Medal of Honor: A Story of Peace and War. With illustrations b George Gibbs and E. W. Deming.

"The action of the story is in the great West, and though there is but little Indi fighting in it, there is plenty of exciting action in the soldiers' quarters, in which the wiv and sweethearts take conspicuous parts."—New York World.

A Soldier's Trial: A Story of the Canteen Crusade. With author's portra

Takes issue with "the good and worthy, though misguided citizens, who have succeed in abolishing the canteen in the army."

KINGSLEY, FLORENCE MORSE.

The Cross Triumphant. With illustrations in colors by J. E. McBurne

Phannias, a "child of the law"—Nazarite, priest and warrior—amid the scenes of t recent life and death of Jesus witnesses the conflict between the Law and the Cross. Thr women of widely-varying character influence him at times, and throughout this story that eventful era realistic pictures of its life and times are reproduced.

Paul: A Herald of the Cross. Illustrations in colors by J. E. McBurney.

This vivid and picturesque narrative of the life and times of Paul brilliantly portra the Great Apostle of Christianity.

In the story the author has interwoven some account of the great world that lay wit out the confines of the Holy Land; the world lying in wretchedness and sin, into whi Christ had bidden his disciples to carry the glad tidings and healing message of the Cro

Prisoners of the Sea: A Romance of the Time of Louis XIV, King France. With illustrations by Henry Austen.

Tells a new and decidedly romantic story of the historic "Man with the Iron Mask The author makes him the twin brother of Louis XIV—the first-born and actual thou supplanted king. The story comes from the gentleman-in-waiting on the king (Louis XIII who is imprisoned for life on account of his knowledge of these momentous facts. * * There is abundance of political intrigue, ingenuity, romance and exciting adventure. " pure, forcible, interesting study" is what the Boston Beacon calls it.

The Singular Miss Smith. With illustrations by Will Grefé.

" * * * All together, the book is sane and bright and wholesome. It possesses th excellent quality which the higher critics call 'verisimilitude,' but which goes by the easi names of lifelikeness and naturalness; and is not the less worth while for the 'story' tha for its true and excellent and conclusive solution of the many tremendous problems wi which it deals in its crisp, brief pages."—St. Louis Republic. "Simply as a story it is mo interesting; there runs through it a humor that is irresistible, and the situations are clever —Baltimore Sun. "Deliciously humorous and witty."—New York Evening Post.

Stephen: A Soldier of the Cross. Illustrations in colors by J. E. McBurne

The story of Stephen is little known; only the last day of his mortal life stands o with any clearness in the writings of past ages. The ancient alchemists are said to ha possessed the power of resurrecting from the ashes of a perished flower a dim ghost the flower itself. Mrs. Kingsley has gathered the dust of this vanished life and built fro it an image of its forgotten beauty.

"Since 'Ben-Hur' no story has so vividly portrayed the times of Christ."—Bookseller.

Tor: A Street Boy of Jerusalem. With illustrations by F. A. Eckman.

Th girls take up bee culture and the story moves on smoothly until an unexpected legacy bring about a pleasant ending.

IPLING, RUDYARD.

The Day's Work. With illustrations.

The London Morning Post says: "It would be hard to find better reading * * * the)k is so varied, so full of color and life from end to end, that few who read the first) or three stories will lay it down till they have read the last—and the last is a veritable n * * * contains some of the best of his highly vivid work * * * Kipling is a n story-teller and a man of humor into the bargain.

Many Inventions.

Capital stories sure to appeal to a wide reading constituency. Once again we are taken :r a mystical land which has such a fascination for the Western mind, and which Kipling)ws so intimately.

The completest work that Kipling has yet given us in workmanship, the weightiest and st humane in point of view. It can only be regarded as a fresh landmark in the progres- n of his genius.

LEIN, CHARLES, and HORNBLOW, ARTHUR.

The Lion and the Mouse: A Story of American Life. With illustrations by Stuart, and Scenes from the Play.

The novel duplicated the success of the play. It is a splendid novelization of the atest success the American stage has known for years. * * * It has run through several sons without any falling off in popularity. The book is greater than the play. * * * e dramatist is naturally hampered by the limitations of the stage, but the novelist knows such restriction.

A portentous clash of dominant personalities that form the essence of the play are essarily touched upon but briefly in the short space of four acts. All this is narrated the novel with a wealth of fascinating and absorbing detail, making it one of the most verfully written and exciting works of fiction given to the world in years.

RAMER, HAROLD MORTON.

Hearts and the Cross. With illustrations by Harold Matthews Brett.

The story is of a man whose vigorous personality enables him to do justice to himself to secure justice for himself under most trying conditions. A mysterious wanderer, wins the better element of a somewhat rough community by his eloquence as the preacher a neglected parish, meanwhile working in the fields for his support. Lawlessness, heroism noble self-sacrifice have their part in the development of an intensely dramatic plot, interest of which is sustained until the mystery is cleared away, and a satisfactory con- sion is reached with exceeding joy to those who deserve it.

ROUX, GASTON.

The Mystery of the Yellow Room. With a portrait.

For sheer originality and ingenuity this story may be reckoned one of the best tales e Gaboriau. Seldom does a detective story end with so total a surprise, which, never- ess, seems logical and natural. For the many who delight in following the intricacies rime and the avenging hand of Justice, this book has rare charms.

The Perfume of the Lady in Black. With full-page illustrations.

A sequel to "The Mystery of the Yellow Room," and quite as entertaining as its decessor. A telling and dramatic story that begins where most romances end—with a lding. Unusual, well constructed, replete with irresistible interest, and full of incidents a strong and stirring nature. A feat of mystery and thrills.

WIS, ALFRED HENRY.

Peggy O'Neal. With illustrations by Henry Hutt and a beautiful ideal miniature of the heroine on the cover.

This is a story of social life in the stormy days of Andrew Jackson's presidency. heroine is the spirited wife of Secretary Eaton, of the president's cabinet. The nen of Washington instituted a war against her youth and beauty, which with the sident's championship, gave her a supremacy which was unworthy a tavern-keeper's ghter. Her beauty, vivacity and wit have become proverbial. The story of fair, inno- t, unfortunate and "lustrous Peggy O'Neal" is most entertainingly told.

LEWIS, ALFRED HENRY.—Continued.

Wolfville. With illustrations by Frederic Remington.

"The stories are of cowboys and cattlemen, and for scenes of Western life and desc tions of unique Western character they rank among the best works of our author. scenes and people of the Southwestern Frontier are pictured with a vividness and tr never surpassed, if ever equalled."—Book Buyer.

Wolfville Days. With a Frontispiece by Frederic Remington.

Wolfville Nights. With a Frontispiece by E. S. Hall.

"There are critics who rank him above Bret Harte and Mark Twain * * * gladly welcome him as a genial humorist. The cattlemen's narratives, which are by tu grotesquely or uproariously humorous and grimly or quaintly pathetic, are told with unobtrusive skill that is humorously effective * * * strikingly fresh and original * he is really a humorist—and a great one."—The Bookman, LONDON.

LILJENCRANTZ, OTTILIE A.

The Thrall of Leif the Lucky: A Story of the Viking Days. With co frontispiece, and pictures and designs by The Kinneys.

Seldom has one book shown so many qualities that attract fiction readers of all ag For the older ones there is the fascination that a well-told narrative of love and dar should always possess, with the added element of an entirely new and unworked period history as a background, and an indefinable vigor and freedom that is naturally associa with the Viking days. Miss Liljencrantz has revived the spirit of Scott at his best.

"The touch of the accomplished writer is evident in the written pages."—St. Lo Republic. "The characters, background and atmosphere are so unusual and new in world of fiction that it will be most welcome to the novel reader who longs for 'someth different.'"—Chicago Inter-Ocean. "A vivid, sparkling story, and told in a style out of common."—London Bookseller.

The Ward of King Canute: A Story of the Danish Conquest. With col frontispiece and pictures by The Kinneys.

This book is for those who are weary of conventional romances, and are searching a story that does not give them the dusty and worn out historic trappings with whi they are over familiar. The reader forgets his practical twentieth century point of vie and loses himself in the glamour of these brave old days of the Danish conquest, when gr Canute swooped down on England.

"A stalwart tale—a fine big thing full of men's strength and courage and a girl's dev tion * * * the atmosphere of great days and primitive human possessions."—Phila. Ledg

LOCKE, WILLIAM J.

The Morals of Marcus Ordeyne: A Novel.

Sir Marcus is a bookworm and a confirmed bachelor. Fate leads him one day to t Thames embankment where he encounters a strange young woman, a poor little w whose only knowledge of life had been gleaned within the walls of an Eastern hare and who is now utterly dazed and terrified by the rush and whirl of the metropol When this strange apparition in bizarre apparel appeals to him for help it is the turn Sir Marcus to feel dazed. Her tale does not invite confidence, and Marcus frankly d believes it until he looks into her big, innocent eyes. Then he capitulates, and out of pu benevolence instals this embarrassing young person in his bachelor's apartments.

"The emotional situations devised by the author are fairly astounding for variety a heart moving power."—Chicago Record-Herald.

LONDON, JACK.

The Call of the Wild. With illustrations by Philip R. Goodwin and Charl Livingston Bull. Decorations by Charles E. Hooper.

"A big story in sober English and with thorough art in the construction * * * wonderfully perfect bit of work * * * a book that will be heard of. The dog adventur are as exciting as any man's exploits could be, and Mr. London's workmanship is whol satisfying."—The New York Sun. "Here is excitement to stir the blood, here is pictu esque color to transport the reader to primitive scenes * * * and here is excellence literary workmanship deserving of unreserved praise."—Philadelphia Press. "The who story is vital with interest."—New York Herald.

A Daughter of the Snows. With illustrations by F. C. Yohn.

"Is a strong and extremely dramatic story, its characters boldly drawn, and the love interest intense."—Booklover's Magazine. "Jack London startled the reading public by literary work of uncommon originality and power. The life is the life of the Klondyke down and camp and trail, the men are men of brawn and brain and pluck, who have set themselves to conquer the grim, glorious Northland. * * * Take up the 'Daughter of the Snows' and you can't lay it down till it is finished."—The Book Buyer.

The Iron Heel.

An intensely vigorous and dramatic story of Socialism. A big and daring attempt to paint the country's tragic doom. With the love story of Ernest Everhard, one of the leaders of the "Social Revolution," tenderly interwoven, the narrative is supposed to be written by his wife, and discovered centuries after the tragic events described (of 1912). The characters are sharply drawn, the incidents follow one another in rapid and dramatic succession, and one feels from end to end the enthusiasm of the author, and his sense of the righteousness of the doctrines his characters speak and their experiences illustrate. It is a truly remarkable story."—San Francisco Argonaut. "As a story it is fascinating to an extraordinary degree; as a mirror of the times it is painfully accurate; and as bringing to light the things good, bad and indifferent that are seething just below the surface of every-day life, it is magical."—Evening Telegram.

People of the Abyss. Copiously illustrated from photographs.

A powerful presentation of a repellent theme. The author recounts his own experiences in the under-world of London in the summer of 1902, when times were regarded as "good" in England. "The starvation and lack of shelter I encountered constituted a chronic condition of misery which is never wiped out, even in periods of prosperity."

The Sea-Wolf. With illustrations by W. J. Aylward.

"'The Call of the Wild' created a literary furore when it appeared. 'The Sea-Wolf' leagues in advance of its predecessor in fiber, in subtlety of insight, in graphic and gorous stroke."—Boston Republic. "As remarkable a contribution to fiction as 'The Call the Wild' * * * as vivid as anything London has written."—Deseret News.

The Son of the Wolf: Tales of the Far North. With a Frontispiece.

A collection of stories of life in the gold regions of the Yukon. It is remarkable for picturesqueness of phrase, terseness of expression, originality of imagery, graphic touch, and depth of insight. It portrays the conditions of life and the hardships of nature in the far North, and their effect upon the men and women who endure them.

"Son of the Wolf is Indian for the white race. Nothing more virile and stimulating to the imagination has come to us for many a season."—Boston Christian Register.

LORIMER, GEORGE HORACE.

Letters From a Self-Made Merchant to His Son: Being the letters written by John Graham, head of the house of Graham and Company, pork-packers in Chicago, familiarly known on Change as "Old Gorgon Graham," to his son, Pierrepont, facetiously known to his intimates as "Piggy." With illustrations by Martin Justice.

The sound philosophy, the quaint and homely aphorisms, and the keenness of the satire make every paragraph incisive and luminous. No better book can be placed in the hands of a young man about to begin his struggle for existence. For dry, caustic humor, shy common sense and good advice, relieved by stories capitally told, there has been nothing since the wisdom of Franklin to be placed in the same class with this book.

"The wholesomest, helpfullest, jolliest book of the year."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Old Gorgon Graham: More Letters from a Self-Made Merchant to His Son. With illustrations by F. R. Cruger and Martin Justice.

This second book is addressed to the son as manager instead of clerk. There is a good deal about Pierrepont's domestic problems, and consequently, it appeals alike to men and women.

The dry humor, matter-of-fact shrewdness, disconcerting sagacity, the "I just mention this in passing" reminiscences of the "self-made merchant" are still wholly irresistible in these new letters to Pierrepont. Old Gorgon is a part of our national life.

LOUGHEAD, FLORA H.

The Man Who Was Guilty.

Has the merit of freshness and novelty of conception. The scene is laid in San Francisco. The hero is a real convict, a young fellow who actually robbed a bank in which he was employed, and was sent to the penitentiary for ten years. The description of his struggles and the rebuffs he encounters after his discharge, while trying to gain an honest living, is realistic. It is deserving of study, for the facts are true, and this part of the story illustrates strikingly what has always been and still is the most difficult problem in penology; the problem of the future of the liberated convict.

LUDLOW, JAMES M.

Deborah: A Tale of the Times of Judas Maccabaeus. Profusely illustrated.

"Deborah is herself a noble and striking figure, and the adventures she undergoes in aiding the cause of Judas Maccabaeus, the 'hammer of God,' are many and thrilling. The book as a whole has vigor and color."—The Outlook. "Clean, felicitous, dignified and graphic —a revelation only too long delayed."—Booklovers' Magazine. "A notable success and absolutely refreshing."—Bishop John F. Hurst.

LUSH, CHARLES K.

The Federal Judge.

The story takes us straight into the heart of present-day politics and involves one of the burning social problems of the hour. It is the story of a railway king and an incorruptible judge. The former is a man of the keen, forceful, unscrupulous type who figures so largely in the industrial life of the present; the latter is a man of simple straightforward character, who becomes, without in the least suspecting it, the mere tool of the other. The manner in which Judge Dunn, the sworn foe of monopolies and corporate wealth, is raised from the obscurity of his country circuit to the Federal bench by the designing Gardwell, and the way in which his very simplicity is wrought upon to his undoing is described in a skilful way, and is to a considerable extent typical of actual conditions. The lesson that no man may entirely escape being affected by his environment, and that the best intentioned of judges will be influenced by the subtle forces that electrify the atmosphere in which the money-getters of a great city have their being is admirably presented.

LUTHER, MARK LEE.

The Crucible. With illustrations by Rose Cecil O'Neill.

Jean Fanshaw is introduced as the inmate of a woman's reformatory, whither she has been sent, not because of wickedness, but as the result of an undisciplined nature handled foolishly. The real interest of the story begins with Jean's release and her efforts to live down the stigma of prison life. Her character is displayed consistently and with exceptional skill throughout and the book constitutes one of the most interesting studies in recent fiction. "The Crucible" is a novel which may be strongly recommended. "Well written and wonderfully interesting."—Christian Endeavor World.

LYMAN, OLIN L.

The Trail of the Grand Seigneur. With illustrations in color from paintings by J. S. Davis and Clare Angell.

A story of the 1812 War. The scenes of this interesting historical romance are laid along the banks of Lake Ontario, and Kingston, in Canada, where some not very well known but very striking events occurred during the second Revolutionary period. French refugees of noble lineage, driven from Paris during the Reign of Terror, were attracted to this neighborhood. Mr. Lyman, with rare literary skill, has woven these romantic conditions with many of the legends of the region into a story at once historically valuable and replete with the element that appeals to the lover of the historical novel.

LYNDE, FRANCIS.

The Helpers.

Henry Jeffard, a young civil engineer of New England, goes to Denver to make a fortune. Here he gets out of the straight path and becomes a castaway, until rescued by a miner, who takes him on a prospecting trip. The quest for silver fails, but Jeffard discovers gold on his friend's abandoned claim, and from the impulse this gives, and the helpings of Constance Elliott and other loyal hearts, comes the regeneration of the castaway. The characters are very real; the dialogues and descriptions are particularly good, and the style is careful and felicitous. It is a thoroughly enjoyable story, and it is told effectively.

'NDE, FRANCIS.—Continued.

The Master of Appleby: A Romance of the Carolinas. With illustrations by T. de Thulstrup.

A brilliant, thrilling and in every way interesting novel. The hero, Capt. John Ireton, n unusual character, and combines the exploits of D'Artagnan and the doings of an erican of colonial times. The book does not contain a page without some incident, some enture, and yet the author does not repeat once. The love story is charming and the dents are bound together with skill. A climax of the Revolutionary romance.

CARTHY, JUSTIN HUNTLY.

f I Were King. Illustrated with Scenes Reproduced from the Play.

In its dramatic form, as interpreted by Sothern, it has delighted thousands, and this nent actor in his impersonation of François Villon, the vagabond madcap poet of old nce, has scored the highest triumph of his artistic career. "If I Were King" has been ived with equal cordiality by the reading public, a clientêle even more difficult to please. plot is not too deeply involved, the love story is one of rare charm and fascinating rest, and the short lyrics and ballads introduced are delightful.

CUTCHEON, GEORGE BARR.

raustark: A Story of Love Behind a Throne.

The story of Mr. Grenfall Lorry, who meets his fate upon the East bound express from ver, helps her out of a bad hole, loses her on an ocean greyhound, and follows her he ends of the unknown earth. It is a captivating romance, that is made up of this of the surprises that await him when he finds her, the entanglements from which he to release her, and the more dangerous difficulties into which he is thereby plunged. vers of a good rushing novel with abundance of thrill and dash in it can turn with plete confidence to 'Graustark.'"—Chicago Tribune.

everly of Graustark. With Color Frontispiece and other illustrations by Harrison Fisher. Beautiful inlay picture in colors of Beverly on the cover.

"The most fascinating, engrossing and picturesque of the season's novels."—Boston ald. "'Beverly' is altogether charming—almost living flesh and blood."—Louisville es. "A sequel quite as impossible as 'Graustark' and quite as entertaining."—Bookman. charming love story well told."—Boston Transcript.

rewster's Millions. Illustrated with Scenes Reproduced from the Play.

"An animated and unusual story."—New York Sun. "An uncommonly good story of inal theme and modern application. A clever little love story runs through the book h is well worth reading."—Buffalo Courier. "Witty, sprightly and full of fun."—New Times. It was dramatized, and as a play is touring the country with great success.

astle Craneycrow.

The thousands of readers who enjoyed the vivid and sustained imagination of "Graus-" will revel in "Castle Craneycrow."

"Absorbing from start to finish * * * it is of the purely romantic order with a happy ng."—The Critic. Mary Mannering says: "The book is better than 'The Prisoner of la,' and the character of the Princess is one in which I shall love to act."

owardice Court. With illustrations by Harrison Fisher, and decorations by T. B. Hapgood.

How the feud sprang up between Lord Bazelhurst and Mr. Shaw in their adjoining es in the Adirondack Mountains, how lady Penelope parleyed with the enemy and Dan Cupid took a part in their meeting; how the wife of Lord Bazelhurst drove Lady lope from her home and the part that the haunted house and a terrible thunder storm are told in Mr. McCutcheon's dashing and inimitable style. This story is full of and adventure, and one is carried irresistibly by it from the first page to the end.

he Daughter of Anderson Crow. With illustrations by Martin B. Justice.

A typical American story, abounding in humor and pathos, with all the attractive ties of the earlier novels which have given Mr. McCutcheon such a wonderfully wide-d popularity. The mistakes and disasters of the foolish, kind-hearted old town marshal call forth many a laugh and much liking for the most gullible of detectives and the st of foster fathers. Anderson Crow is as picturesque a character as Mark Twain's d'nhead Wilson." A delightful love story is developed and carried to a successful usion.

Nedra. With illustrations and cover in colors by Harrison Fisher.

The story of an elopement of a young couple from Chicago, who decide to go London, traveling as brother and sister. Their difficulties commence in New York a become greatly exaggerated when they are shipwrecked in mid-ocean. The hero fi himself stranded on the island of Nedra with another girl, whom he has rescued by m take. The story gives an account of their finding some of the other passengers, and circumstances which resulted from the strange mix-up.

The Sherrods. With illustrations by C. D. Williams.

"The scenes are laid in rural Indiana and Chicago and center round the man w leads a double life. 'The Sherrods' is a story of many griefs but its interest is undoub and continuous."—New York World. "In this novel Mr. McCutcheon seems to h found his true field. He has given us something refreshing and natural, even though subject is uninviting—for the hero of the novel is a bigamist."—Chicago Journal.

MACGOWAN, ALICE.

Judith of the Cumberlands. With illustrations in colors, and inlay co by George Wright.

No one can fail to enjoy this moving tale with its lovely and ardent heroine, frank, fearless hero, its glowing love passages, and its variety of characters, captivat or engaging, humorous or saturnine, villains, rascals and men of good will. A tale str and interesting in plot, faithful and vivid as a picture of wild mountain life, and in characterization full of warmth and glow. "A book that combines historical value with good a story is a book to be praised."—N. Y. Times. "An admirable tale."—The Outlo

MacGRATH, HAROLD.

Arms and the Woman. With inlay cover in colors by Harrison Fisher.

A charming story of a princess, who masquerades as a barmaid, wins the heart of American newspaperman a-wandering in far fields. It has spirit, plausibility and a v of piquant humor. There are clashes of wit and of arms, some very pretty wooing, and scene is intensely dramatic. The princess is an adorable character, and the newspaperm are admirably drawn.

The Grey Cloak. With illustrations by Thomas M. Pierce.

There is something refreshingly Dumasesque in the opening chapter, where an a nobleman is run through in his own house by the sword of a masked stranger, who lea behind him no clue but a torn grey cloak; and from there on the interest never flags.

"There have been many excellent stories of love and intrigue, but no one of them equals this in depth of fascination and subtile plot and counterplot."—New York Ameri

Half A Rogue. With illustrations by Harrison Fisher. Inlay cover p ture also by Harrison Fisher.

"Here are dexterity of plot, glancing play at witty talk, characters really human humanly real, spirit and gladness, freshness and quick movement. 'Half a Rogue' is brisk as a horseback ride on a glorious morning. It is as varied as an April day. It is charming as two most charming girls can make it. Love and honor and success and the things worth fighting for and living for are involved in 'Half a Rogue.'"—Phila. Pr

Hearts and Masks. With illustrations by Harrison Fisher.

"The Man on the Box" was in his gayest mood when he wrote this most exhilarat story full of the zest of life. * * * A love affair begun and consummated in eight hou At every page the adventure turns an unexpected corner. Mr. Fisher's pretty girls and ma men make a fitting accompaniment to the merry tale of carnival entanglements.

The Lure of the Mask. With illustrations by Harrison Fisher and C Anderson.

The lure of a voice led John Hillard to a mysterious stranger, whom he eventua traces to her apartment, only to find that she receives him in a mask, and puts h upon his honor against stripping away the disguise. To the lure of the voice is added lure of the mask. The heroine carries her secret securely until the climax is reached, a then events move rapidly towards a thrilling and satisfactory ending. A most effect and charming romance.

The Man on the Box. Illustrated with Scenes Reproduced from the Play.

The Albany Times-Union calls it "the most sparkling book of the season," and says that it "tells a most absorbing story in the wittiest, most delightful way"; and the New York Times declares: "The story is extremely animated and presents a bewildering succession of intrigues and adventures and hair-breadth escapes."

The Puppet Crown. With illustrations by R. M. Reay.

"Harold MacGrath has attained the highest point achievable in recent fiction. We have the climax of romance and adventure in 'The Puppet Crown.'"—Philadelphia North American. The London Academy describes it as "an exciting story, full of intrigue and a good deal of human nature," and the Baltimore American as "a profusion of cleverness."

MAJOR, CHARLES.

Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall. Bertha Galland Edition, with numerous Scenes Reproduced from the Play.

"Dorothy Vernon is an Elizabethan maid, but a living, loving, lovable girl."—Mail and Express. "Dorothy is a splendid creation, a superb creature of brains, beauty, force, capacity and passion, a riot of energy, love and red blood. She is the fairest, fiercest, strongest, tenderest heroine that ever woke up a jaded novel reader and made him realize that life will be worth living so long as the writers of fiction create her like. * * * The story has brains, 'go,' virility, gumption and originality."—The Boston Transcript.

A Forest Hearth: A Romance of Indiana in the Thirties. With illustrations by C. O. DeLand.

A sunny love-story of early Indiana, "an idyl of the real"; a picture of one's own people which could hardly be drawn "with truer touch, a more delicate perception, a deeper sympathy," qualities which have gained for this author's work a record of steady popularity.

When Knighthood Was In Flower; or, the Love Story of Charles Brandon and Mary Tudor, the King's sister, and Happenings in the Reign of His August Majesty King Henry the Eighth. Rewritten and rendered into modern English from Sir Edwin Caskoden's memoirs. Illustrated with Numerous Scenes from the Play.

This love story of Charles Brandon and Mary Tudor, sister of King Henry VIII, is one of the most popular novels ever published. "Never was there written a prettier story of the Middle Ages," says the San Francisco Call, and hundreds of thousands of readers have echoed this generally expressed opinion.

Yolanda: Maid of Burgundy. Illustrated by Charlotte Weber Ditzler.

The volume is a genuine romance * * * and after the reviewer has become surfeited with problem novels, it is like coming out into the sunlight to read the fresh, sweet story of her love for Max."—The London World.

MARCHMONT, ARTHUR W.

By Right of Sword. With illustrations by Powell Chase.

The hero, a young Englishman, traveling through Russia, resembles closely an officer of the Guards, who is also a prominent Nihilist. This leads to a series of adventures thrilling in the extreme. Not even the most blasé novel reader can determine from one chapter to another what the sequel will be. An extremely good story in which the interest never flags. Challenges comparison with the "Prisoner of Zenda."

A Dash for a Throne. With illustrations by D. M. Smith.

"The scene is laid in Bavaria with Francis Joseph, and among the leading characters is the present Emperor of Germany. The story has a capital plot well worked out, and is full of snap and romance."—Chicago Tribune. "A thrilling story of adventure and intrigue * * * the narrative palpitates with stirring action."—Boston Globe. "The story is a capital one, reeking with romantic sentiment, and filled to the full of villainies all of which the hero outwits. An exciting entertainment."—The Dial.

The Heritage of Peril. With illustrations by Edith Leslie Lang.

Dessie Merrion accidentally becomes possessed of a number of stolen jewels under circumstances that will not permit her to make the fact known. This leads up to a series of adventures of the greatest interest to those who enjoy a good detective story admirably told. There is life, movement, animation on every page; and intensely dramatic situations.

Miser Hoadley's Secret: A Detective Story. Illustrated by Clare Angell.

A realistic novel of mystery in which scenes and events connected with a remarkable crime and the finding of a hidden fortune are described in splendid style. It is a rattling good story of love, intrigue, adventure, plots and counterplots.

The Price of Freedom. With illustrations by Clare Angell.

Colonel Roca, a South American, believing a legacy has been wrongly diverted from him, determines to regain the money and at the same time satisfy his desire for revenge. You may count on "thrill" and "suspense" to hold your attention till the author is done with you. A story remarkably clever in the telling.

MASON, A. E. W.

Clementina. With illustrations by Bernard Partridge. Bound in extra vellum cloth, stamped in colors.

The author of "The Four Feathers" gives us a delightful romance told in a spirited way of the early Eighteenth Century, when James Stuart was a young man and in love with the charming Princess Sobieski.

The Four Feathers.

"'Four Feathers' is a story of action. The feathers are white—the badge of cowardice—presented by the hero's brother officers, and by his fiancée, upon the discovery of his funking at the outbreak of the Soudan War. How he redeems himself and wins back the love of the heroine is the story, a stirring one of intense interest."—London Daily News. "An exceptionally good story superbly told."—Boston Herald.

Lawrence Clavering.

The story of a gallant Jacobite gentleman and a charming and intrepid young Jacobite maiden, and the disastrous attempt of 1715. "As a story of personal adventure it is original in plot and is well written."—The Outlook. "Strong in plot, well written, deserves to hold."—Phila. Ledger. "The story is conceived in the best vein of historical romance."—Current Literature. "Full of tense and exciting situations."—Detroit Free Press.

MARTIN, GEORGE MADDEN.

Emmy Lou: Her Book and Heart. Illustrated by Charles Louis Hinton.

Emmy Lou is irresistibly lovable because she is so absolutely real. It is a wonderfully human and appreciative book that will bring tears of delight to the eyes of any one who has ever loved a fledgling slip of a girl.

"The man who can read about her and not fall in love with her at first sight must have something wrong with him * * * The book is sure to become a classic, if not among children's books, at any rate among books about children."—N. Y. Sun.

MARTIN, HELEN R.

Tillie: A Mennonite Maid. With illustrations by Florence Scovel Shinn.

The little "Mennonite Maid" who wanders through these pages is something quite new in fiction. She is ambitious for self-development amid the most deadening surroundings, and hungry for books and beauty and love; and she comes into her inheritance at the end. The dialect is easily read and very amusing; and there is much humor as well as pathos in the Mennonite Maid.

"Tillie is faulty, sensitive, big-hearted, eminently human, and first, last and always lovable. Her charm glows warmly, the story is well handled, the characters skillfully developed."—The Book Buyer. "Tillie—quaint, tender, aspiring, defiant, triumphant Tillie. Tillie is a charming memory."—London Bookman.

MERRIMAN, HENRY SETON.

Barlasch of the Guard. With illustrations by The Kinneys.

A gray and faithful veteran of Napoleon's guard devotes himself heart and soul to the service of a girl of Dantzig, who has been married and parted at the church door. He joins Louis d'Aragon in the search for her husband, and together they witness the disaster and horror, the snowy agony of the Russian retreat. The gallant defense of Dantzig is also most graphically described. "The finest thing of its kind that Mr. Merriman has yet accomplished in fiction."—London World.

MERWIN, SAMUEL.

The Road Builders. With illustrations by F. B. Masters.

The plot centers in the struggle to build a little connecting link of railway. Financial life or death depends upon the hero putting it through, and no trick known to Wall Street strategy or legal chicanery is left untried. Texas is the scene and the story is a thriller.

"The finest thing about this is its breezy light-heartedness, its outdoor zest, its spirit of youth."—Chicago Record-Herald.

MERWIN, SAMUEL, and WEBSTER, HENRY K.

Calumet "K." With illustrations by Harry C. Edwards.

"Calumet 'K' is a two-million-bushel grain elevator, and this story tells how Charlie Bannon built it against time. Every young business man who is bright enough to acquire the qualities which Bannon displays will find it a sure guide to success—and meantime an uncommonly good story. As a tale it is swift, simple and absorbing."—Com. Advertiser.

Comrade John.

"It is just the sort of romance of present existing conditions that appeals to our familiar types of life and characters and the susceptibility of the general mass of people to the magnetic powers of a strong, bold leader who offers something for nothing, something worth while without toil, pain or weariness."—Boston Herald. "It is a highly amusing tale, told with much spirit, and with a delectable fertility of humorous invention."—The Dial. Uniformly exciting, exhilarating, and filled with delightful satire."—Interior.

MICHELSON, MIRIAM.

In the Bishop's Carriage. With illustrations by Harrison Fisher.

"From the moment when, in another girl's chinchilla coat, she jumps into the unknown carriage, and, snuggling up to the solemn owner, calls him 'Daddy'—from that moment until she makes her final bow, a happy wife and a triumphant actress, Nance Olden, the heroine of 'In the Bishop's Carriage,' holds your fancy captive and your heart in thrall."—New York American. "If jaded novel readers want a new sensation, they will get it here."—Chicago Tribune. "For genuine, unaffected enjoyment, read the adventures of this dashing desperado in petticoats. It is beguiling, bewitching and full of originality."—Philadelphia Item. "Every one is reading it and enjoying it."—The Critic.

MILLER, ELIZABETH.

The City of Delight. A Love Drama of the Siege and Fall of Jerusalem. With illustrations by F. X. Leyendecker.

To make a love story of the first Christian century more vivid, more human and more intense than the romances of to-day—is the feat Elizabeth Miller has accomplished. A little group of most vital men and women stand out in splendid relief against the magnificent spectacle of Jerusalem's fall. Roman, Greek and Jew, emperor and clown, leap into being in the flashes of a great imagination. It is more human than "Saul of Tarsus" and more dramatic than "The Yoke." It is a romance of compelling charm. It has life and strength and is illumined with the colors of the glorious east.

MITCHELL, JOHN AMES.

The Pines of Lory. Decorations by A. D. Blashfield.

The editor of Life, and the author of this artistic and graceful bit of fiction, dedicates his book to all lovers of lovers, and lovers of out-door things, and of most forms of folly. The central characters are a man and a maiden marooned, unintentionally, on one of the St. Lawrence islands, where nothing seemed alive and moving but the waves. They are sole companions for a year and a day—and when rescued, they find love has been growing around them, and they decide to be companions for evermore. It is an old theme invested with a new charm; and the story is related with zest and vivacity.

MITCHELL, S. WEIR.

The Adventures of Francois. With illustrations by Andre Castaigne.

"Historic figures live again in the pages, and the great drama of the French Revolution is handled with masterly power. It is a delightful surprise and nothing that he has heretofore done deserves so cordial a greeting."—New York Times. "A vivid picture of life during one of the most thrilling episodes of modern times. For descriptive charm and vivid character-drawing it is one of Dr. Mitchell's most delightful novels."—The Argonaut.

MITCHELL, S. WEIR.—Continued.

Constance Trescot.

A powerful story of a woman's vendetta, the scenes of which are laid in a Southern city just after the Civil War. This novel presents in Constance Trescot a psychological study of a New England woman of splendid character and of high birth and culture. It shows how even a woman of this refinement will degenerate when the purpose of destruction becomes a fixed idea. It is a brilliant study of the effect which a strong passion has upon a woman's mind.

MOORE, F. FRANKFORT.

The Jessamy Bride.

The hero of the romance is Oliver Goldsmith, and its central motive is the pathetic story of the love of the author of "The Vicar of Wakefield" for Mary Horneck. The theme is fascinating, and the glamour of incomparable associations linger about the characters of the dramatis personæ. We meet Johnson, the famous literary critic, domineering, loquaciously and pompously egotistic, tender and genuinely pious; now insulting Boswell, the greatest of biographers, now taking with humility the rebuke he feels he deserves; the inimitable Garrick, the peerless actor; the mild Reynolds, the celebrated painter; Burke, the greatest of modern orators; the delightful Mrs. Abingdon, the pretentious blue-stocking Mrs. Thrale—these and other members of "the charmed circle" appear in these pages.

MOWBRAY, J. P.

A Journey to Nature. With illustrations.

"It sounds a new note in literature; it is vital, fascinating, full of humor, and insight, and humanity. Its humor, its philosophy, its pungency of style, and its wholesome views of life are qualities that go to the making of literature. The author's management of the heroine is the most artistic feature of his work. Casual observation, curiosity, sympathetic attention, sentimental interest, affection, love and chastened disappointment—these are the successive notes in the gamut of the relationship between the man and the maiden. It is a familiar sequence, but not often presented with such delicacy and charm. The book is an evangel of the quiet life, the life freed from the unnecessary perplexities of man's own making, the true life of the spirit for which so many of us vainly strive. It is a beautiful book."—The Dial. "Mr. Mowbray is a naturalist, a philosopher, something of a poet, and something of an artist, and he writes the book in order that he may describe beautiful things beautifully, and analyze human motive pleasantly and not too deeply."—London World.

MUNN, CHARLES CLARK.

The Girl from Tim's Place. With illustrations by Frank T. Merrill.

"Figuring in the pages of this story there are several strong characters. Typical New England folk and an especially sturdy one, old Cy Walker, through whose instrumentality Chip comes to happiness and fortune. There is a chain of comedy, tragedy, pathos and love, which makes a dramatic story."—Boston Herald. "The development of the heroine, nicknamed 'Chip,' into a delightful character is anything but monotonous."—N. Y. Times.

The Hermit: A Story of the Wilderness. With illustrations by A. B. Shute.

"Mr. Munn goes back close to the heart of nature. The joy of woods and waters is here; there is much of camp life and wood lore. The power of the forest is strong upon the reader, and the spell is increased to the greatest intensity by a thrilling double mystery in the depth of the Maine wilderness involving the character who gives the title to the book. It is, moreover, a genuine old-fashioned love story of the kind that the public never tires of reading. The humor is rich, and the characters strong and well sustained. As a novel of heart interest, it will repeat the success of 'Uncle Terry,' while being stronger in construction and development of plot."—The Bookman.

Myrtle Baldwin. With illustrations by Henry Roth.

A strong and interesting presentation of life in the under world of a great city, and it is told with sincerity, and a forceful vigor and pathos that compels attention. The love story is charmingly told * * * the book is full of the delicate studies of the good in men and women everywhere. The story is wholesome and full of suggestion—a helpful warning. In it we see the gentle and lovable "Myrtle Baldwin" transplanted from the island home in the sea to the city, and pass with her through the many pitfalls that line her pathway. That she is one girl in a hundred that meets the same temptations and conquers them undefiled is the keynote of the volume.

Rockhaven. With illustrations by Frank T. Merrill.

"It is a clean, forceful picture of men and women as we know them. It has to do h emotions, schemes, plots, and counterplots, joy and sadness, success and disappoint- nt of the present time. The reader is able to understand every character in the story; t know all of them personally; loving some and detesting others."—Chicago Tribune. "In ineating New England traits and speech Mr. Munn is at his best, and his best is whole- ne and entertaining."—The Outlook. "'Rockhaven' is an idyl to be thought of in the ne breath with summer waves and all-the-year love."—New York World.

Uncle Terry: A Story of the Maine Coast. With illustrations by Helena Higginbotham.

"A hearty and truthful tale of New England character in its best qualities of sturdy rpose, honest simplicity, and a certain trait which one might term 'sweetness at the re.'"—Springfield Republican. "'Uncle Terry' is an estimable type of hardy fisherman, nest and plain-spoken, but manifesting in his phrasing a subtle sarcasm that is amusing." Boston Courier. "It is a sincere study of life, wrought with care."—Boston Transcript.

ICHOLSON, MEREDITH.

The House of a Thousand Candles. With a frontispiece in colors by Howard Chandler Christy.

A novel of romance and adventure, of love and valor, of mystery and hidden treasure. ie hero is required to spend a whole year in the isolated house, which according to his andfather's will shall then become his. If the terms of the will be violated the house es to a young woman of whom he has never heard, and whom the will, furthermore, rbids him to marry. It has love, mystery, and animated action to arouse interest. No- dy can guess the secret and the whole plot moves along with a most animated swing.

The Main Chance. With illustrations by Harrison Fisher.

A "traction deal" in a Western city is the pivot about which the action of this clever ory revolves. But it is in the character-drawing of the principals that the author's rength lies. Exciting incidents develop their inherent strength and weakness, and if rtue wins in the end, it is quite in keeping with its carefully-planned antecedents.

"We commend it for its workmanship—for its smoothness and its sensible and pleasant ncies, and for its general charm."—N. Y. Sun.

The Port of Missing Men. With illustrations by Clarence F. Underwood.

There is romance, love, mystery, plot and fighting and a breathless dash and go about e telling which makes one quite forget about the improbabilities of the story; and it all ids in the old-fashioned, healthy American way.

"Doubly delicious in its pure romantic imagination. Certainly no romance of recent ears touches this book in the qualities that go to make a story of stirring, exciting, touch- g and interesting."—Washington Herald. "The clash of wits is as bright as that of nives."—The Nation.

Rosalind at Red Gate. With illustrations by Arthur I. Keller.

A story of two girls as like as two peas and constantly being mistaken for one nother, even by their respective lovers; of a gallant susceptible young Irishman, who oes to the rescue of beauty in distress and blunders persistently, but with unfailing good ick; of a brace of brothers, one deeply wronged and forgiving, the other villainous and evengeful; and a maiden aunt and an egregious young lover. It is an old theme, invested ith a new charm, and the story is related with zest and vivacity. A remarkably well- alanced story; an entertaining and delightful book.

NORRIS, FRANK.

Blix.

"Frank Norris has written in 'Blix' just what such a woman's name would imply— story of a frank, fearless girl comrade to all men who are true and honest because she s true and honest. How she saved the man she fishes and picnics with in a spirit of out- oor platonic friendship, makes a pleasant story, and a perfect contrast to the author's McTeague.'"—Baltimore Sun. "A splendid and successful story."—Washington Times.

NORRIS, FRANK.—Continued.

McTeague: A Story of San Francisco.

"Since Bret Harte and the Forty-niner no one has written of California life with t vigor and accuracy of Mr. Frank Norris. His 'McTeague' settled his right to a place American literature; and he has now presented a third novel, 'Blix,' which is in son respects the finest and likely to be the most popular of the three."—Washington Time W. D. Howells said: "I consider 'McTeague' one of the best novels America has produced

A Man's Woman.

A story which has for a heroine a girl decidedly out of the ordinary run of fictio It is most dramatic, containing some tremendous pictures of the daring of the men wh are trying to reach the Pole—indeed Arctic exploration is the theme upon which the who tale hangs. But it is at the same time essentially a woman's book, and the story worl itself out in the solution of a difficulty that is continually presented in real life—the wife attitude in relation to her husband when both have well-defined careers.

The Octopus: A Story of California.

"The Octopus" is a story of wheat-raising and railroad greed in California. immediately made a place for itself. * * * It is full of enthusiasm and poetry an conscious strength. One cannot read it without a responsive thrill of sympathy for th earnestness, the breadth of purpose, the verbal power of the man.

The Pit: A Story of Chicago.

This powerful novel is the fictitious narrative of a deal in the Chicago wheat pit an holds the reader from the beginning. In a masterly way the author has grasped the essen tial spirit of the great City by the Lakes. The social existence, the gambling in stock and produce, the characteristic life in Chicago, form a background for an exceedingly vigor ous and human tale of modern life and love.

OLDMEADOW, ERNEST.

Susan. With a color frontispiece by Frank Haviland. Beautiful medallion in color on front cover.

"A story so dainty, so pretty, so humorous we have not read for a long time" is th way the London Times notices the book; and the London Leader says it is "a romance tender, witty, charming—a new note in fiction * * * the freshness and gaiety of it al is wholly delightful."

O'NEILL, ROSE CECIL.

The Loves of Edwy. With illustrations by the Author.

A love story par excellence, following with perfect sureness of touch the romance o three interlacing lives from its beginning in childish attachment to the flowering forth of a grand passion. * * * Her characters are real. In her power of depicting the humor and pathos of childhood she is without a peer. The sixty beautiful illustrations make th book a choice possession.

ORDEAL OF ELIZABETH, THE. With a frontispiece.

"Too good a novel to remain unclaimed."—Chicago Post. "The character drawing is excellent, clear cut, natural and consistent."—Baltimore Sun. "A well written story, show ing the influence of heredity, with the interest sustained to the end."—Living Church. "The story is strong, striking in its plot and climax. Realistic in its presentation of modern society life; vivid in its characterization. A novel of the first class."—Washington Star.

OSBOURNE, LLOYD.

Infatuation. With illustrations by Karl Anderson.

Phyllis Ladd is the heart and center of this book. She is absent from hardly a single paragraph, and in every paragraph she is an utter joy. The strange infatuation of this young girl of charm and refinement for a man not possessing the usual qualities of a hero and the stranger transformation wrought in his common clay by her "genius for loving" are set forth with stunning and extraordinary vigor. The story is human, real, living, noble, simple, but passionate; and boldly unconventional. All the fascination of the stage is in the atmosphere. "Is a striking tribute to the alchemic power of love. It touches firmly and vividly the facts of real life, showing humor, pathos and insight."—Chicago News.

RMOND, FREDERIC.

The Three Keys. With frontispiece in color by Harrison Fisher, and half-tone illustrations.

Is the story of a man who, on the verge of suicide because he has squandered several lions, turns thief to save a friend from bankruptcy, and if ever Fortune played into a n's hands and gave him what he wanted, it is in this very exciting story of love, high nce, and adventure. While debating how to secure the necessary funds, the hero is ap-ached by a young Wall Street man, who gives him the three keys of his safe-deposit ilts and asks him to act for him in a very important deal while he is out of town. How the cks are taken from one safe, used as security, and returned to another safe without the l owner knowing, makes a story that keeps the reader on the qui vive all the time, but, de from the money complication, the hero has to extricate himself from a situation that o involves two women, one of whom is his fiancée.

VERTON, GWENDOLIN.

The Heritage of Unrest.

A novel of the army of the frontier during the period of the Indian outbreaks under ronimo in the late Seventies. Valuable historically as a picture of scenes that never can repeated.

"A remarkable book, and in all respects it is an interesting departure from the current e of fiction. It is a story of American army life fully matching the frontier sketches Owen Wister, and told with such off-hand colloquialism, now and again, as might mark work of a Yankee Kipling."—New York World.

ARKER, FRANCES.

Hope Hathaway: A Story of Western Ranch Life. With illustrations by C. M. Russell.

A story of Western ranch life centered about the bitter hatred of the "cow-punchers" ward the sheep-raisers. It is the romance of a self-willed Western lass who undergoes sorts of hardships in order to have her own way.

ARKER, GILBERT.

The Battle of the Strong. With illustrations.

A story full of spirit and action with a complicated love plot in which there are three en to one maid. It is satisfactory that the best of the three wins the girl in the end. it she suffers much in the meanwhile, and the growth of her character in the process, is osely and delicately indicated. The plot is originally conceived and brilliantly wrought t."—London Guardian.

The Right of Way. With illustrations by Arthur Keller.

"Unquestionably Mr. Parker's greatest work * * * it is a brilliant character study, story of tremendous dramatic power, a love story, a tale of curious psychological in-rest."—The Dial. "The plot is dramatic. Things happen right along from the first ge to the last. We are left with the mental image of a vivid dramatic picture painted a masterly fashion * * * a story of unusual freshness, power and visualization."—New ork Times. Mr. Parker has never written anything so good as the 'Right of Way.'—ew York Tribune. Dramatized, it made a most successful play.

ARRY, DAVID M.

The Scarlet Empire. With illustrations by Herman C. Wall.

This romance of socialism is a keen bit of satire and a romantic counterblast to "Look-g Backward." A young socialist, by strange chance, finds himself on the lost island of tlantis under the sea. Here a thoroughgoing social democracy is in active operation. e passes through many exciting adventures, has an enthralling love affair, and learns by the ay how destructive to all the interests of life, how ruinous to the State are the principles f socialism when carried to their logical conclusion.

PATERNOSTER, G. SIDNEY.

The Lady of the Blue Motor. Frontispiece in colors by John C. Frohn.

"The Lady of the Blue Motor" is an audacious heroine who drove her mysterious car at breakneck speed. Her plea for assistance in an adventure promising more than a spice of danger could not of course be disregarded by any gallant fellow motorist. Mr. Paternoster's hero rose promptly to the occasion. Across France they tore and across the English Channel. There, the escapade past, for a time, he lost her.

"Its originality, exciting adventures, into which is woven a charming love theme, and its undercurrent of fun furnishes a dashing detective story which a motor-mad world will thoroughly enjoy reading."—Boston Herald.

PATTERSON, JOSEPH MEDILL.

A Little Brother of the Rich. With illustrations.

It tells the story of the idle rich, and is a vivid and truthful picture of society and stage life written by a Socialist who is himself a conspicuous member of the Western millionaire class. It is full of grim satire, caustic wit and flashing epigrams. It will be widely read for its intrinsic merit and interest.

"Mr. Patterson writes with the earnestness and with the bitter conviction of one who has lived through and seen with his own eyes the phases of society life."—The Boston Herald. "It is sensational to a degree in its theme, daring in its treatment and brutally frank in its language, lashing society and its alleged practices as it was never scourged before."—The New York Sun.

PAYNE, WILL.

When Love Speaks.

A vigorous novel of the America of to-day. It deals with the questions of civic virtue and political corruption, but the moral problems involved are strictly subordinated to the author's main purpose, which is to tell a story—to present human passion, the interplay of motive, and this through plot and action. A fine, clean, stirring novel of typical American life. "It is worked out with Mr. Payne's usually singular grasp on the affairs of men and the emotions of women."—Phila. Inquirer.

PHELPS, ELIZABETH STUART.

The Man in the Case. With illustrations by Henry J. Peck.

"The Man in the Case" is a novel of mystery, of human devotion, and of simple romance. Ingenious in plot, the story centers about a fine-natured woman who holds the reader's attention and interest, and who, although branded an outcast by the cruel gossips of the country town in which she lives, wins the fight for love and life. The narrative power and clever treatment places the book among the most interesting of recent novels.

A Singular Life.

The story of Emanuel Bayard, whose life was singular in its simplicity, helpfulness, sincerity, and unselfishness. In many ways it reminds one of the ideal life of Jesus. It has had a kind of popularity very unusual.

"The book abounds in sketches of character, some of the lowest types, and touching all grades of society possible in that environment. These are all remarkably good. This readable story is fresh, bright, graphic, deeply pathetic, eloquent, powerful."—New York Times.

Trixy. With a frontispiece.

The Brooklyn Eagle calls it, "A most striking book—likely to become as much a classic as the 'Black Beauty.'" And the New York Evening Post says: "It goes straight to the heart and ought to do great good. It is tender, sweet and tremendously intense and earnest, and is full of Mrs. Ward's delicacy and wit."

PHILLIPS, DAVID GRAHAM.

The Cost. Illustrated by Harrison Fisher.

"A masterly book, interesting to the point of fascination, analytic to the point of keenness, thoroughly well written with complete understanding, and entirely committed to advocacy of the best things in life."—Chicago Examiner. "Rapid and vivid, sure and keen, light and graceful."—New York Times. "If you want a novel that is intensely modern and intensely full of speed and spirit, you have it in 'The Cost.'"—San Francisco Examiner.

PHILLIPS, DAVID GRAHAM.—Continued.

The Deluge. With illustrations by George Gibbs.

A story of high and frenzied finance. Enormous interests are at stake in the plot. Millions are involved. The onslaught of the great Blacklock upon the kings of commerce leads to "Wild Week" on Wall Street—one of the most thrilling incidents in modern romance. The story takes on a gigantic, a monumental interest and impressiveness. But in the clash of the great business conflict, the love element is not for a moment forgotten. It is the glorifying touch in a novel of magnificent proportions and persistent absorption.

Light-Fingered Gentry: A Novel. With a frontispiece.

Mr. Phillips has chosen the inside workings of the great insurance companies as his field of battle; the salons of the great Fifth Avenue mansions as the antechambers of his field of intrigue; and the two things which every natural, big man desires, love and success, as the goal of his leading character. It is more of a love story than any other of Mr. Phillips' novels. The book is full of practical philosophy, which makes it worth careful reading, for the author has studied life carefully and his conclusions are those of the expert analyst of motive and character.

Old Wives for New.

The story is a daring one, but nevertheless it rings true. It is a frank and faithful picture of married life as it exists to-day among the prosperous classes of this country. It is the story of a young couple who loved as others do, but whose love turns to indifference; and Mr. Phillips shows us why their married life was a failure, and the process of the rearrangement of their lives.

The Plum Tree. With illustrations by E. M. Ashe.

Here is a novel that centers in itself the whole movement of the day and age, a movement that must inevitably sweep the nation with the mightiness of its growing strength. Day by day the common people are becoming more and more aware of the corruption in the great game of politics. The "Plum Tree" will do more than anything else to hasten the realization. It is immeasurably better than any other novel ever written on national politics. Puts the political neophyte "next" to the "real thing," and what he reads ought to make him "wise." It is a disclosure of how men and measures are made and unmade "on the inside."

The Second Generation. With illustrations by Fletcher C. Ramson, and inlay cover.

"It is a story that proves how, in some cases, the greatest harm a rich man may do his children, is to leave them his money. The first generation is the fine typical American that has risen by his own efforts from nothing to riches—an aristocracy of achievement. The second is often the arrogant, hateful, ridiculous snob."—Town Topics. "A strong, wholesome story of contemporary American life—thoughtful, well-conceived and admirably written; forceful, sincere and true; and intensely interesting."—Boston Herald.

PHILLIPS, H. WALLACE.

Red Saunders: His Adventures West and East. With a frontispiece.

It is certainly witty and clever, and full of picturesque phrases. Has been commended by Westerners as a much truer presentment of cowboy life and dialect than most efforts in the same vein. "There never was anything breezier, funnier, or more diverting than this awful hero 'Red Saunders.' The breath of the plains is in the book, and it is wholesome and interesting reading."—Boston Transcript.

PHILLPOTTS, EDEN.

The American Prisoner: A Romance of the West Country. With illustrations by Claude A. Shepperson.

One expects a Dartmoor story from Phillpotts and "The American Prisoner" is again full of the atmosphere of the rugged, weatherworn, untrammeled moor.

"Loaded with exciting incident; one startling event threads upon another * * * one finds in vivid touches the power of characterization and description."—The Book Buyer. "A book of unusual power and passion; * * * its tense hold on the sympathy never relaxes; and * * * all together the situation is as strange as it is compelling in its force, and it is handled with skill and vigor. In all, this is a grim but forceful romance."—The Outlook.

The Secret Woman.

A soul-tragedy, handled with consummate power and keen understanding of the diverse human heart. The world-old social sin, with its awful aftermath of suffering, is expiated after remorse, hardness, weakness, death, and all the attendant passions have worked out their dreadful missions in the lives of those who caused and suffered the primal wrong.

"Every figure in the book is a distinct, true-to-nature character."—Chicago Post. "Is a work of fiction to be judged by the standards of the best of its kind * * * a genuine book about men and women who really live and love and suffer in its pages. * * * To read it without absorbed interest is impossible."—Phila. Press.

PIDGIN, CHARLES FELTON.

Blennerhasset; or, The Decrees of Fate. A Romance founded upon events of American history. With illustrations by Charles H. Stephens.

A romance rehabilitating Aaron Burr—the most mysterious, interesting and attractive character in American history.

A fascinating tale centering round Burr and Hamilton. Throughout the clever chain of the events of Burr's dramatic life runs the thread of a unique love story—a golden thread giving its gleam to somber realities.

The Corsican Lovers: A Story of the Vendetta.

Corsica, the home of the vendetta, is a land of deep love, intense hate, and strong passions. Such a country is the home of romance * * * Despite the customary use which has been made of the Corsican vendetta in literature and the drama, Mr. Pidgin felt there was another story in it * * * and he has written it. While the baleful spirit of the vendetta is shown throughout the story, love finds a way to stay the hand of vengeance. England, France and Corsica figure in the story, which is full of life, action and picturesque scenes.

Quincy Adams Sawyer. A Picture of New England Home Life. With illustrations by C. W. Reed, and Scenes Reproduced from the Play.

One of the best New England stories ever written. It is full of homely human interest * * * there is a wealth of New England village character, scenes and incidents * * * forcibly, vividly and truthfully drawn. Few books have enjoyed a greater sale and popularity. Dramatized, it made the greatest rural play of recent times.

QUICK, HERBERT.

Aladdin & Co.

The New York Times, noticing the book, says: "A story very much out of the ordinary * * * developed with skill and humor. * * * For sheer excitement and breathless interest it would be hard to match in very recent literature the wild ride through flood and storm of the special train." "The best of this book is not its picture of a Western boom town, good as that is, nor its really interesting story, but the portrait it presents of the chief promoter, a rare whimsical genius" * * * is the way The Outlook comments on it.

REED, MYRTLE.

Lavender and Old Lace.

One of the prettiest, sweetest and quaintest of old-fashioned love stories * * * A rare book, exquisite in spirit and conception, full of delicate fancy, of tenderness, of delightful humor and spontaneity. A dainty volume, especially suitable for a gift for any member of the family.

"Miss Myrtle Reed may always be depended upon to write a story in which poetry, charm, tenderness, and humor are combined into a clever and entertaining book. Her characters are delightful and she displays a quaint humor of expression and a quiet feeling of pathos which give a touch of active realism to all her writings."—The Philadelphia Press.

RICKERT, EDITH.

The Reaper.

"Is something more than fiction—it gives a realistic, poetic, imaginative view of a wonderful and curious people."—Boston Traveler. "Introduces us to simple but genuine fisher-folk. * * * So impressive are Miss Rickert's accounts of the Shetland character, so vivid her pictures of their alternating happy and sordid lives, that we may accept 'The Reaper' as one of the notable books of the season."—Boston Transcript. "Grips at the heart because it has the ring of truth."—The Book Buyer.

RINEHART, MARY ROBERTS.

The Circular Staircase. With illustrations by Lester Ralph.

In an extended notice the New York Sun says: "To readers who care for a really good detective story 'The Circular Staircase' can be recommended without reservation. From the moment that the elderly maiden lady, who tells the story, enters into possession of the summer residence she has hired, something startling and unexpected happens in every chapter, and there is no time to take breath till the various mysteries are solved at the very end. The story is put together skilfully and artistically. The extraordinary incidents follow on each other naturally, the behavior of the several actors is possible, there is no intuition or omniscience on any one's part in following clues, so that the impression is of things that might have really happened. The plot about which the incidents are woven is ingenious." And the Philadelphia Record declares 'The Circular Staircase' deserves the laurels for thrills, for weirdness and things unexplained and inexplicable."

The Man in Lower Ten. Illustrated by Howard Chandler Christy.

Every chapter has its dramatic value and the reader is swept along by events following so quickly that one doesn't know what to expect next. Mixed berths and the much-wanted criminal evidence in an alligator valise start the thrills; and then theft, murder and finally a wreck follows to keep up the suspense. Of course there is a romance as well, and a pretty one it is. From the initial impulse to the final pause of "The Man in Lower Ten" there is neither time nor occasion to look back, and the brightness of the telling persists in the memory.

RIVES, HALLIE ERMINIE.

The Castaway. With illustrations in colors by Howard Chandler Christy.

The book takes its title from a saying of Byron's: "Three great men ruined in one year—a king, a cad and a castaway." And the castaway, crowned with genius, smutched with slander, illumined by fame—was Byron himself! This is the romance of his loves—the strange marriage and still stranger separation.

"A good piece of work suffused with the rosy light of romance."—New York Times. "Striking in subject and treatment, picturesque and entertaining."—New York Herald.

Hearts Courageous. With illustrations by A. B. Wenzell.

Miss Rives knows her Virginia. She has built a book of enduring historical value, one that shows luminous study of the conditions that brought about the Revolution. As fiercely dramatic as is the tale, yet it is delicate, moving and tender.

"'Hearts Courageous' is one of the finest historical romances for many a day. It stands in the very forefront of all works written by American women."—Baltimore Sun. "As for the love plot that relates how a gallant French officer who aids the American patriots, wins the heart and hand of a lovely Virginia belle, Miss Rives's 'Hearts Courageous' is a truer picture of Colonial days than any novel of recent years. The book is delightfully illustrated by A. B. Wenzell."—Washington Post.

Satan Sanderson. With illustrations in colors by A. B. Wenzell.

From the heroic figures of the American Revolution and the romantic personage of Byron's day, Miss Rives has turned to the here and now. And in the present she finds for her immense and brilliant talent a tale as dramatic and enthralling as any of the storied past. The career of the Rev. Harry Sanderson, known as "Satan" in his college days, who sowed the wind to reap the whirlwind and won at last through strangest penance the bright prize of love, seizes the reader in the strait grip of its feverish interest. Miss Rives has outdone herself in the invention of a love story that rings with lyric feeling and touches every fiber of the heart with strength and beauty.

ROBBINS, ELIZABETH.

The Convert.

A remarkable woman, who has had the courage to go farther and do more than most women, has here written a remarkable book. It is strong, original, emotional and magnetic, and throws a flood of light on some of the motives that have actuated noted English women to demand equal suffrage. Some of the characters are real; and some of these realities—very charming women they have been found—have become widely known in the United States. A sterling example of the bigger, worthier sort of book—done supremely well.

"As a notable romance it will take a high place."—San Francisco Argonaut. "The dramatic events of the recent suffragist movement are described * * * like etchings of street scenes * * * with the vitality and surprise of pictures thrown from a stereopticon upon a dark wall."—Chicago Tribune.

ROBERTS, CHARLES G. D.

Haunters of the Silences. With illustrations by Charles Livingston Bull.

The stories in Mr. Roberts' new collection are the strongest and best he has ever written. He has largely taken for his subjects those animals rarely met with in books, whose lives are spent "In the Silences," where they are the supreme rulers. Mr. Roberts has written of them sympathetically, as always, but with fine regard for the scientific truth.

Others may have written successful animal books, but it has remained for Roberts to crystallize into a series of vibrant character studies told with graphic power, insight, and sympathy the really salient features of the horizonless life of the animal world * * * bound to take its place as a standard classic. "Of all the Nature writers he is by far the most charming, the most literary, and the most interesting."—New York Times.

The Heart of the Ancient Wood. With illustrations by James L. Weston.

This book strikes a new note in literature. It is a realistic romance of the folk of the torical, and are employed to give their terrible emphasis to that which is equally true in the ancient wood and the wild beasts who felt her spell and became her friends. It is not fanciful, with talking beasts; nor is it merely an exquisite idyl of the beasts themselves. It is an actual romance, in which the animal characters play their parts as naturally as do the human. The atmosphere of the book is enchanting. The reader feels the undulating, whimpering music of the forest, the power of the shady silences, the dignity of the beasts who live closest to the heart of the wood.

The Kindred of the Wild: A Book of Animal Life. With illustrations by Charles Livingston Bull.

"Appeals alike to the young and to the merely youthful-hearted. Close observation. Graphic description. We get a sense of the great wild and its denizens. Out of the common. Vigorous and full of character. The book is one to be enjoyed; all the more because it smacks of the forest instead of the museum."—London Morning Post. John Burroughs says: "In the 'Kindred of the Wild' one finds much to admire and commend. The volume is in many ways the most brilliant collection of Animal Stories that has appeared. It reaches a high order of literary merit."

The Watchers of the Trails. A companion volume to the "Kindred of the Wild." With 48 full-page plates and decorations from drawings by Charles Livingston Bull.

These stories are exquisite in their refinement, and yet robust in their appreciation of some of the rougher phases of woodcraft. "This is a book full of delight. An additional charm lies in Mr. Bull's faithful and graphic illustrations, which in fashion all their own tell the story of wild life, illuminating and supplementing the pen pictures of the author."—Literary Digest. "The stories are full of action, the brute heroes have a vivid personality, and the style is graceful and convincing."—The Nation. "Professor Roberts is the most literary as well as the most imaginative and vivid of all the nature writers."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Red Fox. The Story of His Adventurous Career in the Ringwaak Wilds, and His Triumphs over the Enemies of His Kind. With 50 illustrations, including frontispiece in color and cover design by Charles Livingston Bull.

A brilliant chapter in natural history. Infinitely more wholesome reading than the average tale of sport, since it gives a glimpse of the hunt from the point of view of the hunted. "True in substance but fascinating as fiction. It will interest old and young, city-bound and free-footed, those who know animals and those who do not."—Record-Herald.

ROBERTS, MORLEY.

The Idlers. With a frontispiece in colors of Renée Buckingham by John C. Frohn.

The London Literary World says: "In 'The Idlers' Mr. Morley Roberts does for the smart set of London what Mrs. Wharton has done in 'The House of Mirth' for the American social class of the same name. His primary object seems to be realism, the portrayal of life as it is without exaggeration, and we were impressed by the reserve displayed by the novelist. It is a powerful novel, a merciless dissection of modern society similar to that which a skillful surgeon would make of a pathological case." The New York Sun says: "It is as absorbing as the devil. Mr. Roberts gives us the antithesis of 'Rachel Marr' in an equally masterful and convincing work." Charles G. D. Roberts says: "It is a work of great ethical force."

:OE, E. P.

Barriers Burned Away. With a frontispiece.

A handsome new issue of this graphic story of the great Chicago fire which has en-eared itself to millions of readers. The love story that runs through the book is charming, handled with infinite skill, and never loses its interest. Nearly all these scenes are his-›rical, and are employed to give their terrible emphasis to that which is equally true in the ›renest and securest times. Though published nearly forty years ago, it is still in more ›tive demand than many stories of the present day. A most attractive volume, with a cover f extraordinary beauty.

?UNKLE, BERTHA.

The Helmet of Navarre. With illustrations by André Castaigne.

"This book has human nature in it as well as the flavor of well-planned intrigue. Best f all, it has the ring of true romance. It gives a spontaneous, life-like account of figures ıd deeds, and it should give keen enjoyment to those who care for a good story well told." -New York Tribune. "It palpitates with life on every page."—Boston Transcript.

The Truth About Tolna: A Novel of Modern New York Life. With a frontispiece in colors by Henry Hutt.

Just the maddest, merriest, most whimsical story of New York musical and society ›lk published in many a day; a book to read aloud and enjoy with others; a book to ab-›rb at a sitting, and then pick up the next day and chuckle over again. The Brooklyn 'itizen declares that, without doubt, it is "the only real depiction of modern New York ›ciety life that has ever been written." It is crisp and clean and clever; and the truth bout Tolna—Tolna is a Metropolitan Opera House idol with a wonderful voice—keeps ıe reader guessing to the very end.

AGE, WILLIAM.

Robert Tournay: A Romance of the French Revolution. With illustrations by Eric Pape and Mary Ayer.

An exciting tale of exciting times when Change and Progress startled the world.)anton and Robespierre figure. The Convention and the Commune clash. The historical ›cenes are graphically produced. This remarkable novel is full of strength and movement nd sweetness, and is exceedingly true to history. And the love story is told with skill and harm. "The story is well told, the interest unflagging, and the succession of events rapid nd exciting."—The Bookman.

;ANGSTER, MARGARET E.

Eleanor Lee. With a frontispiece.

Love does not fade after marriage—if it is real—nor is there less interest in reading ›s story if it is rightly told. Eleanor Lee is the story of a beautiful girl's life struggle to edeem from vice the husband she loves. She is not faultless, nor is he a villain—they re both human. Eleanor is a true woman who is not embittered by adversity and whose .delity is not shaken by temptation; she exemplifies the power and beauty of true woman-ıood. The story goes straight to the heart of every one who knows the meaning of "love" .nd "home."

;COTT, JOHN REED.

Beatrix of Clare. With illustrations by Clarence F. Underwood.

A spirited and irresistibly attractive historical romance of the fifteenth century, boldly ›nceived and skilfully carried out. Mr. Scott has set his stage in a picturesque period of English history, and crowded it with fair ladies and knightly men. In the hero and heroine ıe has created a pair whose mingled emotions and alternating hopes and fears will find a velcome in many lovers of the present hour. Beatrix is a fascinating daughter of Eve, beau-iful, of course, but more attractive still for her tantalizing ways. The action of the story s swift and moving; the picturesque atmosphere by manner and speech is at all times well ·ustained and the characters bear themselves with gallantry and fortitude.

"To all who enjoy a good romance we can thoroughly recommend 'Beatrix of Clare.'"—The Athenæum. "Irresistibly attractive."—Philadelphia North American.

REED, JOHN SCOTT.—Continued.

The Colonel of the Red Huzzars. Illustrated by Clarence F. Underwoo

"Full of absorbing charm, sustained interest, and a wealth of thrilling and romant situations. "So naïvely fresh in its handling, so plausible through its naturalness, that comes like a mountain breeze across the far-spreading desert of similar romances."—Gazett Times, Pittsburg. "A slap-dashing every-day romance."—New York Sun.

SEAWELL, MOLLY ELLIOT.

The Fortunes of Fifi. Illustrated in color by T. de Thulstrup.

A delicious comedy of youth, high spirits, captivating people and charming sentimer Fifi is a glad, mad little French actress. Beautiful and ambitious, talented and mischievou she ventures on some remarkable performances, in which the Emperor, the Pope, a lotte ticket, a monkey and a blue satin bed are all somehow involved. It is a porcelain jar fille with rose leaves; a gem polished and engraved with deep-skilled art; a bit of writing f which the world is not only richer but happier.

Throckmorton: A Novel of Old Virginia.

In reading it one lives again in the patrician elegance of those mannerly times with a their freedom and all their limitations. In the midst of those quiet people—some rich i worldly goods, all rich in birth and station—is born a man with the unrest of genius. H has been a Colonel in the Northern army, a fact that makes his coming back to his ancie Southern estate not quite so joyous as he had hoped. His courtship of a charming girl, th mischievous interference of his own son, his disappointment, and final settling down are tol with many touches of humor and pathos. Miss Seawell's delineation of this man's characte and her sprightly humor, playing on the foibles of the early nineteenth century aristocrat show her as a brilliant writer and a deep thinker.

SHAFER, SARA ANDREW.

The Day Before Yesterday.

The village (as it was the day before yesterday) was in itself the quietest place in th world. The children, with their mischievous leader Rachel, who were growing up in i were not quiet at all. Their pleasures and troubles, frolics and naughtinesses, made per petual commotion. Leaves an impression of cleanness and coolness and sweet living on th memory."—New York Post.

SIBLEY, EDWIN DAY.

Stillman Gott, Farmer and Fisherman.

A tender, beautiful, sunshiny, strong story of life on the coast of Maine. An idyl of th real. A picture of one's own people which could hardly be drawn with truer touch, a mor delicate perception, a deeper sympathy. The hero is a farmer and fisherman, unmarried, an full of kindly feeling for his neighbors, especially those in need of a helpful friend. Th plot of the story involves a young farmer who went to Boston to better his fortune, leavin a sweetheart behind. Her ambitious mother cleverly puts the daughter in the way of a wealthy New Yorker, and an engagement follows. The girl visits the home of her fiancé and on her return decides that love is better than money, and breaks the engagement. Th boy lover, who has won success, goes home to attend the funeral of his old neighbor, fathe of the girl, and a happy reunion follows. The real interest of the book, however, clings t old Still; and his wise sayings, shrewd ways, and homely wholeheartedness, hold the reader's attention to the end. Gott is a philosopher of the human sort, whom it is a pleasure to know and the reader will welcome him into American fiction to take his place along with "Davi Harum" and "Eben Holden."

SIDGWICK, MRS. ALFRED.

The Kinsman.

"One of the most charming books of modern fiction. It is a literary treat from be ginning to end. Its delightful blending of pathos and comedy, humor and gravity, stern circumstance and pleasant outcome holds the reader in happy thraldom to its pervading charm throughout."—Albany Press. "Farce is easy enough to achieve, but the restraint and delicacy which true comedy implies are not within the reach of the ordinary literary mob. Consequently, when a book comes along with the true humor of comedy in it we feel like welcoming it with perhaps extravagant praise. 'The Kinsman' is such a book." —New York Times.

INCLAIR, MAY.

The Tysons. With frontispiece in colors.

"By the author of 'The Divine Fire,' and full of clever character study and keen robing of human nature. The young wife's pathetic loyalty to her worthless husband in ıe face of his utter weakness of moral fiber is drawn with sureness."—The Critic.

INCLAIR, UPTON.

The Jungle: A Novel of Chicago.

This is the terrible and unforgetable book. It is the story of a Lithuanian family in hicago's "Packing-town," and there has never been any such overwhelmingly realistic ovel of American life.

Robert Hunter says: "It is one of the most powerful and terrible stories ever written. ıs a portrayal of industrial conditions I have never read anything in literature that equals :." Thomas Wentworth Higginson declares: "It comes nearer than any book yet published to being the 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' of the social tragedy of our great cities."

SMITH, F. HOPKINSON.

Caleb West. Illustrated.

This is not only the best story that Mr. Smith has written, but it is one of the strongst, manliest, breeziest stories America has produced. It is thoroughly typical of American ersatility, energy and achievement. Mr. Smith has the happy faculty of investing the uilding of a lighthouse with a lively interest, introducing several strongly individual haracters, not a few dramatic situations, and a natural love story.

Colonel Carter of Cartersville. Illustrated by E. W. Kemble, and the author.

"It is a true impressionist picture, drawn with natural perspective. The dialect is excellent, and so carefully presented as to be no stumbling-block to the reader's enjoyment." —Philadelphia Ledger. "The Colonel is kindly, hospitable and lovely, a dear old fellow whom no one can know without loving. It is a delightful story. Open it where you will t is a rare book."—New York World. "Few as charming characters have been given to iterature as the 'Colonel.'"—San Francisco Call.

Tom Grogan. With illustrations by Charles S. Reinhart.

The Outlook says: "Mr. Hopkinson Smith's latest story, 'Tom Grogan,' is distinctly he strongest piece of work that has come from his hand. It is a study of local life under exciting conditions, a chapter torn from the history of the labor agitation and the industrial evolution. It is such portraiture that makes literature." And the Boston Advertiser remarks that: "It is a story of to-day, unusual in power and scope. It combines realism and romance, pathos and politics wonderfully."

SOMERVILLE (CHARLES) AND BUCHANAN (THOMPSON).

A Woman's Way. Illustrated with Scenes from the Play.

Is the story of marital troubles which arise from misunderstandings, which too often grow up between the unemployed rich because there is no common ground upon which a husband and wife can center their interests. Of course, there is another woman in the case, and the wife who loves her husband invites her rival to her home and the husband is thereby forced to see more of her than he really wishes. He discovers that he loved his wife all the time and they win their happiness back. In bringing about the disillusionment of the enamored husband, the author plays mightily on those heart strings that portray human emotions, in strength and weakness. The "Woman's Way" was the way that averted scandal and avoided divorce * * * the story of the winning back of a recreant husband. The novel is as entertaining as the play, and that is saying much, as the play scored a tremendous success.

STANTON, CORALIE.

The Adventuress. With color frontispiece by Harrison Fisher, and attractive inlay cover in colors.

As a penalty for her crimes, her evil nature, her flint-like callousness, her more than inhuman cruelty, her contempt for the laws of God and man, she was condemned to bury her magnificent personality, her transcendent beauty, her almost superhuman charms, in gilded obscurity at a King's left hand. A powerful story powerfully told.

STEPHENS, ROBERT NEILSON.

An Enemy to the King.

An historical romance of the sixteenth century, and a royally strong piece of fictio describing the adventures of a young French nobleman at the Court of Henry IV, and on th field with Henry of Navarre.

"Brilliant as a play; it is equally brilliant as a romantic novel."—Phila. Press.

STEPHENS AND WESTLEY.

Clementina's Highwayman. With illustrations by Adelaide Everhart.

The story is laid in the mid-Georgian period. It is a dashing, sparkling, vivacio comedy, with a heroine as lovely and changeable as an April day, and a hero all ardor ar daring. A wager made in jest results in the hero's turning "highwayman." Clementina coach is his first "hold-up," and the account of his endeavors to extricate himself from th ensuing complications, both humorous and serious, makes a fascinating tale * * * Th setting and atmosphere are perfect.

STEVENSON, BURTON EGBERT.

A Soldier of Virginia: A Tale of Colonel Washington. With illustration

A story of the struggle between French and English for possession of the Ohio valle It is strong in style, and its events have the force of actuality. It presents Washingto at the beginning of his career, and pictures Braddock and his disastrous campaign again Fort Du Quesne, besides telling a winsome love story. The narrative introduces the reade to social and military life in Virginia of the period just antecedent to the Revolution. Th picture of Virginia society, as it then existed, is a true one, and the accounts of Braddock an Washington make them wholly life-like figures.

STRATTON-PORTER, GENE.

At the Foot of the Rainbow. With illustrations in color by Oliver Kemp decorations by Ralph Fletcher Seymour, and inlay cover in colors.

The scene of this charming, idylic love story, by the author of "Freckles," is laid i Central Indiana. The story is one of devoted friendship, and tender self-sacrificing love; th friendship that gives freely without return, and the love that seeks first the happiness o the object. The novel is brimful of the most beautiful word painting of nature, and it pathos and tender sentiment will endear it to all.

Freckles. With illustrations and decorations by E. Stetson Crawford.

"Freckles" is a nameless waif when the tale opens, but the way in which he takes hol of life; the nature friendships he forms in the great Limberlost Swamp, where his patron McLean, is lumbering; the manner in which everyone who meets him succumbs to th charm of his engaging personality; and his love-story with "The Angel" are full of rea sentiment. It is a book which leaves "a pleasant taste in the mouth" and a warm feelin about the heart. Everybody is enchanted with "Freckles."

STREETER, JOHN WILLIAMS.

The Fat of the Land: A Story of an American Farm.

"The book is explicit and frank to a degree, and there isn't a generality in the whole o its over four hundred pages. He balances his books at the end of each year, and one ca see at a glance just on which side of the ledger the balance stands. The writer is heart and optimistic, but above all he is full of common sense. There is nothing of the dreame in him. He prefers to deal with cold facts, and there is one of these in nearly every lin he writes."—Chicago Tribune. "Told with a frankness, a vivacity, a good humor, and practicality which make it more interesting to the nature-loving reader than if it were modern novel of the most exciting kind."—The Boston Transcript.

TARKINGTON, BOOTH.

The Gentleman from Indiana. With a frontispiece.

A strong and realistic novel of love and politics in the "middle West." The pictures o a country editor's life in Indiana are extraordinarily real; but the final charm of the tale lie in the delicacy and the romance of the love story that forms its basis as well as its sustaine interest. "A clean, wholesome American love story of to-day * * * real but romanti * * * the kind of a novel Abraham Lincoln might have written."—Boston Transcript.

Monsieur Beaucaire. With illustrations by C. D. Williams. Red cloth, gold stamping and gold top, and decorative end-sheets.

"It is a poem, an idyll, the very flower of romance, and the one exception in the weary orical array which seems to have breathed into it the breath of immortality."—St. Paul patch. "Memorable little gem that commanded instant appreciation."—The Bookman.

IANET, OCTAVE.

The Lion's Share. With illustrations by E. M. Ashe.

"It will be found satisfying by the reader who likes a tale of plot and incident sharply well told. It is entertaining by reason of its abundant puzzle—by the skilful building this and by the equally skilful dissection and elucidation of it. We have read it with re and unusual interest and gratification. It is all right."—New York Sun. "It has all attributes of good novel writing—excellent character drawing, good descriptive scenes, nor—things that are often omitted in a story where mystery is the thing * * * digality of invention, strong sense of dramatic effect."—New York Globe.

The Man of the Hour. With illustrations by Lucius W. Hitchcock.

This, the first long novel by a famous writer of short stories, combines more American lities than any book of many years. It is saturated with Americanism. It has American nor, American optimism, American vigor, and above all the American ideal of love and or. It is a concentration of American problems, especially as they are found in the ddle West. But it is no "problem novel." It is story, first, last, and all the time—a tale t's worth the telling for its own sake and that tells itself straight through.

HOMPSON, MAURICE.

Alice of Old Vincennes. With illustrations by F. C. Yohn and Howard Chandler Christy.

"There are three great chapters of fiction: Scott's tournament on Ashby Field, General allace's chariot race, and Maurice Thompson's duel scene and the raising of Alice's g over old Fort Vincennes."—Denver Daily News. "Mr. Thompson has achieved his ster stroke of genius in this historical novel of revolutionary days in the West."—lanta Constitution. "Timely in theme and powerful in execution."—Phila. Ledger.

HURSTON, KATHERINE CECIL.

The Fly on the Wheel. With frontispiece in color by Harrison Fisher.

In characterization, in dramatic power and in the brilliancy of story-telling, "The Fly the Wheel" is as good a story as Mrs. Thurston has even written. The hero, strong, self-lled, successful, but bound down in a routine from which he is helpless to escape; and the roine, young, eager, impulsive, vibrant, interest you at once. The story increases in interest d strength as it moves along, and ends in a climax of intense dramatic power. Friends of rs. Thurston will hail her new novel, for in it she has surpassed any of her former books the grasp and power of her story-telling.

The Gambler: A Novel. With illustrations by John Campbell.

In "The Gambler" Mrs Thurston shows her ability to construct a well-knit and en-ossing plot, full of dramatic situations and developed with the same skill and charm of rration that made the success of "The Masquerader."

"Tells of a high strung young Irish woman who has a passion for gambling, inherited om a long line of sporting ancestors. She has a high sense of honor, too, and that causes mplications. She is a very human, lovable character, and love saves her."—New York imes. "It shows Mrs. Thurston to be an accomplished artificer of fiction."—The Dial.

The Masquerader. With illustrations by Clarence F. Underwood.

Two men, not related but looking absolutely alike—one married, the other a bachelor—ecretly change places. The novel develops along lines new to fiction, and is a forceful, com-elling story; not a story of style and words, but a story of doing, a history of life in action. he moral problem involved is a strange one.

"You can't drop it till you have turned the last page."—Cleveland Leader. "Its very udacity of motive, of execution, of solution, almost takes one's breath away. The boldness f its denouement is sublime."—Boston Transcript. The literary hit of a generation. The est of it is the story deserves all its success. A masterly story."—St. Louis Dispatch.

THWING, EUGENE.

The Red-Keggers. With illustrations by W. H. Dunton.

"The humor in this book is effervescent; it rises to bubbling mirth and sinks to inw chuckles only to appear again; never obtrusive, it is spontaneous, hearty and natural. masterpiece of dramatic fiction."—New York American. "His people live and love, fight for their living and loving when it becomes necessary. Their story works itself naturally. They grow with their own woods, but to a diviner purpose."—New Y World. "Should win a place among the best fiction."—Literary World. "An unusua fine piece of work."—St. Paul Press. "One of the best books ever written."—Phila. It Interesting and touching and deserves its popularity."—Boston Congregationalist.

TILTON, DWIGHT.

The Golden Greyhound. A novel. With illustrations by E. Pollak.

A thoroughly good story that keeps you guessing to the very end, and never attem to instruct or reform you. It is a strictly up-to-date story of love and mystery with wi less telegraphy and all the modern improvements. The events nearly all take place or big Atlantic liner and the romance of the deep is skilfully made to serve as a setting the romance, old as mankind, yet always new, involving our hero.

My Lady Laughter: A Romance of Boston Town in the Days of the Gr Siege. With illustrations by Charles H. Stephens.

"A lively historical novel of Boston during the great siege. Glimpses are given of st characters as Washington, Hancock, Adams, Warren and Paul Revere. The heroine, vivacious Tory beauty, turns patriot, a fact which is known only to a few who are in confidence. Thus by having the inside track on both armies, she uses her woman's to advantage for the patriot cause."—New York Times.

TOLSTOY, COUNT LEO.

Resurrection. Translated by Mrs. Louise Maude. Illustrated by Pasterna

"As we close this book of his old age, we are tempted to declare that it is the great work of its great author. So living are his men and women that those we know in the fl become as shadows. For what companion of daily life so reveals the soul within the sh as do Tolstoy's characters? He knows to the core this poor humanity of ours."—N. Y. Tim

Violett: A Chronicle.

The sin of the father visited most cruelly upon his sensitive child, darkening and st ing his boyish career—that is the story of Violett Maule. There is much that is beaut much that is sad, in this pathetic tale. The character of the murderer's son is natur transparent and warm as sunshine, but it is shadowed by the crime. Full of swift cha in incident and scenery, and portrays with great vividness a variety of characters.

"Exquisite in conception, dainty in execution, and heart-stirring in its effect. * It exhales artistic atmosphere from cover to cover."—Boston Herald. "Although wri along strictly historical lines, it is more fascinating than a novel."—Boston Transcript.

ALLACE, LEW.

The Fair God; Or, the Last of the 'Tzins. A Tale of the Conquest of Mexico. With illustrations by Eric Pape.

All the Aladdin riches of fairy love have nothing more glitteringly, inconceivably magcent; all the annals of conquest have nothing more brilliantly daring and dramatic than drama played in Mexico by Cortes * * * as a dazzling picture of Mexico and the ntezumas it leaves nothing to be desired. The illustrations by Eric Pape are a fitting nterpart to Wallace's pen pictures—the artist has caught with rare enthusiasm the spirit the Spanish conquerors of Mexico, its beauty and glory and romance.

"'Ben Hur' sold enormously, but 'The Fair God' was the best of the General's stories—owerful and romantic treatment of the defeat of Montezuma by Cortes."—Athenæum.

ALCOTT, EARL ASHLEY.

Blindfolded.

The reader advances into the maze of adventure and excitement in quite as blindfold ondition as does the hero, and does not, until he sees the hero safely out of trouble and rything explained, want to withdraw his attention.

There is a love story entertained among all the mystery and adventures—and a very asant one—but it is the blind groping of the hero with a situation he does not compreid which supplies the real story. The solution is very simple when it does come, but re is not a reader who could give an accurate solution of the many mysteries a dozen ges before the author begins to explain.

The Apple of Discord. With illustrations by Alice Barber Stephens.

A tale of picturesque old San Francisco before it was swept away by the mightiest nflagration of history. A tale of an interesting historical period that moves along at a sk pace, with an almost bewildering succession of interests. The plots of highbinders, agitation of a band of labor leaders, of riots on the Sand Lots, and Committees of fety, and the fury of a financial panic are woven into one stretch of thrilling narrative the intensity of a personal feud and the passionate strife for a woman's love.

'ARNER, CHARLES DUDLEY.

The Golden House. With illustrations by W. T. Smedley.

It is a somewhat curious fact that, until the appearance of "The Golden House," the e of New York city, in its extremes of wealth and poverty, had never been made the subct of serious study and realistic handling by a novelist. Perhaps no other field has been ore thoroughly cultivated by the writers of short stories and sketches; satires and sentiental or sensational inventions there have been in abundance; but before this no successful fort to realize the civic life as a whole.

WATANNA, ONOTO.

Daughters of Nijo. With illustrations and decorations by Kiyokichi Sanc

"Pictures and descriptions of the inner life of Japan, word-painted, are very carefull rendered, apparently with the conscientious understanding that they will be accepted a truthful. They represent the social order in its transition state, partly transformed b the adoption of Western manners and customs, and more or less influenced by Wester ideas. As a study of the Japan of to-day, the work has more than passing value, and th love story is a pretty poem."—Phila. Telegraph. "Japanese in delicate and exquisite sil houette outline, redolent with cherry blossoms and sentiment, and musical with the son of the nightingale, Onoto Watanna's 'Daughters of Nijo' is a delicious sweet confection fo the romantic palate. * * * told with the sense of finish, clearness and perfection tha marks the genuine Japanese art."—Boston Herald.

WEBSTER, HENRY K.

The Banker and the Bear.

"Intensely thrilling in parts, but an unusually good story all through. There is a lov affair of real charm and most novel surroundings, there is a run on the bank which almost worth a year's growth, and there is all manner of exhilarating men and deeds whic should bring the book into high and permanent favor."—Chicago Evening Post.

WELLS, H. G.

War In the Air. With illustrations by Eric Pape.

Mr. Wells tells a breathlessly interesting story, but tells it realistically and vividly, as h carries Bert Smallways, the little country boy, through astounding battles in the air, in whic the powers of the world struggle for supremacy amid the very lust of conquest and destru tion. This book is one of the triumphs of what has been called the scientific imaginatio Mr. Wells logically traces the course of events in the future as indicated by the past, preserv ing the probabilities at every step with the utmost ingenuity. The result is the story of great catastrophe told as if it were not a prophecy but actual history, and carrying convi tion by its avoidance of all extravagance.

The New York Tribune says: "Mr. Wells is beyond question the most plausible romance of the time. He unfolds a breathlessly interesting story of battle and adventure, but a the time he is thinking of what our vaunted strides in mechanical invention may come t mean. Again and again the story, absorbing as it is, brings the reader to a reflective pause

WESTCOTT, EDWARD NOYES.

David Harum. A Story of American Life. With a frontispiece.

True, strong, and thoroughly alive with a humor like that of Abraham Lincoln and nature as sweet at the core. The spirit of the book is genial and wholesome, and the lov story is in keeping with it. The book adds one more to the increasing list of nature fictio destined to live, portraying certain localities and types of American life and manner. Th remarkably popular story reached the extraordinary sale of over a million copies.

WHITE, FRED M.

A Midnight Guest. A Detective Story. With a frontispiece.

The scene of the story centers in London and Italy. The book is skillfully written a makes one of the most baffling, mystifying, exciting detective stories ever written—clever keeping the suspense and mystery intact until the surprising discoveries which precede th end. "A vigorously told detective story along amazing lines of ingenious plot."—Phila. Pres

/HITE, FRED M.—Continued.

The Mystery of the Four Fingers. With illustrations by Will. Grefé.

The title of the book prepares the reader for a story of mystery and adventure. A bulously rich gold mine in Mexico is known by the picturesque and mysterious name of The Four Fingers." It originally belonged to an Aztec tribe, and its location is known to ıe surviving descendant—a man possessing wonderful occult power. Should any person ılawfully discover its whereabouts, four of his fingers are mysteriously removed, and one one returned to him. The appearance of the final fourth betokens his swift and violent ːath.

A profligate American steals the mine and is the victim of this weird punishment. His ·il use of the gold, and his designs to silence the persons who suspect his treachery forms a mplicated mystery that grows constantly more and more baffling and spreads out into be-ildering ramifications. Surprises, strange and startling, are concealed in every chapter of is completely engrossing detective story. The horrible fascination of the tragedy holds one rapt attention to the end. And through it runs the thread of a curious love story.

/HITE, STEWART EDWARD.

Arizona Nights. With illustrations by N. C. Wyeth, and beautiful inlay cover.

A series of spirited tales emphasizing some phase of the life of the ranch, plains and ːsert, and all, taken together, forming a single sharply-cut picture of life in the far South-ɛst. All the tonic of the West is in this masterpiece of Stewart Edward White.

The Blazed Trail. With illustrations by Thomas Fogarty.

"'The Blazed Trail' is, in fact, a delightful compound of passion and emotion, of effort ıd result, and is, in its entirety and detail, a first-rate novel."—New York Sun. "It is a holesome story, full of sinew and pluck and endurance, with gleams of humor and touches philosophy and play of courage. * * * it tells of the young man who blazed his way fortune through the heart of the Michigan pines."—The Critic. "Has first-hand knowl-ge; spontaneousness and vitality, freshness and the wholesome air of the woods."—Outlook.

The Claim Jumpers. A Romance.

A tale of a Western mining camp and the making of a man with which a very charm-g young lady has much to do. DeLancy Bennington, of an aristocratic Boston family, ıds himself manager of a mine in a lonesome gulch of the Black Hills. The tenderfoot .s a hard time of it, but meets the situation, shows the stuff he is made of and "wins ıt" in more ways than one.

Conjuror's House. Dramatized under the title of "The Call of the North." Illustrated Theatrical Edition.

"Conjuror's House" is a Hudson Bay trading port where the head factor was the ab-lute lord—feared, loved, obeyed by all the creatures of the Fur Trading Company, who lerated no rivalry in what they deemed their domain. Trespassers were sentenced to "La ɔngue Traverse"—which meant official death. How Ned Trent entered the forbidden rritory, took la longue traverse, and subsequently the long journey down the river of e with the factor's only daughter, is admirably told. It is a warm, vivid and dramatic ɔry, and depicts the tenderness and mystery of a true woman's heart.

The Magic Forest: A Modern Fairy Tale. With illustrations.

"No better book could be put in a young boy's hands."—New York Sun. "Simple and ıarming * * * the sympathetic way in which the children of the wild and their life is eated could only belong to one who is in love with the forest and the open air."—Oakland erald. "Based on fact and throbbing with life."—Current Literature.

The Riverman. Illustrated by N. C. Wyeth and Clarence Underwood.

"The Riverman" is the story of a man's fight against a river. Also it is the story of a ruggle between honesty and grit on the one side, and dishonesty and shrewdness on the her. It brings us back to the Michigan woods and the book to which its author's name is ost often linked—"The Blazed Trail"—and it is a worthy successor to that famous novel. stirs the blood like martial music, and may be heartily recommended to any and every one ho likes a tale of action that is American through and through; that has thrills in plenty, ıd is pervaded with a buoyant spirit of optimism and rugged health which is good for ind and body.

The New York Bookman, in a long review, says: "Nothing like it has ever been at-mpted. Nothing better is to be expected. Here we have a great drama of life ruggedly ɔrtrayed without the slightest effort to minimize unpleasant features. It is a piece of work ell worth doing and well done."

WHITE, STEWART EDWARD.—Continued.

The Silent Places. With illustrations by Philip R. Goodwin.

The Westerners.

"It is the romance of the frontier, which will stand the test of time * * * it ha come to stay. * * * Belongs to that brilliant galaxy of novels which open with suc promise for pure American fiction."—Brooklyn Eagle. "This story of the Black Hills wi claim its place among the best of the American novels. It portrays the life of the ne West as no other book has done in recent years."—Phila. Item.

WHITE (STEWART EDWARD) AND ADAMS (SAMUEL HOPKINS)

The Mystery. With illustrations by Will Crawford.

A tale of pure adventure, of mystery weird and inscrutable. From the first chapter, wi the disappearance of three successive crews from the stout ship Laughing Lass in mi Pacific, the interest is sustained at white heat. A search of the deserted vessel yields no clu save a brass-bound chest. In the solution of the mystery there is a story of the most exci ing voyage that man ever undertook. For breathless interest, concentrated excitement, ar extraordinarily good story-telling on all counts, no more completely satisfying romance h appeared for years. It is mystery and adventure * * * and has been voted the be story of its kind since "Treasure Island."

WHITLOCK, BRAND.

The Turn of the Balance. With illustrations by Jay Hambidge.

Mr. Whitlock has chosen a large canvas, and in the romance, comedy and tragedy a group of people comprising various classes of society, but accidentally brought into mo or less personal contact during the development of a highly dramatic story of events, pictures in little the tragicomedy of the modern world. * * * It is a novel of extraord nary vigor, insight and freshness, and is as well a sweeping arraignment of our courts a an amazing revelation of the abuses of the police system, showing the terrible danger which even an innocent man is exposed if unlucky enough to become entangled in the to of the law. It has evoked a storm of comment and has been called by many the "L Miserables" of America, and by others likened to Tolstoy's "Resurrection."

WIGGIN, KATE DOUGLAS.

The Affair at the Inn. With illustrations by Martin Justice.

"As superlatively clever in the writing as it is entertaining in the reading. It is actu comedy of the most artistic sort, and it is handled with a freshness and originality that unquestionably novel."—Boston Transcript. "A feast of humor and good cheer, yet sub pervaded by special shades of feeling, fancy, tenderness, or whimsicality. The whole sto is a merry thing in prose."—St. Louis Democrat.

Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm.

"Mrs. Wiggin has never written a quainter story nor has she created a fresher and mo subtly-conceived character than 'Rebecca.' It is altogether charming, true reposeful art." Review of Reviews. "Rebecca is a favorite in the hearts of the thousands. She has come almost a national character, as she is certainly a national type. Native wit and t wholesome charm of untrammeled American girlhood brighten every page. Rebecca to be heartily recommended—it is the book of books—full of true art and simply cramm from cover to cover with glowing humor, human kindness and winning realism."—Chica Tribune. "Of all the children of Mrs. Wiggin's brain, the most laughable and most lova is Rebecca."—Life. "Rebecca cannot be too widely circulated."—St. Louis Globe-Democr

New Chronicles of Rebecca. With illustrations by F. C. Yohn.

Additional episodes in the girlhood of the delightful little heroine at Riverboro whi were not included in the story of "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," and they are as chara teristic and delightful as any part of that now famous story. Many of the characters appe again, and the reader has the pleasure of becoming better acquainted with each one. F becca is as distinct a creation in the second volume as in the first.

BIOGRAPHY

ESTERTON (GILBERT K.) and LYALL (SIR ALFRED).

Browning and Tennyson, Lives of. Two volumes in one.

Mr. Chesterton is one of the ablest of the present day critics. The London Times menting on his life of Browning, remarked: "The originality and suggestiveness of work, his suavity and virility of temper, are evident and refreshing." The London egraph says: "The memoir of Tennyson is admirably carried out, telling the reader cisely what he wishes to know, giving an account of what the poems contain, with a ning commentary upon their character and value, being written for the average man the world with literary tastes." And the London Times, speaking of Mr. Lyall's work, narks: "The criticism is always sane, and often brilliant; it never errs on the side of iberance; and it is expressed in excellent English, moulded into dignified paragraphs."

ARRISON, FREDERIC.

Chatham.

"In 800 years England has known but four great creative statesmen: William the nqueror made all England an organic nation; Edward the First conceived and founded eat Britain; Cromwell made the United Kingdom and founded the sea power; Chatham de the colonial system and was the founder of the empire. For good or for evil, ough heroism and through spoliation, with all its vast and far-reaching consequences, ustrial, economic, social and moral—the foundation of the empire was the work of atham." So says the author, who has been teaching history since 1862.

"Pitt's overbearing ways are left out of sight in this study, but there remains after s candid and searching inquiry the same nobility of soul, scorn of petty self-seeking, adth of outlook, and sublimity of purpose which made Pitt in his own day the idol of whole English world."—The Book Buyer. "Nobody has produced a sketch so ade- ate, so sympathetic, yet withal so discriminative."—New York Sun.

ABIE, HAMILTON WRIGHT.

William Shakespeare: Poet, Dramatist and Man.

In every respect one of the most important books issued in America this decade. It an attempt at the portraiture of the great literary luminary of the Anglo-Saxon race m the standpoints of individuality, personal character, personal relationships with his low-men, and direct personal influence, intellectual and spiritual, upon mankind in neral. It is Shakespeare the man that is considered, but, of course, the man that was o the world's greatest dramatist and the world's greatest poet.

cCARTHY, JUSTIN.

The Story of Gladstone's Life. With many portraits of famous men and scenes of historical value.

"This 'story' is one of the best popular biographies of the great statesman who was the head of English political affairs for half a century. It is rich in brief and pithy aracterization of men and measures, and abounds in those striking turns of thought and rase that fix the attention and stamp themselves on the memory."—The Dial.

ORGAN, JAMES.

Abraham Lincoln: The Boy and the Man. With portraits and other illustrations.

Lincoln's life-story is the most inspiring in American annals and it never can be retold o often. James Morgan has put it into the most inspiring form of all—that of a simple, affected narration of the man's deeds. Lincoln's early struggles, the striving for an edu- tion which seemed impossible to obtain, his business failures and many wanderings, his feats and victories as a lawyer, all these are told impartially and vividly. The story should an education and an inspiration to everyone who reads it.

The Boston Transcript says: "This must be classed as one of the very best of the many oks upon this subject which have appeared in recent years." The Chicago Record puts it: splendid biography of Lincoln, full of anecdotes, dramatic in method, vivacious in style, spiring in spirit." The Journal of Education: "This view of Lincoln as 'Boy and Man' ould be read in every school in the land."

Buccaneers and Pirates of Our Coast. With illustrations by George Varia and B. West Clinedinst.

Mr. Stockton classifies Columbus and Drake with Bartholomy, Morgan, Lafitte an the other ravenous scoundrels who were out only for the plunder. The stories of ho the coasts of North Carolina were ravaged and plundered are historically interesting Delaware Bay was harrassed, and New York Harbor suffered depredations from the famou Captain Kidd. Kidd favored the Long Island Coast, and it is thought hid his plunder there somewheres. Treasure hunters are still seeking it.

"The narrative is full of startling adventure * * * enough to satisfy and fascinat the most exacting."—New York Times.

WISTER, OWEN.

The Seven Ages of Washington. With portraits and other illustrations.

A compact biography or appreciation of Washington of an uncommon and most interest ing sort—the result of prolonged research, set forth by the skilled hand of a master-workma in literature. Mr. Wister first surveys Washington's "Ancestry," then his "Boyhood," an third his "Frontier Life." The Fourth Age includes his years at Mount Vernon; the Fift those of the Revolution; the Sixth his career as President. The Seventh Age presents th immortality of his work and fame. There is nothing in print which equals this short life o Washington. Mr. Wister gives us Washington himself, in his simplicity, his power to en dure, his strength to work through the deepest discouragement. It shows the sources an extent of Washington's influence, and one puts down the book with a feeling of affection fo the friendly secrenity of the great American whom no one can afford not to know—as Mr Wister knows him.

Social Institutions of the United States. By the author of "The American Commonwealth," "Holy Roman Empire," etc. The author is a liberal Englishman and the English ambassador to the United States. The book deals with the social and political features of American life, with chapters on the future of Political Institutions, and the Social and Economic Future. 300 pages and index.

"America has still a long vista of years stretching before her in which she will enjoy conditions far more auspicious than any European country can count on. And that America marks the highest level, not only of material well-being, but of intelligence and happiness, which the race has yet attained, will be the judgment of those who look not at the favored few for whose benefit the world seems hitherto to have framed its institutions, but on the whole body of the people." A great book for the student, and general reader.

CAMPBELL, R. J.

Christianity and the Social Order.

Is an attempt to show the correspondence between the principles of Christianity and those of modern Socialism—Socialism in the best sense of the term. This spiritual movement may work the overthrow of the Churches as we have them now—that is, religious organizations held together by dogmatic statements of belief rather than by the perception of a practical end to be obtained. * * * It is an attempt to show what primitive Christianity set out to realize, and, therefore, how nearly identical were its practical aims with those of modern Socialism. The author regards Socialism as the practical expression of Christian ethics and the evangel of Jesus.

CANDEE, HELEN CHURCHILL.

How Women May Earn a Living: A Handbook of Occupations for Women.

This book, of peculiar interest to women, is filled with commonsense counsel. It is intended more particularly to reach the educated class of women, assuming their need to be greater than that of the girls who go without thought from the public school to the factory. It surveys the field of woman's labor, and the author has selected therefrom only the employments which have been successfully tried by large numbers. Isolated cases of success are not given as models for all to follow blindly; but, as far as possible, beginners are warned of dangerous ground. The book is the result of wide investigation and experience, and while it is written especially for those who need its counsel, it is interesting reading to all, and enables the reader better to advise her friends even though her own life does not demand business activity. The topics selected for treatment include among many others the serious professions, occupations for the artistic, for those with business talent, for women with small country places, and for those with purely domestic inclination. Should be placed in the hands of every young girl, and every woman who has to earn her own living will find it of interest.

ELY, PROF. RICHARD T.

Monopolies and Trusts. The Professor of Political Economy in the University of Wisconsin has here presented the soundest contribution to the subject that has yet appeared. It goes into the idea of monopoly; the classification and causes of monopoly; the concentration of production and trusts; the limits of monopoly and the permanency of competition; and shows the existing evils and suggests their remedies. 296 pages and index.

A timely book that will be certain to command attention. A capital book for the student, and for the man of business.

"The most discriminating book that has appeared on the subject."—The Outlook.

Studies in the Evolution of Industrial Society. With valuable appendices on Labor Reports. Chapters on the Evolution of Society; the Economic Stages; Economic Classes; Tendencies of Industrial Evolution, and Statistical Results; Competition; Social Progress and Race Improvement; Monopolies and Trusts; Municipal Ownership of Natural Monopolies; Concentration and Diffusion of Wealth. 500 pages and index.

The author is full of the knowledge which belongs to his subject, and has that power of vivid and forcible expression which results from clear and vigorous thinking.

GEORGE, HENRY, JR.

The Menace of Privilege: A Study of the Dangers to the Republic from the Existence of a Favored Class.

"Mr. George has given us a book of first-rate interest and importance. It is written forcefully and brilliantly * * * as a picture of present-day conditions it is a remarkable piece of description and analysis."—Professor Franklin Giddings, of Columbia University. "The chief value of this book is in its vivid portrayal of the means by which men have acquired vast wealth and the use they have made of it in controlling legislation, press, university, and pulpit."—The Congregationalist. "Mr. George's remedy is that all labor-created property should be free from taxation and that every man should be placed on an equal economic footing."—New York World. "It is the most important contribution to the vital, social, political and economic literature of America that has appeared for a long time—a book no friend of republican government can afford to ignore."—The Arena.

HUNTER, ROBERT.

Poverty. A noteworthy book of 392 pages and an index.

"One of the notable books of the year. It is not merely a comprehensive study of American sociology calm and scientific, but is both full of sympathy and of remedy for the appalling conditions of ten millions of our countrymen who are 'underfed, underclothed, and underhoused.'"—Literary Digest. "Every trade union leader, and every advocate of the claims of the poor and of labor should secure a copy of the book and read it and study it; and if this were done a vast amount of valuable knowledge on the problem of poverty will have been spread."—Labor World.

KIDD, BENJAMIN.

Principles of Western Civilization. 540 pages and a valuable index.

"A work which will doubtless meet the attention of all serious thinkers in England to-day."—London Daily News. "Powerful in its conception and original in style, it exhibits the mature reflections of a penetrative intellect * * * students will be charmed by its lucid style and comprehensive grasp of text."—Boston Advertiser. "It is no less than a new philosophy of history * * * of enthralling interest."—London Spectator. "The comparison of the economic methods existing in the various European countries and the United States is pregnant with importance to students of our government and laws. Social Evolution. Revised and enlarged edition. 440 pages and index.

"A study of the whole development of humanity in a new light, sustained and strong and fresh throughout. It marks out new lines of study and is written in that calm and resolute tone which secures the confidence of the reader. It is undoubtedly the ablest book on social development that has been published for a time."—Boston Herald. "A book which no serious thinker should neglect, and no reader can study without recognizing it as the work of a singularly penetrating and original mind."—London Times. "We commend this valuable study to every student of the perplexing problems of socialism."—The Churchman.

LONDON, JACK.

People of the Abyss. Copiously illustrated from photographs.

The book is a powerful presentation of a repellent theme. In the summer of 1902 the author of "The Call of the Wild" went down into the hell of London. He went to see for himself, and what he saw—misery, degradation, suffering unspeakable, as well as that ineradicable kindliness which seems to be called forth by the common need—he has written in the book. In spite of the present gloom Mr. London is optimistic of the future.

War of the Classes.

In the author's judgment everything is moving in the Socialistic direction. His final chapter explains how he became a Socialist. 300 pages of decidedly interesting reading.

"A series of correlated essays, direct and trenchant in style, fresh and vigorous in thought, and, despite necessary verification in statistics, exceedingly entertaining in manner."—New York Sun. "Written with so much force and directness that it will incite any one who reads it to study the subject and thus learn more about the greatest problem that this country has to face."—San Francisco Chronicle. "Its clear, incisive thinking arrests attention. * * * Mr. London has imagination and insight, and his book is interesting because it sets one's own imagination to working."—Chicago Record-Herald.

MURPHY, EDGAR GARDNER.

Problems of the Present South: A Discussion of Certain of the Educational, Industrial and Political Issues in the Southern States. With appendices relating to Population, Child Labor, and the Relations of the Advanced and the Backward Races. 350 pages.

Offers no dogmatic "solutions" of the problems with which it deals, but there are approximate adjustments, written by one who through birth, education, and training has shared Southern conditions and experience, and what he says is naturally written within the national perspective. A work which neither historian nor politician can neglect.

PEABODY, PROF. FRANCIS G.

Jesus Christ and the Social Question: An examination of the teaching of Jesus in its relation to some problems of modern social life.

"Is a book for which we give the warmest welcome, both for its own sake and for the aptness of the message. It is a book of diligent inquiry and wise insight—not of information but of knowledge. No one interested both in social growth and Christianity can afford to overlook it."—The Dial. "It is vital, searching, comprehensive. The Christian reader will find it an illumination; the non-Christian, a revelation."—Epworth Herald. "Professor Peabody begins with a careful discussion of the comprehensiveness of this teaching as at once perfectly apt and adequate to every possible condition and need. He then considers the social principles of this teaching, its relation to the family, to the rich, to the care of the poor, to the industrial order."—Chicago Times.

RYAN, REV. JOHN A.

A Living Wage: Its Ethical and Economical Aspects. With an introduction by Prof. R. T. Ely. 380 pages and index, and List of Works of Reference on the subject.

The great majority of fair-minded persons believe, indeed, that Labor does not get its full share of the wealth it helps to create, and this is the judgment of the author, who is a priest of the Roman Catholic Church at St. Paul; and Professor of Ethics and Economy in the St. Paul Seminary. He shows that religion, as represented by the oldest and largest of the Christian denominations, professes, nay urges, a definite and considerable measure of industrial justice.

SPARGO, JOHN.

The Bitter Cry of the Children. With an introduction by Robert Hunter, author of "Poverty." 338 pages, with appendices and index, and 33 illustrations from photographs.

"I have purposely confined myself to those measures which have been tried in various places with sufficient success to warrant their general adoption, and which do not involve any revolutionary change in our social system. I have tried to formulate a programme of practical measures, all of which have been subjected to the test of experience."—From the Preface.

"Makes most direct and cogent appeal to the home feeling, the national interest and the social conscience. The author is a Socialist, and that may prejudice certain minds against his message, but it were better to listen because the very life of the nation is involved. We have it in our power to prevent most of this social degradation."—The Dial.

HISTORY

EARLE, ALICE MORSE.

Home Life in Colonial Days. Illustrated by photographs, gathered by the author, of real things, works, and happenings of olden times. Post 8vo.

"Mrs. Earle has made a very careful study of the details of domestic life from the earliest days of the settlement of the country. The book is sumptuously illustrated, and every famed article, such as the spinning-wheel, the foot-stone, the brass knocker on the door, and the old-time cider-mill, is here presented to the eye and faithfully pictured in words. The volume is a fascinating one, and the vast army of admirers and students of the olden days will be grateful to the author for gathering together and putting into permanent form so much accurate information concerning the homes of our ancestors."—Education. "This useful and attractive book, with its profuse and interesting pictures, should prove a favorite."—The Dial. "No other single volume * * * constructs with such completeness, fairness and suggestiveness the atmosphere of colonial life."—Boston Herald.

LAUT, AGNES C.

Pathfinders of the West: Being the thrilling story of the adventures of the men who discovered the great Northwest, Radisson, La Vérendrye and Lewis and Clark. With illustrations by Remington, Goodwin, Marchand and others.

The four journeys of Radisson, his perils and hairbreadth escapes, form the subject of the first part of Miss Laut's interesting narrative. She renders to him the honor due only to the great explorers. The second part of the book is made up of the lives of La Vérendrye—first in the Rockies—of Hearne—first overland to the Arctic—of Mackenzie—first over the mountains to the Pacific—and of Lewis and Clark—first up the Mississippi to the Columbia.

"Its heroes are Homeric; there is a note of the Saga in her records of their exploits. Rarely has the desperate struggles of the pioneers been more potently described in its giant proportions."—The Book Buyer.

PRYOR, MRS. ROGER A.

Reminiscences of Peace and War. Revised and Enlarged Edition. With illustrations showing famous places of historic interest and famous personages. Has valuable sketch of the entrenched lines in the immediate front of Petersburg.

The author of "The Mother of Washington and Her Times" gives us in "Reminiscences of Peace and War" a more personal volume. Her memories of Washington, social and political, from the Fillmore Administration to 1863, are varied and gay, to which her experiences during war times form an effective contrast. Mrs. Pryor lived in the Southern Army during most of the Civil War, and her remarkable experience in Virginia reveals as never before what the "unpleasantness" meant to Southern women. The narrative is inspired and vitalized by the writer's brave, yet thoroughly feminine personality.

"The reminiscences are brightly told. As a contribution to the history of the period it is of value for the color and feeling found only in these first-hand accounts."—The Dial.

BELLES LETTRES

BROOKE, STOPFORD A.

English Literature.

This well-known and deservedly praised work was first issued in 1876 as "A Primer of English Literature," and won approbation from Matthew Arnold, whose essay, "A Guide to English Literature," is a critical estimate of Mr. Brooke's method and results.

Its sobriety of taste, its keen and just criticism, its learning and its admirable conciseness have made it, both in England and America, the one book on English literature which scholars and men of letters have agreed in approving. In 1896 the volume was revised and in part rewritten under its present title.

WINTER, WILLIAM.

Shakespeare's England. New and Revised Edition. With illustrations.

Beautiful and storied scenes that have soothed and elevated the mind naturally inspire a feeling of gratitude. Prompted by that feeling, the author has written this record of his rambles in England. The title was chosen for the reason that the book relates largely to Warwickshire and because it depicts not so much the England of fact as the England created and hallowed by the spirit of her poetry, of which Shakespeare is the soul.

DOMESTIC ECONOMY

HARRISON, EVELEEN.

Home Nursing: Modern Scientific Methods for the Sick Room. A valuable Appendix of forty pages details the diet in disease and convalescence.

In this work the simplest methods for hygienic nursing have been given, including free ventilation, perfect cleanliness, care of the sick-room, fever nursing, the best form of nourishment, and many other suggestions for the comfort of the patient, within the reach of every home, no matter how simple or modest it may be. All technical terms have been intentionally excluded so that the directions may easily be understood.

WASHBURN, MARION FOSTER.

The Mother's Year Book. Being a Practical Application of the Results of Scientific Child-Study to the Problems of the First Year of Childhood. With illustrations.

Valuable advice on the preparations for motherhood, and on the baby's requirements, and how to dress and care for it during the first year of its life. On one side the book is eminently practical, the advice and suggestions given being based on the best scientific authority; but beyond this, it shows such sympathy and comprehension of childhood and motherhood as will make it specially welcome as a gift book for young mothers. The chapters on Weaning the Baby would alone make the book worth reading.

MRS. SEELY'S COOK BOOK

MRS. L. SEELY.

A Manual of French and American Cookery. With chapters on Domestic Servants, Their Rights and Duties; and many other details of Household Management.

Large 12mo. 440 pages. Copiously and richly illustrated, and an elaborate Index, covering 24 pages. It was formerly published to sell at $2.00. It may now be obtained, postpaid, for $1.00.

The duties are defined of the Cook, Waitress, Parlormaid, Chambermaid and Laundress, and the Furnace and Useful Man. A valuable chapter on Household Receipts of great practical use to every housekeeper; hints and directions are given for the arrangement and ornamentation of the dining-room, and for the preparation and serving of formal and simple dinners, with menus for same; and pictures illustrating the table arrangements. The fashionable modes of entertaining at breakfast, luncheon, and dinner. The practical work of the book is enhanced by a series of tried and approved receipts, which cover everything that could possibly be called for in the household. Practical, and admirably adapted to the tastes and income of the average family. Time tables for Boiling, Baking and Roasting; Broiling, Frying and Steaming. Tables of Measures and Proportions. Rules for the selection of fish, meats, and how to judge the age of poultry and game. Give this beautiful book a careful reading and it will displace all its predecessors.

A Woman's Hardy Garden. Superbly illustrated with 49 full-page halftone engravings from photographs by Prof. C. F. Chandler.

"Mrs. Ely is the wisest and most winsome teacher of the fascinating art of gardening that we have met in modern print. A book to be welcomed with enthusiasm."—New York Tribune.. "Let us sigh with gratitude and read the volume with delight. For here it all is: What we should plant, and when we should plant it; how to care for it after it is planted and growing; what to do if it does not grow and blossom; what will blossom, and when it will blossom, and what the blossom will be. It is full of garden lore; of the spirit of happy out-door-life."—The Dial.

HALL, BOLTON.

Three Acres and Liberty. Shows the value gained by intensive culture. Should be in the hands of every landholder. Profusely illustrated.

"The author piles fact upon authenticated instance and successful experiment upon proved example, until there is no doubt what can be done with land intensively treated. He shows where the land may be found, what kind we must have, what it will cost, and what to do with it. It is seldom we find so much enthusiasm tempered by so much experience and commonsense. It embodies the results of actual experience and it is intended to be workable in every detail."—Providence Journal.

HARWOOD, W. S. (and BURBANK, LUTHER).

New Creations in Plant Life: An Authoritative Account of the Work of Luther Burbank. With 48 full-page halftone plates.

Mr. Burbank has produced more new forms of plant life than any other man who has ever lived. These have been either for the adornment of the world, such as new and improved flowers, or for the enrichment of the world, such as new and improved fruits, nuts, vegetables, grasses, trees and the like. This volume describes his life and work in detail, presenting a clear statement of his methods, showing how others may follow the same lines, and introducing much never before made public.

ROOSEVELT, THEODORE.

The Deer Family. By Theodore Roosevelt and Others. With eight full-page halftone illustrations by Carl Rungius and Others. And eight Maps showing the Ranges of the different species. 350 pages.

President Roosevelt occupies 164 pages in his masterful description of the Deer and Antelope family of North America. T. S. Van Dyke writes of the Deer and Elk on the Pacific Coast. The story of the Caribou is told by D. G. Elliot; and A. J. Stone shows us the Moose; and tells Where and How It Lives.

The President in a "Foreword" says: "This volume is meant for the lover of the wild, free, lonely life of the wilderness, and for the hardy pastimes known to the sojourners therein."

STREETER, DR. JOHN WILLIAM.

The Fat of the Land: The Story of an American Farm.

"The importance and value of such a book as 'The Fat of the Land' is incalculable. It takes us back to the soil, the country, the farm, the forest, and all their delights and pleasures. The story of the farm is told with a frankness, a vivacity, a good humor and a practicality which makes it more interesting to the nature-loving reader than if it were a modern novel of the most exciting kind."—Boston Transcript.

"Sane, wholesome and altogether unique. It is written in such a spirit of earnest enthusiasm, such naïve joy in the author's own discoveries, such frank pride in his successes, that it would not be surprising if the book bore abundant fruit in stimulating a new interest for practical farming and in encouraging an emigration from our overcrowded cities to the neglected rural districts."—The New York Globe.

NATURE BOOKS

WITH COLORED PLATES, AND PHOTOGRAPHS FROM LIFE

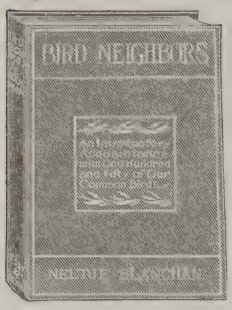
BIRD NEIGHBORS: An Introductory Acquaintance with 150 Birds Commonly Found in the Woods, Fields and Gardens About Our Homes. By NELTJE BLANCHAN. With an Introduction by John Burroughs, and many plates of birds in natural colors.

Large Quarto, size 7¾ x 10⅜. Cloth. Price, $1.25. Postpaid.

These beautiful and unusually interesting books were originally published and sold for $2.00 per volume—and at this price found many appreciative readers.

They are now, for the first time, offered at a price bringing them within universal reach; and at this remarkably low figure they will assuredly obtain great popularity.

As an aid to the elementary study of bird life nothing has ever been published more satisfactory than this most successful of Nature Books. This book makes the identification of our birds simple and positive, even to the uninitiated, through certain unique features. I. All the birds are grouped according to color, in the belief that a bird's coloring is the first and often the only characteristic noticed. II. The descriptions are untechnical, clear and vivid, and the fact that Mr. John Burroughs has read and annotated the book vouches for their accuracy. III. A supplementary chapter tells which group of birds show preferences for certain localities, and where to look for others. IV. A second supplementary chapter deals with family traits and characteristics. V. By still another classification, the birds are grouped according to their season. VI. All the popular names by which a bird is known are given both in the descriptions and the index.



The colored plates are the most beautiful and accurate ever given in a moderate-priced and popular book.

BIRDS THAT HUNT AND ARE HUNTED: Life Histories of 170 Birds of Prey, Game Birds and Water-Fowls. By NELTJE BLANCHAN. With Introduction of G. O. Shields (Coquina). 24 photographic illustrations in color.

Large Quarto, size 7¾ x 10⅜. Cloth. Price, $1.25. Postpaid.

Bird life is disappearing from the United States. Several species have already become extinct. The wild turkey and the pinnated grouse, two of the noblest birds on the continent, are nearing the danger line. Several species of water-fowl are also growing scarce.

The surest way to promote bird protection is to induce people to study the birds. No work of its class has ever been issued that contains so much valuable information, presented with such felicity and charm. The colored plates are true to nature. By their aid alone any bird illustrated may be readily identified.

Sportsmen will especially relish the twenty-four color plates which show the more important birds in characteristic poses. They are probably the most valuable and artistic pictures of the kind available to-day.

NATURE'S GARDEN: An Aid to Knowledge of Our Wild Flowers and Their Insect Visitors. 42 colored plates, and many other illustrations photographed directly from nature. Text by NELTJE BLANCHAN.

Large Quarto, size 7¾ x 10⅜. Cloth. Price, $1.50. Postpaid.

This magnificent volume, with its wealth and beauty of illustration, was formerly published and sold for $3.00. For its price it was the greatest book upon the market, and surpassed in popularity every book of its kind.

At our very much lower figure, the book should appeal to a very wide range of readers, and find its way to the library table of every country home.

Superb color portraits of many familiar flowers in their living tints, and no less beautiful pictures in black and white of others—each blossom photographed directly from nature—form an unrivaled series. By their aid alone the novice can name the flowers met afield.

The flowers are divided into five color groups, because by this arrangement any one with no knowledge of botany whatever can readily identify the specimens met during a walk. The various popular names by which each species is known, its preferred dwelling-place, months of blooming and geographical distribution follow its description.

"The reader is held spellbound, not by any cunningly devised artifices, but by the strong sympathy which is evoked in his breast with those whose fortunes he is asked to follow."—London Speaker.

BLACKMORE, R. D.

Lorna Doone. (Exmoor Edition.)

With nearly two hundred and fifty illustrations, decorative drawings, head and tail-pieces, etc. These beautiful illustrations were specially made for an intended de luxe edition to sell at a high price. The present impression is recognized as the handsomest edition on the market, and as a presentation volume at a popular price it cannot be equalled. Printed on fine wove paper, and bound in vellum cloth, with a decorative cover of great beauty.

BUNYAN, JOHN.

The Pilgrim's Progress.

A superior edition of Bunyan's immortal allegory, printed from new plates on fine wove paper, with illustrations by H. M. Brock. Bound in vellum cloth, with gold stampings and picture inlay.

CONNOR, RALPH.

Black Rock: A Tale of the Selkirks.

Printed on wove paper, handsomely bound in extra cloth and gold, with numerous full-page drawings by Louis F. Grant. For library use or for gift purposes this beautiful edition cannot be equalled.

A work of splendid strength and action, and one to create in the memory a lasting picture. Leaves one's nerves tingling.

"With perfect wholesomeness, with entire fidelity, with truest pathos, with freshest humor, he has delineated character, has analyzed motives and emotions, and has portrayed life."—The Dial.

DEFOE, DANIEL.

Robinson Crusoe. His Strange and Surprising Adventures.

With author's portrait and 85 full-page and text illustrations by J. D. Watson.

Complete and unabridged edition. 600 pages.

The wonderful experiences of the shipwrecked sailor on the Island of Juan Fernandez. This complete edition of this great juvenile classic relates every incident of his life, his early boyhood, first voyages, shipwreck, the complete history of his adventures upon the island, battles with the savages, and other incidents until the arrival of the English ship. In the generally received editions the tale usually ends here. Part second tells of his voyages in England and travels upon the continent, the subsequent return to the island, and final return to England.

DODGE, MARY MAPES.

Hans Brinker; or, The Silver Skates. A Story of Life in Holland. With eight specially drawn illustrations in duotone by H. K. Cranmer. Beautiful inlay cover in gold and colors of a scene in Holland.

"In its style it is straightforward, earnest, simple, without a shadow of any kind of affectation. It has all the glow and shimmer of wit, that vivacious, general element which is the very essence of healthy, joyous childhood. Alive with incident, adorned with useful facts and moral without moralization."—Atlantic Monthly.

DOYLE, A. CONAN.

Tales of Sherlock Holmes.

A collection of the best known "adventures" as those thrilling detective stories have been termed. Dr. Doyle's literary recognition began with "The Study in Scarlet," and this was followed by "The Sign of the Four," when a writer of real merit was welcomed. Beside these—the longest and most important and most absorbing of all his stories—the volume contains "A Case of Identity," "A Scandal in Bohemia," and others.

Beautifully printed, and bound in extra cloth, with gold stampings. With numerous full-page reproductions of Scenes from the Play, with William Gillette impersonating the title rôle of Sherlock Holmes.

DUMAS, ALEXANDER.

The Three Guardsmen.

With full-page illustrations reproduced from the famous engravings by Maurice Leloir.

A romance dealing with French life in the period of Louis XIII; with the stormy times of the great Cardinal, Richelieu; with the Queen Anne of Austria, and her love affairs with the English Duke of Buckingham; with the siege of Rochelle; and the interminable squabbles between the King's Musketeers and the Cardinal's Guards. It is one of the classics of historical romance of adventure.

Twenty Years After.

With eight full-page illustrations by J. A. Beauce.

The second of the D'Artagnan romances; being the continuation of "The Three Guardsmen." It covers the period in French history from 1630 to 1650, dealing with the regency of Queen Anne; with Cardinal Mazarin; with the insurrection of the Fronde; and the execution of Charles I of England.

EVANS, AUGUSTA J.

St. Elmo.

With eight halftone illustrations specially drawn for this edition by Culmer E. Barnes.

"Who has not read with rare delight the novels of Augusta Evans? Her strange, wonderful and fascinating style; the profound depths to which she sinks the probe into human nature, touching its most sacred chords and springs; the intense interest thrown around her characters, and the very marked peculiarities of her principal figures, conspire to give an unusual interest to the works of this eminent Southern authoress. "St. Elmo" is the best known novel by the author of "Beulah," and other delightful stories.

FIELD, EUGENE.

A Little Book of Tribune Verse.

A new illustrated edition of this literary treasure. A handsome volume of nearly 300 pages, printed on fine wove paper, with decorative binding in gold and inks. The drawings, by Allyn W. Palmer, charmingly illustrate the text.

FOTHERGILL, JESSIE.

The First Violin.

A particularly beautiful edition of this popular musical novel. Illustrated by Clare Angell. Bound in cloth, with gold stampings.

"A story of deep interest, written by a vigorous and cultured writer. To such as have musical sympathies an added pleasure and delight will be felt."—London News.

HABBERTON, JOHN.

Helen's Babies.

With fifty text illustrations and sixteen full-page halftones made especially for this new and beautiful edition.

Mr. Habberton made himself famous with "Helen's Babies," and surprised and amused the world with the most delightful picture of children that had ever been drawn.

HUGHES, THOMAS.

Tom Brown's School Days.

With 37 full-page and text illustrations.

It is, perhaps, the most famous of all English books for boys. Tom Brown was a manly boy all through his composition. He was not afraid to thrash the school bully, nor ashamed to pray before turning into bed. He was as clever at games as he was diligent at the lessons. It is a splendid book, and has endeared itself to old boys as well as young ones.

LONGFELLOW, HENRY W.

Evangeline. A Tale of Acadie. With fifty text illustrations and fourteen full-page reproductions from the photogravure drawings of Frank Dicksee.

Beautiful edition, with critical and explanatory notes which admirably adapts it for library, reading club and school purposes.

The Courtship of Miles Standish, and Other Poems. With an Introduction by Austen T. Kempton. With thirty-seven text illustrations and sixteen full-page reproductions from original photographs.

In "Evangeline" and in "Hiawatha" the pathos and sadness increase as the poem proceeds, but in "Miles Standish" the heart grows lighter and the scene grows brighter, until it closes in the satisfying pictures of the delightful adjustments of all misunderstandings and the marriage of the lovers midst most ideal surroundings.

MEADE, MRS. L. T.

A Sweet Girl Graduate. With four halftone illustrations.

Priscilla Peel, a poor girl, when she entered college was held up to derision as an uninteresting individual. She was, however, an earnest student and an honor to her school and teachers. She put blessedness before happiness, and duty before inclination, and such women live at the root of the true life of a worthy nation. There are the customary bickerings among the girls over the clever men of the neighborhood, but the love affairs end happily. It is a capitally told story of college life among girls.

POE, EDGAR ALLAN.

Tales of Mystery and Imagination.

Weird and wonderful stories. With eleven striking drawings by Alice B. Woodward, a Biography of the Author, a Bibliography of the Tales and Comprehensive Notes. Bound with decorative cover.

READE, CHARLES.

The Cloister and the Hearth.

Illustrated with numerous full-page drawings by Carl F. Groneman.

No greater historical novel was ever written. It breathes the very spirit of the middle ages, and shows soldier, artist, noble, burgher, peasant and priest as they lived just before the era of the Reformation.

SEWELL, ANNA.

Black Beauty: The Autobiography of a Horse.

With illustrations by Louis F. Grant.

An excellent edition of this wonderful book, printed on fine paper, and richly bound. The literary merit of the book is excellent. Used in the schools for supplementary reading, and should find a place in every school and home library.

SOUTHWORTH, MRS. E. D. E. N.

Mrs. Southworth has written many delightful stories, but these three are generally accepted as her best creations. They are capital stories of love, honor and success. These handsome editions are printed from new plates, on fine laid paper, and illustrated. The best obtainable editions at any price.

The Hidden Hand.

Ishmael; or, In the Depths.

Self-Raised; or, From the Depths.

STEVENSON, ROBERT LOUIS.

Treasure Island: A Story of Pirates and the Spanish Main. With eight halftone illustrations.

Might be classed with equal propriety as a boy's book or as a tale of the sea. It is sturdy in tone, not over-sensational, and the best story of pirates and hidden treasure ever written.

"As we follow Jim Hawkins' narrative we hold our breath at his dangers, and breathe again at his escapes."—The Athenæum.

STOWE, HARRIET BEECHER.

Uncle Tom's Cabin.

A new impression, printed from new plates on smooth wove paper of extra quality, and attractively bound in vellum cloth. With halftone illustrations by Louis Betts.

This immortal classic was written with the purpose of exposing the horrors of slavery. Though its mission was accomplished, the popularity of this book still continues. The love of little Eva for Tom, her pathetic death, the cruelties of Legree, the humor of Topsy, who "never was born, but just growed," the thrilling adventures of George and Eliza, belong to the world.

WARNER, SUSAN.

The Wide, Wide World.

Printed from new plates on fine wove paper of superior quality, and bound in vellum cloth, with an elaborate cover design. Illustrated with numerous drawings by Fred. Pegram. A very superior edition of this old established favorite, which is still widely read with pleasure and advantage.

PRESENTATION EDITIONS
IN TWO VOLUMES

Exceptionally Beautiful Volumes for the Library or Parlor Table.

Admirably adapted for birthday souvenirs, or as presentation volumes to persons of taste and cultivation. Nothing can be surer of appreciation than these exceedingly attractive gift editions. They are handsome inside and out.

BLACKMORE, R. D.

Lorna Doone. A superb edition of this delightful classic in modern English fiction, with 250 illustrations, decorative drawings, etc. Richly bound in Extra Cloth and Gold. In an ornamental box. Price, $2.00 per set. Postpaid.

BUDGE AND TODDIE

Or, Helen's Babies at Play

Being an account of the further doings of these marvelously precocious children.

By JOHN HABBERTON,

Author of "Helen's Babies," etc., etc.

With fifty specially drawn engravings by Todd Dwiggins, and a striking cover in colors.

Large 12mo. Cloth extra, 376 pages. Price $1.00 Postpaid.

Aunt Alice and Uncle Harry take upon themselves the temporary care of the boys Budge and Toddie. Aunt Alice, an earnest apostle of order, cleanliness, and self-restraint, undertakes to teach the boys something of the inner significance of things. She blunders woefully, and the record of her experiences in training, admonishing, controlling and disciplining these wholesome, human, unmanageable youngsters makes an abler and more amusing story than Helen's Babies of famous memory.

BETTY OF THE RECTORY. By Mrs. L. T. Meade. With a frontispiece.

A new story by Mrs. Meade is an event in many a household. Here is a practised hand that never fails to weave a fascinating romance. "Betty" is one of the most charming character portrayals of her long career.

Price, One Dollar, Postpaid.

The MARY J. HOLMES SERIES

Many mothers can remember with what pleasurable emotions they pored over the captivating works of Mrs. Holmes when they were girls, and how impatiently they waited from week to week for the instalments of their favorite stories. They are read with the same eagerness by the daughters of to-day, and will be as eagerly read by their children's children. Millions of these wholesome books have been sold, and they have made their way into the hearts and homes of thousands of readers.

These new impressions are the most attractive and the most salable books for the price before the public. Printed from large type, on fine laid paper, and handsomely bound in cloth with picture inlay on the front cover —offering a range of designs and color effects unmatched for decorative excellence and variety.

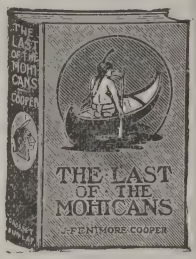
THE GOOD VALUE BOOKS



A series of 12mos of distinctive character and appearance, comprising ninety judiciously selected titles, endorsed by the foremost critics and approved by generations of readers. Printed on fine book paper, from new large type, and handsomely bound in cloth with strikingly artistic individual cover designs stamped in colored inks. Superior to any series issued at a similar price, and should not be confounded with the host of ordinary "popular price" lines.

Price, 50 Cents a Volume, Postpaid.

AESOP'S FABLES.

In their grotesque grace, in their quaint humor, in their trust in the simple virtues, in their insight into the cruder vices, in their innocence of the fact of sex, "Aesop's Fables" are as little children—and for that reason they will ever find a home in the heaven of little children's souls.

ANDERSEN, HANS CHRISTIAN.

Fairy Tales and Stories.

Contains all the stories that have endeared themselves to generations of readers.

BARRIE, JAMES M.

The Little Minister.

One of the "classics" of recent literature. It has been dramatized with great success.

BELL, J. J.

Wee Macgreegor.

This impudent little rascal is a quaint little personality, and most human from the top of his fine Glengarry bonnet to the soles of his sturdy feet.

BESANT and RICE.

All Sorts and Conditions of Men.

Deals with the problems of modern city poverty, in a spirit of unstinted, methodical helpfulness. From this story sprang the London "People's Palace."

BRONTÈ, CHARLOTTE.

Jane Eyre.

The most widely read of her several books. Its intense realism at once seized and secured popular favor. One of the modern classics.

BULWER-LYTTON.

The Last Days of Pompeii.

Reproduces Roman life, public and private, at the time of the great eruption of Vesuvius. No historical romances were ever more widely popular than Bulwer's.

BUNYAN, JOHN.

The Pilgrim's Progress.

Macaulay said "the style of this immortal classic is invaluable as a study to every person who wishes to obtain a wide command over the English language."

CARROLL, LEWIS.

Alice in Wonderland and Through the Looking Glass. The two volumes in one. With all the original Tenniel illustrations.

Pure, fantastic fun, which has delighted myriads of children and older folks as well.

CAREY, ROSA NOUCHETTE.

Miss Carey is one of the pleasantest of story-tellers with a large public who welcome her bright, wholesome, domestic stories because they are out of the common run, immaculately pure, and very high in tone.

Aunt Diana.
Averil.
Merle's Crusade.

Robinson Crusoe.

Walter Scott says: "There exists no work, either of instruction or entertainment, which has been more generally read and universally admired."

DICKENS, CHARLES.

The Christmas Stories.

Dickens loved Christmas and brought the cheer of it to many homes. "The Christmas Stories" is the most characteristic work of the great novelist.

A Tale of Two Cities.

Perhaps the best of all novels dealing with the French Revolution. It is quite distinct in style from most of the author's work. Sydney Carton is the hero.

DODGE, MARY MAPES.

Hans Brinker; or, The Silver Skates: A Story of Life in Holland.

Has held its position as an American juvenile classic, and seems to be endowed with perpetual youth. It is full of vitality, sincerity, sanity and vivacity, and a capital picture of life in Holland.

DOYLE, A. CONAN.

Tales of Sherlock Holmes.

A collection of the best known "adventures," as those thrilling detective stories have been termed. As "detective stories" they are the best of their kind. They are the long and favorably known stories: "A Study in Scarlet"; "The Sign of the Four"; "A Case of Identity"; "A Scandal in Bohemia"; "The Boscombe Valley Mystery"; and others.

DUMAS, ALEXANDER.

The Three Guardsmen.

A romance dealing with French life in the period of Louis XIII; with the stormy times of the great Cardinal, Richelieu; with the Queen Anne of Austria, and her love affairs with the English Duke of Buckingham; with the siege of Rochelle; and the interminable squabbles between the King's Musketeers and the Cardinal's Guards. The second of the D'Artagnan romances; being the continuation of "The Three Guardsmen." It covers the period in French history from 1630 to 1650, dealing with the regency of Queen Anne of Austria; with Cardinal Mazarin; with the insurrection of the Fronde; and the execution of Charles I of England.

ELIOT, GEORGE.

Silas Marner.

"Silas Marner" gives a picture of the country and the times that seem to have appealed most to George Eliot, and no girl could read his history and not feel sympathy for the old weaver of Raveloe and the little girl Eppie, who brought sunshine to his old age.

ELLIS, EDWARD S.

The Life of Kit Carson: Hunter, Trapper, Guide, Indian Agent and Colonel in the United States Army. By Edward S. Ellis.

Christopher, or as he was familiarly called, Kit Carson, the most famous hunter, scout and guide ever known in this country, was born in Kentucky in 1809. He served as a guide to General Fremont in his Rocky Mountain explorations; was an officer in the United States service in both the Mexican War and the great Civil War. His memory will forever remain fragrant with those who appreciate true manhood and an unswerving devotion to the good of those among whom he lived and died.

EMERSON, RALPH WALDO.

Essays (The First and Second Series in One Volume).

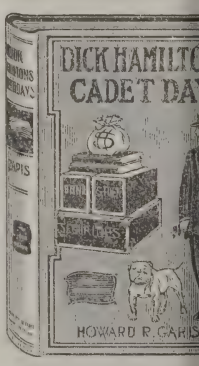
Dick Hamilton's Cadet Days; or, The Handicap of a Millionaire's Son.



A story with a highly original plot. The hero, a very rich young man, is sent to a military academy to make his way as a good fellow without the use of money. Some students imagine that Dick will try to "lord it over them" from the start, and they do their best to make him miserable even when he tries to keep in the background. A fine picture of life at an up-to-date military academy is given, with target shooting, broadsword exercise, trick riding, sham battles, and all. Dick proves himself a hero in the best sense of that word.

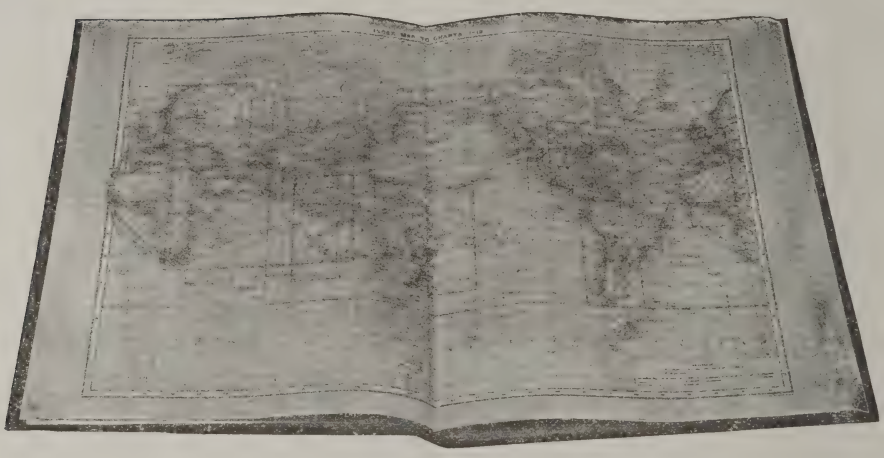
THE MERCANTILE MARINE ATLAS OF THE WORLD



The Most Scholarly Atlas Extant, Containing a Volume of Data Not to be Found Elsewhere. Of Inestimable Value as a Reliable Book of Reference, in the Office or Library of the Man of Affairs Throughout the World.

THIS cyclopedia of hydrography numbers in its contents over one hundred charts and plans, tables of eighty-six hundred distances between ports, national and house flags, lists of United States and British Consulates, a complete index of twenty thousand ports, etc., etc.

Some of the features of the Mercantile Marine Atlas of the World:

The steamer routes shown correspond exactly with the courses followed, and distances have been most carefully calculated. Mail routes are distinguished by red lines, the time occupied and the distance in miles being given. Telegraph cables are shown on the general charts, and also marked on the physical maps of the oceans, showing sea depths. On all the general charts the hundred fathom line is laid down, and danger points, lighthouses, lightships, canals, and navigable rivers are shown. The through railway lines are also indicated. Towns are distinguished according to their relative populations. Naval stations, coaling stations, docks, and American and British Consulates are located. Mercator's Projection has been worked out in single degrees in the general maps to facilitate the laying down of new or special routes.

A large number of inset plans shows the relative extent and harbor accommodation of the principal seaports of the world, also the separate docks, and the depth of the water in the channels by which they are approached.

The physical geography of the oceans has been exhaustively treated in a series of maps, embracing charts of the winds, ocean currents, co-tidal lines, magnetic variation and salinity of the sea; supplementary maps illustrate the visibility of the land, the rise of tides in different parts of the world, depth of the sea, etc., etc.

The introduction contains an immense amount of nautical information including statistics of merchant shipping and tables of comparative values of foreign currencies.

The index contains all the coast names, including seaports, bays, capes, etc., given on the charts, with their latitude and longitude.

Size of book closed, 15½ inches wide, 19¾ inches long and 1 inch thick. Size of double page maps, 31¼ x 19 inches.

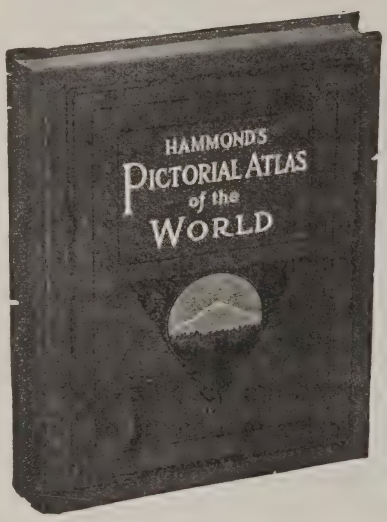
HAMMOND'S
PICTORIAL ATLAS OF THE WORLD



¶ An Atlas, to be of service, must be up-to-date—compact. This Atlas and Gazetteer of the World is newer, by five years, than any publication of like nature. In the last half decade the world has moved forward swiftly, and changes of vital moment have been wrought. The alert business man or painstaking teacher has no use for a mediocre, cumbersome atlas, telling only half truths. He wants to know the situation to-day. Thousands of new towns have sprung up within this last year. New railroads have been finished. He wants a complete compendium of geographical facts to-date; these facts are easily accessible in this exhaustive work.

THE MAPS

are clear, accurate and by reason of their delicate, harmoniously blended coloring are of rare beauty. Boundaries are distinct. The names of towns are printed in graded type indicating their size. On the margin of each map are new alphabetically arranged quick-reference indices of political divisions, cities and towns.

THE PICTORIAL GAZETTEER

is a Topical Cyclopedia of Geography, alphabetically indexed (occupying more than 100 pages), containing a wealth of entirely up-to-date information about countries, states, mountains, islands, rivers, and other civil and physical aspects of the globe.

THE ILLUSTRATIONS

form a charming collection of photographic reproductions that are properly called "The World in Halftone." These beautiful pictures range in size from two inches square to half a page. They appear on an average of two to a page, and number in their midst innumerable portraits of types, and some of the rarest and fairest views in the world.

TYPE, BINDING AND SIZE

The type throughout is large, clean cut and legible, and the work is attractively and durably bound. Size, 11 x 13½ inches. Containing over 250 pages.

THE PICTORIAL ATLAS

in short, is so compiled as to be absorbingly interesting, entertaining, instructive, and invaluable in office, study or school room.

HAMMOND'S
MODERN ATLAS of THE WORLD

¶ During the last few years numberless changes, which render an old atlas useless, have been wrought. New towns have sprung up; old cities and towns have grown; thousands of miles of new railroads have been built; history has changed the boundaries of countries, and these with numberless other changes are recorded in this new work. It is down to date in every particular.

This new atlas contains 128 pages of MAPS, beautifully printed in colors, representing every portion of the earth as it is TO-DAY. These plates have been engraved from new drawings, based on the latest surveys, and the publishers believe them to be the most complete and carefully edited series of like size covering the whole earth. The lettering is clear and clean cut throughout, carefully graded in size to convey at a glance relative importance of places. Railroads are shown and named and with very few exceptions, in crowded or densely populated sections, every railroad station and post-office is named.

On the margin of each map is an ALPHABETICALLY ARRANGED INDEX OF COUNTIES (or other minor divisions), CITIES AND TOWNS. A division or place may be instantly located without turning the page. The convenience of such a quick reference index will be readily appreciated.

Another valuable feature of this work is a very complete LIST OF THE CITIES OF THE WORLD, giving

LATEST POPULATION STATISTICS

This list shows the great growth of American and foreign cities; it is revised at frequent intervals.

The size of this work is 10½ x 13½ inches, printed on high finish paper and durably bound in red cloth, with attractive cover stamping.

PRICE, $3.00

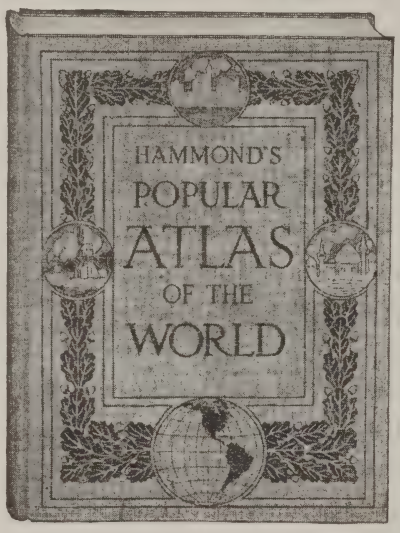
POPULAR ATLAS OF THE WORLD



Contains a new series of ACCURATE AND COMPLETE MAPS, beautifully printed in colors. There are in this collection separate maps of each state and territory, and the insular possessions of the United States; of each province in Canada; of each country of Europe, and general maps of all other portions of the globe. These maps show the latest changes, and are thoroughly abreast with the times. The engraving and lettering of these maps is of superior quality, and all have been most carefully edited.

Another valuable feature of this work is a list of the CITIES of THE WORLD, with the latest population statistics, and the giving populations of all counties, cities and incorporated villages.

1910 Census of the United States

Attractively bound in cloth, with ornamental stamped design. Size 6 x 8 in. Over 150 pages.

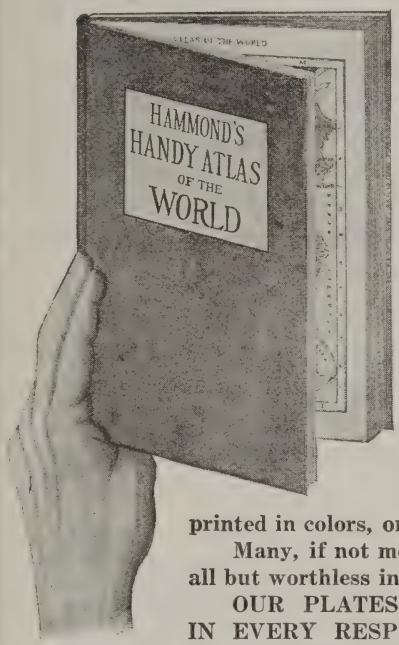
An Invaluable Aid to All Who Follow Current Events in the World's News

Each day brings news which cannot be clearly understood without referring to a good map.

No one can intelligently read his daily paper without a reference book such as this new atlas.

Hammond's Handy Atlas of the World

Is the most recent and authoritative, and, therefore, the most reliable atlas of its size published



IT CONTAINS A SEPARATE RAILROAD MAP OF EACH STATE AND TERRITORY; maps of each of our insular possessions, and of every other portion of the globe, printed in colors from new plates. In the maps of our states and territories, and of the provinces of Canada, RAILROADS ARE NAMED, and stations are shown, in a very complete manner. These, and all other details, are brought down to as recent date as in any of the more expensive atlases.

Alphabetically arranged lists of cities give the LATEST POPULATION STATISTICS.

The maps in this work are not only new and reliable, but they are legible. Every name is lettered in clean-cut type; no indistinct hand-lettering is used. Every map is beautifully printed in colors, on high-finish paper made expressly for this book.

Many, if not most, low-priced atlases are made up of old plates, all but worthless in this era of rapid changes.

OUR PLATES ARE NEW, UP-TO-DATE, AND SUPERIOR IN EVERY RESPECT.

By way of illustrating the extent to which this work is abreast of the times, the publishers call attention to the following geographical changes that are shown in the map-plates of this book, very many of which are not to be found in any publication of similar size or cost:

¶ THE CHANGES IN TRANSPORTATION ROUTES, brought about by the construction of such new railway lines as the Western Pacific across three states, from Salt Lake to the Pacific; as the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound across five states, from the Missouri River to Puget Sound; as the Grand Trunk Pacific across the Dominion of Canada; or as the Florida East Coast over the coral reefs from Biscayne Bay to Key West: not to speak of hundreds of miles built by other important lines.

¶ THE RESULTS OF RECENT EXPEDITIONS, such as the achievement of the North Pole; the mapping of northeast Greenland; or as Shackleton's advance towards the South Pole: including the important investigations in Alaska, and in our insular possessions.

¶ THE CREATION AND GROWTH OF POPULATION CENTERS, such as Fairbanks, now the largest place in Alaska; as Prince Rupert, the new Pacific terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific; as Melville, a railroad shop-and division-headquarters on the Saskatchewan prairie; or as the new mining centers and towns springing up on our deserts and in the regions reclaimed by irrigation and dry farming.

¶ THE IMPORTANT CHANGES IN POLITICAL BOUNDARIES brought about by the division of Sakhalin; the contraction of Siam; the creation of counties in Hawaii; the rearrangement of districts in Porto Rico; the union of British colonies in South Africa, and the territorial adjustment of differences among several South American countries.

Contains 96 pages; 6x8 in.; bound in durable, silk-finished cloth.

ATLAS OF NEW YORK CITY AND THE METROPOLITAN DISTRICT

contains new sectional street and avenue maps of each of the five boroughs showing surface elevated, and subway transportation lines, tunnels, principal public buildings, etc. It also contains detailed road maps of the country around New York extending north to Peekskill, east to Norwalk, south to Perth Amboy and west to Morristown. There are sixteen pages of carefully edited and complete maps, beautifully printed in colors. No other work of five times its size and cost contains so much information about the Metropolitan District. Size 10 x 13 inches; strong paper binding, 25 cents.

Commercial Map of the United States

A big exhaustive map of the United States is a necessary element in the equipment of an office.

The latest published, the "Commercial," is a marvel of accuracy and completeness, and contains innumerable features that are found on no other single sheet map on the market.

Its expansive proportions admit of it containing data that could not be intelligibly embraced in the smaller kind.

The up-to-date business man needs an up-to-date map.

If the wall space is limited, buy a "Commercial" map on a spring roller in a "Unit" case, which protects it from dust and grime when not in use.

The Commercial Map of United States Contains:

Every state, territory, county, county seat, city; also post offices and railroad stations; every mile of railroad, the routes of regular water transportation lines (including those of the Great Lakes), all the rivers, lakes, mountains (with elevations of principal peaks), canals, Indian reservations, timber reserves, national parks, etc., etc.

An index of the principal cities of the United States is shown as indicated on the cut.

The engraving is of the highest order, and the printing and mounting, the best.

New Map of the World on the Equivalent Projection

IN the illustration above we have merely indicated, with the barest outline, the magnificent new map of the World on the equivalent projection. The original covers a surface considerably over one hundred times greater, and it would be manifestly impossible to portray its multitudinous features in so small a drawing.

This splendid achievement overcomes many objectionable features of distortion in other maps. It has won the approval of the United States Government and of the leading cartographers of Europe.

The New Map of the World presents to view, in one continuous map, with all areas in true proportion, the entire surface of the earth, in rich, harmonious color!

Everybody needs a map which portrays the world as it is—which has the changes in countries, cities, etc., etc., that have occurred in the last few years, and which shows every country with its capital; cities, ports, railroads, canals, mountains, lakes, streams, ocean depths, submarine cables, and numberless other important features.

On the marginal space appears a complete index, locating and giving the population of every country, according to the latest censuses—all cities of over fifty thousand inhabitants, and the islands of the world.

The proximity of map and index (a feature exclusive with this map) adds infinitely to its efficiency.

COMPARISON OF SIZES

8-inch 10-inch 12-inch 18-inch

Though not usually known, an 18-inch globe is three times the size of a 12-inch globe. On account of the clearness of the engraving which is correspondingly larger, we recommend the 18-inch globe for general purposes.

Our New Suspension Globe

SUSPENSION GLOBE

REPRESENTING the latest and most effective manner of mounting for schoolroom purposes. Hanging, as it does, from the ceiling of the room, it is in plain view of every pupil, and utilizes space, otherwise wasted. This feature of mounting does away with any possible injury to the globe by being upset or knocked over, as is often the case with other styles. Can be raised or lowered at will and rotates on every conceivable diameter.

This globe has had the most remarkable sale of any school globe ever manufactured, and is gaining more and more in popular favor every day. Users are most enthusiastic in their praise, and we do not hesitate to recommend this globe very highly to any school now unequipped.

No. 1807. 18-inch Ball; complete with pulleys, cord, etc.

METAL HOUR DISCS

All the Terrestrial Globes described in this catalog are fitted with Circular Metal Discs attached to the North Pole.

These have stamped on them the 24 hours of the day, and by placing the disc in such a position as to indicate the time at New York or Chicago (or point where observation is made) the time at any other place on earth is instantly ascertained.

Bett's Portable Globe

HIS globe consists of a frame work of steel wire, covered with cloth, on which is printed a map of the World. It can be expanded or collapsed at will. The cloth cover is of a durable material, made expressly for the purpose; and to secure permanence the coloring is produced at the press with varnish colors. The globe is about fifteen inches in diameter, being four feet in circumference. For the convenience of suspending it by a cord, the top of the axis is furnished with a ring. Weight less than ten ounces. A neat box is provided, in which the globe may be deposited when not in use.

The Comparative Series of Large Schoolroom Maps

IT is an undoubted fact that the most serviceable maps for class teaching purposes are those that illustrate clearly, and at a glance, both Political and Physical Features. This New Series will be found to possess this combination, and, in addition, to form an extremely attractive decoration for the schoolroom.

SPECIAL FEATURES

1.—Physical Features are especially prominent. The land is tinted according to its elevation, and the mountain ranges are printed in a different color. The coastline, river courses, lakes, etc., are well defined and printed in blue.

2.—Uniformity of Scale and Comparison of Areas:—To emphasise the comparative areas of the various regions of the world, a uniform scale and equivalent projections have been used for the continental maps.

3.—The political boundaries are clearly shown by red lines, the towns by red circles, varying in size according to importance, and the railways by black lines. The principal ocean routes with their distances are also given.

4.—The lettering is well executed, and sufficiently large to be readable by all in an ordinary sized class-room.

5.—Great care has been bestowed upon the selection and spelling of names. All overcrowding has been avoided. Nothing unnecessary has been inserted. and nothing necessary omitted.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Every teacher must have experienced the difficulty of obtaining a satisfactory Map of the World on a large scale for class use. Heretofore such maps have invariably been constructed either on a Globular Projection or upon that known as Mercator's. Both of these projections have their advantages, but are deficient in the following important respects:—

The Globular Projection shows the world in two separate Hemispheres side by side, and, whilst it is a useful method of comparing the relative sizes of the various land and sea areas, it is extremely puzzling for children to learn from such a map the relative positions of the different countries and the means of communication between them. Mercator's Projection satisfactorily overcomes the difficulty as regards relative position and means of communication, but is extremely misleading as to the relative sizes of the various countries.

To overcome these objections THE COMPARATIVE MAP OF THE WORLD has been constructed on what is known as the Equivalent Projection. This projection, although rapidly growing in favor with leading cartographers, has never before been employed on so large a scale for educational use, although it is pre-eminently suited for teaching purposes.

It is the only projection in which the Equivalent Areas or correct sizes of all parts of the world are preserved in combination with their relative position to each other; and it is the possession of these two important features which has led to its adoption in the Comparative Series of Large School-room Maps.

A glance at the accompanying reduced facsimile of the map will show that the entire earth is represented in the shape of an ellipse, the major axis of which represents the equator, whilst its minor axis represents the central meridian. All other meridians of longitude appear as ellipses, whilst the parallels of latitude appear as parallel straight lines, the intervals between them being regulated in such manner as to ensure Equivalent Areas. To emphasize the advantages the Equivalent Projection possesses over other methods of representing the globe on a flat surface, and to give Teachers the material for explaining the elements of Map Projection, inset maps of the World in Hemispheres and on Mercator's Projection have been added, together with maps on a Polar Projection, giving the Arctic and Antarctic Regions.

Philips' Political Series of Large Schoolroom Maps

DRAWN with unerring accuracy by the foremost geographers of the day and colored with a view to add both to their usefulness and attractiveness, the series under this heading must compel the thoughtful interest of every pupil to whom they are exhibited!

All unimportant details have been eliminated. All physical features are distinctly drawn and all political boundaries are clearly defined; moreover this series is abreast of the times. For example, on the maps of the World, Europe, Asia and South America, the railroad and steamship lines are distinctly shown in red. Features of this nature must appeal to those interested in up-to-date methods of instruction in geography.

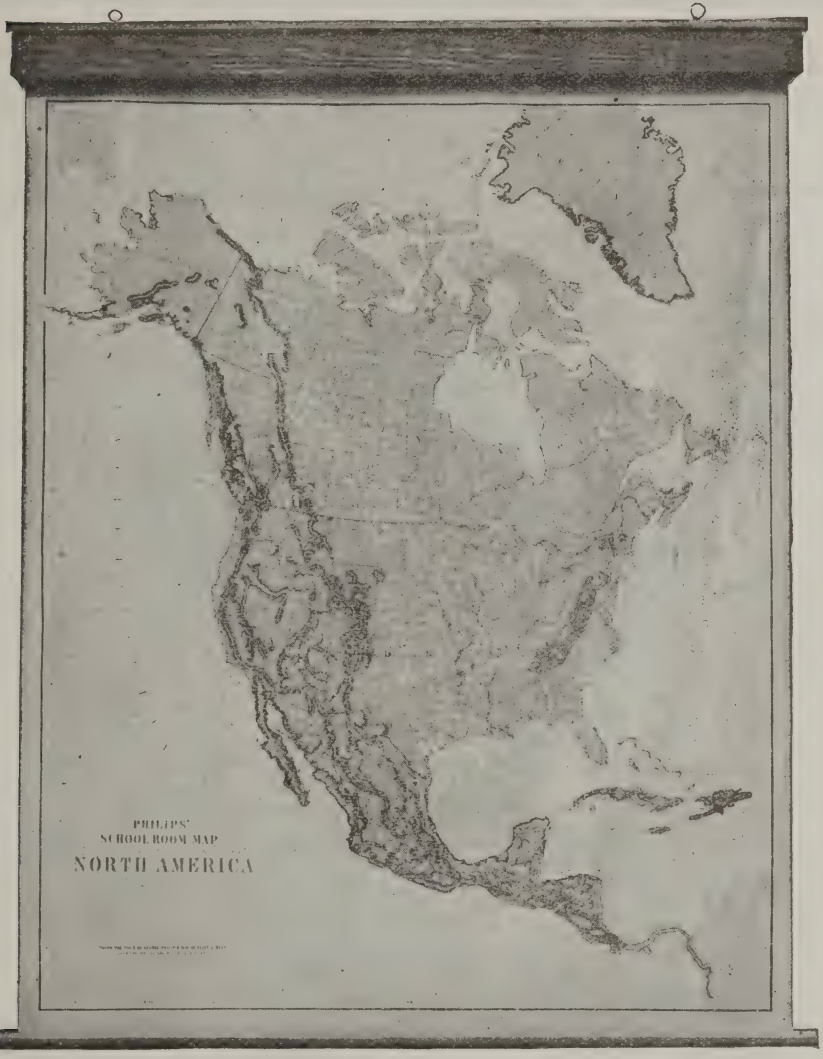
Philips' Political Series of Large Schoolroom Maps

Reduced Photographic Reproduction



This cut shows the map of North America in our "Unit" case, as it appears when extended ready for use.

THE maps of this series can be read across the largest schoolroom.

Even on the above small reduction, it will be seen that the names of the political divisions and surrounding waters of North America are easily distinguishable.

Philips' Special Series of Schoolroom Maps

The most Up-to-Date, Practical and Serviceable School Maps on the Market.

THE Special Series contains features that are embraced in no other maps made for schoolroom use!

Through railroads and steamship routes are conspicuously shown on every map in heavy red.

Trade centers of each country throughout the world are strongly indicated with large red symbols.

From the foregoing it will be noted that great prominence has been given to commercial geography. No other single series combines, in so complete and comprehensive a manner, physical, political and commercial features.

These maps are splendidly colored. Each separate country stands out sharply and distinctly so that its contour is indelibly stamped on the memory. Mountain ranges are printed in brown.

All recent political changes have been heeded, and the boundaries of countries appear as they are to-day.

The keynote of the Special Series is simplicity. While no feature of importance has been omitted, no superfluous matter has been allowed to crowd the maps to distract attention from the salient points with which it is essential that pupils be impressed.

Philips' Special Series of Schoolroom Maps

Reduced Photographic Reproduction

THE through railroad lines and the steamship routes can be plainly seen even in as small a reduction as the above. The symbols showing the trade centers are equally clear. For example, in the original we see at a glance that Caracas, Valencia, Cumana, Ciudad Bolivar and Truxillo are the trade centers of Venezuela, etc.

GEOGRAPHICAL TERMS

A Splendid New Chart Illustrating Clearly, Concisely and Interestingly the Initiatory Steps in the Study of Geography.

The following subjects are illustrated in beautifully harmonizing colors:

1.—A Large Pictorial Landscape, Illustrating Graphically the Chief Features of Land and Water.
2.—A Large Map Corresponding With the Landscape, Illustrating the Various Geographical Definitions, Political and Physical.
3.—Picture of Schoolhouse, and Ground Plan of Same.
4.—Picture of Neighborhood Surrounding School, and Corresponding Map.
5.—Picture Illustrating Method of Ascertaining Direction by the Sun.
6.—Map of World, Illustrating Points of the Compass.
7. Map of World, Showing Divisions of Land and Water, Zones, etc.
8.—The World in Space.

Points to Which Attention May Be Drawn.

¶ The clouds working up and covering the mountains; all except the high peak in the distance. The snow-covered mountain range and the glacier, the source of the river. Its unnavigable portion to the waterfall; below the waterfall boats can sail upon it. This part is called the lower river; the other the upper river. The valley through which the upper river runs has been worn wider by the rain and frost, and deeper by the river.

¶ The hills are barren, and on the lower ground are trees; firs in left hand corner, and a group of seven poplars on the bank of the stream.

¶ The old village nestles in a valley near the bridge, its church tower being plainly seen, while the new town with its docks and chimneys stands near the harbor. [Harbors were not safe in early days, sea robbers visited them, so towns were built far up the stream.]

¶ Across the plain a railway runs, keeping to the level ground but going as direct as possible.

¶ The breakwater is so arranged that the sea waves driven by the westerly winds shall not run up the harbor. There is smooth water and safe anchorage in the harbor. Breakwaters are built by man.

¶ The word Archipelago (pr. Arkipel′ago) is used to indicate either the water space in which there are islands, or the islands themselves.

¶ The rocks of the Peninsula Headland are of limestone, white and hard. The cliffs forming the Cape are of clay and are easily worn. The island is being gradually washed away by the sea.

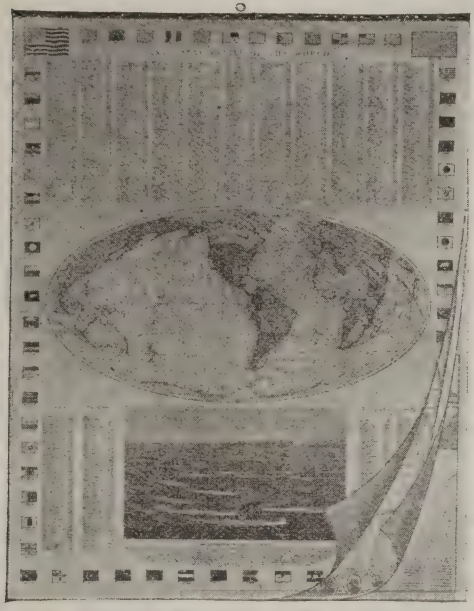
New Three-Sheet Wall Atlas



A BRAND new novelty just issued, consisting of three sheets each 22x28 inches in size, all of which are covered with new maps and statistical facts of constant interest to every man, woman and child in this rapidly advancing age.

The first sheet consists of a new map of the World on the Equivalent Projection; showing each country in distinct color, principal cities, principal railroads and steamship lines with distances between ports, all submarine cables and many other special features. The projection or plan upon which the map is constructed is meritorious; it shows all areas in their relative proportion and, being a comparatively new idea in map construction, it at once attracts attention and interest; the projection is endorsed by the highest authorities. Around the border of the sheet is printed in true colors a separate flag of every country on the globe. Together with these features is a list of the principal cities of the world and a large half-tone view of the various types of vessels in our navy, in which has been included the Delaware, of the new "Dreadnought" class. From this type to the smallest torpedo boat, each vessel is carefully and correctly pictured by the well-known marine artist, C. McKnight-Smith.

The second sheet is made up of a beautiful new map of the United States, showing all cities and principal towns, with main line and branch railroads distinguished. Size of type indicates relative importance of places, while recent changes such as the enlarged state of Oklahoma, the new Canadian provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan, and minor ones are correctly shown. On this sheet is also given a complete list of cities of United States with population figures from the latest official sources. Around the border are excellent half-tone likenesses of the Presidents of the United States.

The third sheet shows a large scale map of the final plans of the Panama Canal, as approved by Congress, indicating location of locks, dams, depth of stored waters, distances between points, etc., also a profile of that section through which the canal passes. Above this is a circle map of the three Americas, North, Central and South, with routes and distances between Atlantic and Pacific ports via the Panama Canal, also via Cape Horn. This feature in itself is worth the cost of the entire hanger. On this sheet is also given a concise history of the Panama Canal and a description of the Republic of Panama.

This great publication, beautifully printed on best white coated paper and secured at the top with lacquered metal strip and eyelet to hang by, (see illustration) is a necessity in every home, especially where there are school children. It is not a collection of old plates and stale information, but an up-to-date reference work of the highest merit.

This collection, because of its present-day value, will be retained and used by all who procure it. Although a veritable mine of information, it takes up little space, hence it will not be put aside and forgotten. It makes an interesting and attractive adornment for the wall of the home library or office of a business man, because it is beautiful and void of all gaudy coloring.

TITLE INDEX.

General titles, such as Poems, Essays, Reminiscences, Sermons, Works, etc., are omitted in this Index, as they are, necessarily, connected with the authors' names, and are thus indexed in the main body of the Trade-List.

Biographies are indexed here only when not already indexed in the Trade-List.
Histories and Travels, as a rule, are indexed under their respective countries.
Anonymous books are catalogued under title in the body of the Trade-List.
Prints, Portfolios, etc., are not included in this Index. See pages 39 and 40.

An Important Historical Work on the Great West

LIFE, LETTERS AND TRAVELS OF FATHER DE SMET

By MAJOR HIRAM M. CHITTENDEN, U. S. ENGINEERING CORPS, AND MR. A. T. RICHARDSON.

A history of Father P. J. De Smet's Travels, Observations, Hardships, etc., on the Plains, his experiences among the Indians of the West, their manners, customs, etc., mostly, new material now for the first time printed, and culled with great care from the original twenty-four manuscript letter books of Father De Smet. Illustrated with a map of his route, views of Trading Posts, Indians, Scenery, etc., 4 vols., 8vo, cloth, uncut, per set, - - - - - - - - - - - - $15.00 net

The authors state "We will show Father De Smet to be a great man, not merely in his calling, but in the broader sphere of a public servant to his country, and we believe that this work will rank as one of the very best in the line of Western History and Exploration." To the text the authors have added numerous valuable historical, geographical, ethnological and other notes, and the work is one that will necessarily be consulted by all students and readers of Western History. Send for prospectus.

Uniform with Dr. Coues' "Pike's Expeditions," "Henry and Thompson Journals," and Major Chittenden's "American Fur Trade of the Far West."

THE AMERICAN FUR TRADE OF THE FAR WEST

By MAJOR HIRAM M. CHITTENDEN, U. S. ENGINEER CORPS.

A History of the Pioneer Trading Posts and Early Fur Companies of the Missouri Valley and the Rocky Mountains, and of the Overland Commerce with Santa Fe, etc. written largely from manuscript and other records hitherto inaccessible. Illustrated with maps and plates and an elaborate folding map of the Trans-Mississippi Territory, showing Posts, Trails, Waterways, Indian Tribes, etc., in great detail. 3 vols., 8vo, cloth, uncut, per set, - - - - - - - $10.00 net

A work of the highest merit and greatest importance on the early history of the great West. The author has embodied in it the results of years of painstaking research, going into the whole subject with a thoroughness and ability rarely met with in these days. Every known printed authority has been consulted and digested, and in addition a mass of original manuscripts hitherto inaccessible has been placed at Major Chittenden's disposal. The result is that many important details connected with the discovery and development of the West are now first brought to light.

This is a work that has at once taken its place in the very front rank in the field of American history. Written by one who is in thorough sympathy with his task, the entire subject is treated in the most happy style, and there is not a dull page in it.

Part I. The Fur Trade. Character of the Business—Relations with the Indians—Trading Posts—The Trapping Fraternity, etc.

Part II. Historical. Louisiana—Rise of the Fur Trade—St. Louis Early Expedition—Missouri Fur Co.—Astoria—The Rocky Mountain Fur Co.—American Fur Co.—Capt. Bonneville—Nathl. J. Wyeth—The Oregon Trail—The Santa Fe Trail—The Santa Fe Trade, etc.

Part III. Contemporary Events. Lewis & Clark and Long's Expeditions—Yellowstone Expedition of 1825—Military Occupations and Explorations, Missionary Work, etc.

Part IV. Notable Incidents And Characters In The History Of The Fur Trade. The Lost Trappers—The Battle of Pierce's Hole—The Battle of Fort McKenzie—Alexander Harvey—Indian Escapes and Captivities, etc.

Part V. The Country and Its Inhabitants. Mountains—Rivers—Indian Tribes, etc.—Buffalo—Beaver—Bear and other Fauna.

Christ's sermon ST. MATTHEW, 5. in the mount

24 And his fame went throughout all Sȳr'ī-ȧ: and they brought unto him all sick people that were taken with divers diseases and torments, and those which were possessed with devils, and those which were lunatick, and those that had the palsy; and he healed them.

25 And there followed him great multitudes of people from Gāl'ī-lee, and from Dē-cāp'ō-lis, and from Jē-ru'sȧ-lēm, and from Jū-dæ'ȧ, and from beyond Jŏr'dȧn.

CHAPTER 5.

1 Beginning of the sermon in the mount. 14 The light of the world. 21 What it is to kill. 38 Exhortation to suffer wrong. 44 Love our enemies. 48 Labour to be perfect.

AND seeing the multitudes, he went up into a mountain: and when he was set, his disciples came unto him:

2 And he opened his mouth, and taught them, saying,

3 Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

4 Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted.

5 Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth.

6 Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled.

7 Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy.

8 Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.

9 Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God.

10 Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

11 Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake.

12 Rejoice, and be exceeding glad: for great is your reward in heaven: for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you.

13 ¶ Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost his savour, wherewith shall it be salted? it is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men.

14 Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid.

15 Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house.

16 Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven.

17 ¶ Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets: I am not come to destroy, but to fulfil.

18 For verily I say unto you, Till heaven and earth pass, one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass from the law, till all be fulfilled.

19 Whosoever therefore shall break one of these least commandments, and shall teach men so, he shall be called the least in the kingdom of heaven: but whosoever shall do and teach them, the same shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven.

20 For I say unto you, That except your righteousness shall exceed the righteousness of the scribes and Phär'ī-sees, ye shall in no case enter into the kingdom of heaven.

21 ¶ Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time, Thou shalt not kill; and whosoever shall kill shall be in danger of the judgment:

22 But I say unto you, That whosoever is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of the judgment: and whosoever shall say to his brother, Raca, shall be in danger of the council: but whosoever shall say, Thou fool, shall be in danger of hell fire.

23 Therefore if thou bring thy gift to the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath ought against thee;

24 Leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way; first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift.

25 Agree with thine adversary quickly, whiles thou art in the way with him; lest at any time the adversary deliver thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and thou be cast into prison.

26 Verily I say unto thee, Thou shalt by no means come out thence, till thou hast paid the uttermost farthing.

27 ¶ Ye have heard that it was said by them of old time, Thou shalt not commit adultery:

28 But I say unto you, That whosoever looketh on a woman to lust after her hath committed adultery with her already in his heart.

29 And if thy right eye offend thee, pluck it out, and cast it from thee: for it is profitable for thee that one of thy members should perish, and not that thy whole body should be cast into hell.

Generations of Terah. GENESIS, 12. God calleth Abram.

17 And Ē′bĕr lived after he begat Pē′leg four hundred and thirty years, and begat sons and daughters.
18 And Pē′leg lived thirty years, and begat Rē′u:
19 And Pē′leg lived after he begat Rē′u two hundred and nine years, and begat sons and daughters.
20 And Rē′u lived two and thirty years, and begat Sē′rug:
21 And Rē′u lived after he begat Sē′rug two hundred and seven years, and begat sons and daughters.
22 And Sē′rug lived thirty years, and begat Nā′hôr:
23 And Sē′rug lived after he begat Nā′hôr two hundred years, and begat sons and daughters.
24 And Nā′hôr lived nine and twenty years, and begat Tē′rah:
25 And Nā′hôr lived after he begat Tē′rah an hundred and nineteen years, and begat sons and daughters.
26 And Tē′rah lived seventy years, and begat Ā′brăm, Nā′hôr, and Hā′ran.
27 ¶ Now these are the generations of Tē′rah: Tē′rah begat Ā′brăm, Nā′hôr, and Hā′ran; and Hā′ran begat Lōt.
28 And Hā′ran died before his father Tē′rah in the land of his nativity, in Ūr of the Chăl′dees.
29 And Ā′brăm and Nā′hôr took them wives: the name of Ā′brăm's wife was Sā′rāi; and the name of Nā′hôr's wife, Mĭl′cah, the daughter of Hā′ran, the father of Mĭl′cah, and the father of Ĭs′cah.
30 But Sā′rāi was barren; she had no child.
31 And Tē′rah took Ā′brăm his son, and Lōt the son of Hā′ran his son's son, and Sā′rāi his daughter in law, his son Ā′brăm's wife; and they went forth with them from Ūr of the Chăl′dees, to go into the land of Cā′năan; and they came unto Hā′ran, and dwelt there.
32 And the days of Tē′rah were two hundred and five years: and Tē′rah died in Hā′ran.

CHAPTER 12.

1 God calleth Abram, and blesseth him with a promise of Christ: 4 he departs from Haran. 6 Canaan promised.

NOW the LORD had said unto Ā′brăm, Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's house, unto a land that I will shew thee:
2 And I will make of thee a great nation, and I will bless thee, and make thy name great; and thou shalt be a blessing:
3 And I will bless them that bless thee, and curse him that curseth thee: and in thee shall all families of the earth be blessed.
4 So Ā′brăm departed, as the LORD had spoken unto him; and Lōt went with him: and Ā′brăm was seventy and five years old when he departed out of Hā′ran.
5 And Ā′brăm took Sā′rāi his wife, and Lōt his brother's son, and all their substance that they had gathered, and the souls that they had gotten in Hā′ran; and they went forth to go into the land of Cā′năan; and into the land of Cā′năan they came.
6 ¶ And Ā′brăm passed through the land unto the place of Sī′chem, unto the plain of Mō′reh. And the Cā′năan-ite was then in the land.
7 And the LORD appeared unto Ā′brăm, and said, Unto thy seed will I give this land: and there builded he an altar unto the LORD, who appeared unto him.
8 And he removed from thence unto a mountain on the east of Bĕth′-el, and pitched his tent, having Bĕth′-el on the west, and Hā′ī on the east: and there he builded an altar unto the LORD, and called upon the name of the LORD.
9 And Ā′brăm journeyed, going on still toward the south.
10 ¶ And there was a famine in the land: and Ā′brăm went down into Ē′gўpt to sojourn there; for the famine was grievous in the land.
11 And it came to pass, when he was come near to enter into Ē′gўpt, that he said unto Sā′rāi his wife, Behold now, I know that thou art a fair woman to look upon:
12 Therefore it shall come to pass, when the Ē-gўp′tians shall see thee, that they shall say, This is his wife: and they will kill me, but they will save thee alive.
13 Say, I pray thee, thou art my sister: that it may be well with me for thy sake; and my soul shall live because of thee.

18 And pray ye that your flight be not in the winter.

19 For in those days shall be affliction, such as was not from the beginning of the creation which God created unto this time, neither shall be.

20 And except that the Lord had shortened those days, no flesh should be saved: but for the elect's sake, whom he hath chosen, he hath shortened the days.

21 And then if any man shall say to you, Lo, here is Christ; or, lo, he is there; believe him not:

22 For false Christs and false prophets shall rise, and shall shew signs and wonders, to seduce, if it were possible, even the elect.

EXODUS 29. Forms of priestly consecration.

79] CHAPTER 29.

The consecrating of the priests.

AND this is the thing that thou shalt do unto them to hallow them, to minister unto me in the priest's office: Take one young bullock, and two rams without blemish,

2 And unleavened bread, and cakes unleavened tempered with oil, and wafers unleavened anointed with oil: of wheaten flour shalt thou make them.

3 And thou shalt put them into one basket, and bring them in the basket, with the bullock and the two rams.

4 And Aaron and his sons thou shalt bring unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and shalt wash them with water.

5 And thou shalt take the garments, and put upon Aaron the coat, and the robe of the ephod, and the ephod, and the breastplate, and gird him with the curious girdle of the ephod:

6 And thou shalt put the mitre upon his head, and put the holy crown upon the mitre.

7 Then shalt thou take the anointing oil, and pour it upon his head, and anoint him.

8 And thou shalt bring his sons, and put coats upon them.

9 And thou shalt gird them with girdles, Aaron and his sons, and put the bonnets on them: and the priest's office shall be their's for a perpetual statute: and thou shalt consecrate Aaron and his sons.

10 And thou shalt cause a bullock to be brought before the tabernacle of the congregation: and Aaron and his sons shall put of their right hand, and upon the great toe of their right foot, and sprinkle the blood upon the altar round about.

21 And thou shalt take of the blood that is upon the altar, and of the anointing oil, and sprinkle it upon Aaron, and upon his garments, and upon his sons, and upon the garments of his sons with him: and he shall be hallowed, and his garments, and his sons, and his sons' garments with him.

22 Also thou shalt take of the ram the fat and the rump, and the fat that covereth the inwards, and the caul above the liver, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, and the right shoulder; for it is a ram of consecration:

23 And one loaf of bread, and one cake of oiled bread, and one wafer out of the basket of the unleavened bread that is before the LORD:

24 And thou shalt put all in the hands of Aaron, and in the hands of his sons; and shalt wave them for a wave offering before the LORD.

25 And thou shalt receive them of their hands, and burn them upon the altar for a burnt offering, for a sweet savour before the LORD: it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

26 And thou shalt take the breast of the ram of Aaron's consecration, and wave it for a wave offering before the LORD: and it shall be thy part.

27 And thou shalt sanctify the breast of the wave offering, and the shoulder of the heave offering, which is waved, and which is heaved up, of the ram of the consecration, even of that which is for Aaron, and of that

PICTORIAL TEACHERS' BIBLES

THE Photographs from which these Views were made were taken but recently, and they therefore giv correct representations of the present appearances of places made memorable by the sacred ar historic associations of Bible times.

Each View is followed by a clear yet concise description of the scene which it portrays. The seri begins with Photo-Views of places that we read of in the book of Genesis, and proceeds to show in a orderly arrangement panoramas of various cities and localities in Bible lands as they come into prom nence from time to time throughout the entire period covered by the Old and New Testament narrativ

MARKET-PLACE IN BETHLEHEM.— Though anciently a small town, Bethlehem was none the less conspicuous in Hebrew history (Gen. xxxv. 19; Ruth i. 19; 1 Sam. xvii. 12). As the birthplace of Christ, and scene of the events connected therewith, it holds a place in Christian affection second only to that of the Holy City. It now has a population of about 5,000, composed mostly of Greek Christians, whose chief industry is the making of sacred souvenirs, which are sold to visitors. In its streets, architecture, and customs, one reads of a hoary past. In the fields around and in its busy market-place may still be heard the greeting and response of the days of Ruth (Ruth ii. 4).

THE HOLMAN

Comparative Self-Pronouncing Teachers' Bible

CONTAINING, IN COMBINED TEXT,

The Authorized and Revised Versions of the Old and New Testaments

THE LINEAR PARALLEL METHOD

presents in a single line and in large, clear type the texts of the Authorized and Revised Versions of the Holy Bible, where said texts are alike. Where they are unlike, either in language, spelling, italicization, capitalization, parentheses, punctuation, or otherwise, the difference is at once set forth by means of double lines of smaller type, making a readily and easily readable combined text.

AN INSTANTANEOUS COMPARISON

There is nothing mysterious or involved about the Linear Bible—all is plain sailing. There are no parallel columns or embarrassing foot-notes to mystify one's understanding. To read the Authorized Version, one has but to read the large type line along to any point of difference in the respective versions, and then follow the UPPER small type line through such difference. Likewise, to read the Revised Version, one has but to read the large type line along to any difference in the respective versions, and then follow the LOWER small type line through such difference. This rule holds as to every difference, even to that of a comma. Thus, not only the readings but the comparisons of the two versions become easy, immediate, satisfactory and perfect.

CONCORDANCE AND MAPS

In addition to the Old and New Testaments this edition contains our New Analytical and Comparative Concordance with 100,000 References—the most complete Concordance in any Teachers' Bible. ST. LUKE, 5.

13 And he put forth his hand, and touched him, saying, I will: be thou clean. And immediately the leprosy departed from him.

14 And he charged him to tell no man: but go, and shew thyself to the priest, and offer for thy cleansing, according as Mō'ṣēṣ commanded, for a testimony unto them.

15 But so much the more went there a fame abroad of him: and great multitudes came together to hear, and to be healed by him of their infirmities.

16 ¶ And he withdrew himself into the wilderness, and prayed.

17 And it came to pass on a certain day, as he was teaching, that there were Phär'ī-sees and doctors of the law sitting by, which were come out of every town of Gāl'ī-lee, and Jū-dæ'a, and Jē-ru'sā-lēm: and the power of the Lord was present to heal them.

18 ¶ And, behold, men brought in a bed a man which was taken with a palsy: and they sought means to bring him in, and to lay him before him.

19 And when they could not find by what way they might bring him in because of the multitude, they went upon the house top, and let him down through the tiling with his couch into the midst before Jē'sus.

20 And when he saw their faith, he said unto him, Man, thy sins are forgiven thee.

21 And the scribes and the Phär'ī-sees began to reason, saying, Who is this which speaketh blasphemies? Who can forgive sins, but God alone?

22 But when Jē'sus perceived their thoughts, he answering said unto them, What reason ye in your hearts?

23 Whether is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Rise up and walk?

24 But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power upon earth to forgive sins, (he said unto the sick of the palsy,) I say unto thee, Arise, and take up thy couch, and go into thine house.

25 And immediately he rose up before them, and took up that whereon he lay, and departed to his own house, glorifying God.

26 And they were all amazed, and they glorified God, and were filled with fear, saying, We have seen strange things to day.

27 ¶ And after these things he went forth, and saw a publican, named Lē'vī, sitting at the receipt of custom: and he said unto him, Follow me.

28 And he left all, rose up, and followed him.

29 And Lē'vī made him a great feast in his own house: and there was a great company of publicans and of others that sat down with them.

30 But their scribes and Phär'ī-sees murmured against his disciples, saying, Why do ye eat and drink with publicans and sinners?

31 And Jē'sus answering

Phăr'ĭ-seeș were offended, after they heard this saying?

13 But he answered and said, [m] Every plant, which my heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up.

14 Let them alone: [n] they be blind leaders of the blind. And if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch.

15 [o] Then answered Pē'tĕr and said unto him, Declare unto us this parable.

16 And Jē'ṣus said, [p] Are ye also yet without understanding?

17 Do not ye yet understand, that [q] whatsoever entereth in at the mouth goeth into the belly, and is cast out into the draught?

18 But [r] those things which proceed out of the mouth come forth from the heart; and they defile the man.

19 [s] For out of the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, blasphemies:

20 These are the things which defile a man: but to eat with unwashen hands defileth not a man.

21 ¶ [t] Then Jē'ṣus went thence, and departed into the coasts of Tȳre and Sī'dŏn.

22 And, behold, a woman of Cā'năan came out of the same coasts, and cried unto him, saying, Have mercy on me, O Lord, thou son of Dā'vid; my daughter is grievously vexed with a devil.

23 But he answered her not a word. And his disciples came and besought him, saying, Send her away; for she crieth after us.

24 But he answered and said, [u] I am not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Ĭṣ'rą-el.

25 Then came she and worshipped him, saying, Lord, help me.

26 But he answered and said, It is not meet to take the children's bread, and to cast it to [x] dogs.

27 And she said, Truth, Lord: yet the dogs eat of the crumbs which fall from their masters' table.

28 Then Jē'ṣus answered and said unto her, O woman, great is thy faith: be it unto thee even as thou wilt. And her daughter was made whole from that very hour.

THE AUTHORIZED VERSION.

Printed from New Electrotype Plates cast from special new type.
Readers of the Word of God have hitherto always found it difficult to pronounce the many troublesome foreign names occurring in the text. This difficulty has now been overcome by means of a system which divides the words into syllables, and which also shows the accented syllables and indicates the proper sounds of the variable vowels and consonants.

THESE BIBLES CONTAIN THE SAYINGS OF CHRIST PRINTED IN RED.

CHAPTER 1.

1 Conquests by Judah. 8 Jerusalem taken. 21 The acts of Benjamin. 29 Nations remaining unconquered.

B. C. 1425.

NOW after the death of Jŏsh'u-a it came to pass, that the children of Ĭs'ra-el [a] asked the LORD, saying, Who shall go up for us against the Cā'năan-ītes first, to fight against them?

2 And the LORD said, [b] Jū'dah shall go up: behold, I have delivered the land into his hand.

3 And Jū'dah said unto Sĭm'e-on his brother, Come up with me into my lot, that we may fight against the Cā'năan-ītes; and I likewise will go with thee into thy lot. [c] So Sĭm'e-on went with him.

4 And Jū'dah went up; and [d] the LORD delivered the Cā'năan-ītes and the Pĕr'ĭz-zītes into their hand: and they slew of them in Bē'zek ten thousand men.

5 And they found Ă-dŏn'ī-bē'zek in Bē'zek: and they fought against him, and they slew the Cā'năan-ītes and the Pĕr'ĭz-zītes.

6 But Ă-dŏn'ī-bē'zek fled; and they pursued after him, and caught him, and cut off his thumbs and his great toes.

7 And Ă-dŏn'ī-bē'zek said, Threescore and ten kings, having [1] their thumbs and their great toes cut off, [2] gathered their meat under my table: [e] as I have done, so God hath requited me. And they brought him to Jĕ-ru'să-lĕm, and there he died.

8 Now the children of Jū'dah had fought against Jĕ-ru'să-lĕm, and had taken it, and smitten it with the edge of the sword, and set the city on fire.

9 And afterward the children of Jū'dah went down to fight against the Cā'năan-ītes, that dwelt in the mountain, and in the south, and in the valley.

10 And Jū'dah went against the Cā'năan-ītes that dwelt in Hē'bron: (now the name of Hē'bron before was Kĭr'jath-ăr'bā:) and they slew Shē'shāi, and Ăh'ĭ-măn, and Tăl'mī.

11 And from thence he went against the inhabitants of Dē'bīr: and the name of Dē'bīr before was Kĭr'jath-sē'phēr.

12 And Căl'eb said, He that smiteth Kĭr'jath-sē'phēr, and taketh it, to him will I give Ach'sah my daughter to wife.

13 And Oth'nĭ-ĕl the son of Kĕn'az, the younger brother of Căl'eb, took it: and he gave him Ach'sah his daughter to wife.

14 And it came to pass, when she came unto him, that she moved him to ask of her father a field: and she lighted from off her ass; and Căl'eb said unto her, What wouldest thou?

15 Who answered him, Give me a blessing: for thou hast given me a south land; give me also springs of water. And Căl'eb gave her the upper springs and the nether springs.

16 And the children of the Kē'nīte, Mō'ses father-in-law, went up out of the city of palm trees with the children of Jū'dah into the wilderness of Jū'dah, which lieth in the south of [o] Ā'răd; [p] and they went and dwelt among the people.

17 And Jū'dah went with Sĭm'e-on his brother, and they slew the Cā'năan-ītes that inhabited Zē'phath, and utterly destroyed it. And the name of the city was called [q] Hôr'mah.

18 Also Jū'dah took [r] Gā'zà with the coast thereof, and Ăs'ke-lŏn with the coast thereof, and Ĕk'rŏn with the coast thereof.

19 And [s] the LORD was with Jū'dah; and [5] he drove out the inhabitants of the mountain; but could not drive out the inhabitants of the valley, because they had [t] chariots of iron.

20 [u] And they gave Hē'bron unto Cā'leb, as Mō'ses said: and he expelled thence the three sons of Ā'năk.

21 [v] And the children of Bĕn'ja-min did not drive out the Jĕb'u-sītes that inhabited Jĕ-ru'să-lĕm; but the Jĕb'u-sītes dwell with the children of Bĕn'ja-min in Jĕ-ru'să-lĕm unto this day.

22 ¶ And the house of Jō'seph, they also went up against Bĕth'-el: and the LORD was with them.

23 And the house of Jō'seph [w] sent to descry Bĕth'-el. (Now the name of the city before was [x] Lŭz.)

A German Teachers' Bible

ON A NEW AND IMPROVED PLAN.

The only German Bible of its kind ever published.

"SCRIPTURE EXPLAINED BY MEANS OF SCRIPTURE THROUGH THE MEDIUM OF CONFIRMATORY TEXTS."

It differs from other German Bibles in that it gives, in the most important instances, either the full or the slightly abbreviated explanatory or elucidating texts in the narrow side columns on the outer edges of the page as well as numerous references of the kind usually employed in Reference Bibles. In addition to the foregoing invaluable features this Bible also contains :—

A Concordance:
A History of the Books of the Bible:

Ā'brā-hăm and Ā'brăm (father of a multitude). Son of Terah, a dweller in Ur of the Chaldees, Gen. xi. 25-31. Founder of the Jewish nation. Migrated from Chaldea to Haran. Moved thence to Canaan, to Egypt and back to Canaan, where he settled amid the oak-groves of Mamre. There confirmed in the thrice repeated promise that his seed should become a mighty nation, and his name changed from Abram to Abraham. Died, aged 175 years, and was buried in the tomb of Machpelah, Gen. xii.-xxvi.

Ăb'sa-lŏm (father of peace). (1) A son of David, 2 Sam. iii. 3. Killed his brother Amnon, 2 Sam. xiii. Fled to Geshur, 2 Sam. xiii. 37, 38. Returned and conspired to usurp his father's throne, 2 Sam. xiv.-xvii. Defeated at Gilead and slain by Joab, 2 Sam. xviii. (2) Father of Mattathias, 1 Macc. xi. 70.

——A New and Revised Edition of—— Peloubet's Suggestive Illustrations.

On the Gospel According to Matthew.

One Volume, Cloth, 12mo., 463 Pages, $1.25

On the Gospel According to John.

One Volume, Cloth, 12mo., 548 Pages. $1.25

On the Acts of the Apostles.

One Volume, Cloth 12mo., 483 Pages, $1.25

These volumes are called "Suggestive Illustrations," because their object is quite as much to suggest other "Illustrations," as to furnish Material ready for use.

The Text which is printed at the top of the various pages indicates at a glance the subjects to be elucidated. Every chapter and well-nigh every verse is illuminated with fresh, sparkling "illustrations." Now it is a bit of scientific lore, now a scrap of healthful verse, now a reference to some book or story or poem, now an anecdote, now a little parable—varied in the extreme, but always such as to kindle new ideas and fill the Scriptures with new meaning to the student.

"These books contain the gathered riches of Dr. F. N. Peloubet's quarter century and more of Bible Exposition."—The Advance, Chicago.

Invaluable to Pastors, Leaders of Prayer Meetings, Christian Endeavor and other church societies, Sunday School Teachers and parents in conducting Family Devotions.

The Bible Publishing House of

A. J. Holman & Co.

was established nearly forty years ago, succeeding to Bible publishers of over twenty years' standing, and this succession of Bible making extends back to the latter part of the eighteenth century.

The building shown in the illustration was erected in 1881 by the founder of this business. At that time only a part of the immense floor space was needed.

The growth of the business since has been such that to-day we occupy the entire plant and have a complete equipment of the most modern machinery used in the printers' and binders' art.

Seventeen years ago the first strictly American-made Teachers' Bible was produced in this house, when we first introduced the Pronouncing Feature in Teachers' and Hand Bibles.

The publishing, printing, and binding, together with every detail of manufacture, being done under one roof and under our own personal supervision, have enabled us to plan and execute many improvements in Bible making that have made the Holman line popular beyond our most sanguine expectations, so that the output of Holman Bibles now exceeds that of any other line sold in this country.

AITKEN, ROBERT

Beyond the Skyline

12mo, cloth, $1.50 postpaid.

Short stories of unusually high quality. They have been compared with Kipling's and with Conrad's, yet they have an individuality all their own. The book has gained the approval of a discriminating audience.

A single story, as a sample, will be mailed upon request, as long as the supply lasts.

Where Knowledge Fails

(In The Art of Life Series)

12mo, cloth, 50 cents, net; by mail, 55 cents.

A scientific thinker presents the outlines of a belief in which the relations of knowledge and faith are clearly established. Many will find in it a solution of the most important problem present-day men and women have to cope with.

BARNETT, EVELYN S.

The Dragnet

12mo, cloth, $1.50 postpaid.

A closely-knit, exciting detective story, with an almost insolvable murder mystery. Besides the interest which attaches to the story and its characters, there is the further attraction of a well-drawn picture of competition in American business life.

The author is literary editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

BERNSTEIN, EDWARD

Evolutionary Socialism:
A Criticism and Affirmation.

(Translated by Edith C. Harvey)

12mo, cloth, $1.00, net; by mail, $1.10.

This is one of the epoch-making books in Socialist literature. The author clearly defines the opportunist tendency in the Socialist movement. He dissents from some of the conclusions of Marx and Engels, pioneers of modern scientific Socialism, and his views are of especial value in that they give another aspect of the Socialist movement from the inside by one who is anxious to see the truth fully. At one time this volume threatened to split the German Social Democracy, and no library that aims to inform its readers on Socialism can afford to be without it.

Mr. John Spargo, who does not agree with Bernstein's views, says in the International Socialist Review: "In its way, the publication of this volume is quite as important as the completion of Marx's great work (Das Kapital) in its English rendering."

BISHOP, EMILY M.

The Road to "Seventy Years Young"
Or, The Unhabitual Way

12mo, board sides, cloth back, $1.20, net; by mail, $1.28.

Advocating ever-new expression in thought and deed, the avoidance of ruts in thinking and feeling, and preaching healthy optimism, the book is one which will keep body and mind young. Thousands of copies have been sold in America and England, and the work is now in its third large edition.

Daily Ways to Health

12mo, cloth, $1.50, net; by mail, $1.60.

For twenty years Mrs. Bishop has been teaching thousands of women at Chautauqua and elsewhere how to be strong and happy. How well she succeeds in interesting her audience is attested by the popularity of "The Road to 'Seventy Years Young.'" Her new book is on similar lines, but includes as well detailed exercises and instructions for preventing and overcoming the ills that flesh is heir to. It is a summary of her life work, and contains philosophy and practical teaching which, if observed, will keep mankind young and healthy.

BURGESS, GELETT

Are You a Bromide?

Or

The Sulphitic Theory, Expounded and Exemplified According to the Most Recent Researches into the Psychology of Boredom, Including Many Well-known Bromidioms Now in Use.

Cover design and decorations by the author.

12mo, boards, 50 cents, net; by mail, 55 cents.

This satire has been one of the most successful books published in the last few years and the demand continues unabated.

FEUCHTERSLEBEN, ERNST VON

Health and Suggestion

The Dietetics of the Mind

12mo, board sides, cloth back, $1.00, net; by mail, $1.08.

European literature of the last hundred years contains many a gem, known to every cultivated person reading the language in which it is printed, that has not been translated into English. Feuchtersleben's book appears in the catalogue of at least three important German publishers. Now that it has been made accessible to Americans there is little doubt that it will achieve permanent popularity here. Its peculiar value is a recognition of the importance of the will in therapeutics, not by a priest, but by a scientist.

GILLMORE, INEZ HAYNES

June Jeopardy

12mo, cloth, $1.50 postpaid.

An unusual romance describing one exciting night in and about Boston. The plot keeps the reader guessing to the very end. It is marked by bright and interesting characters, sparkling and witty dialogue and clever situations. Rarely has an author's first book been received with such praise from the press as has this delightful novel.

Maida's Little Shop

With frontispiece, 12mo, cloth, $1.25 postpaid.

Illustrated

A millionaire's little daughter, cured of hip disease by bloodless surgery, pines for want of occupation. Billy Potter, a New York reporter, conceives the happy idea of having Maida "keep store." The story tells of her experiences; the friends she makes among the poor as well as rich children of the neighborhood; Granny Flynn and her long search for her daughter, and much else that will entertain children while conveying sound ethical teaching. The story makes delightful reading, even for grown-ups.

GORKY, MAXIM

The Spy

The Story of a Superfluous Man

(Authorized translation by Thomas Seltzer)

12mo, cloth, $1.50 postpaid.

Many critics believe that this novel represents Gorky's best work. It is a realistic picture of the revolution and political life in Russia, broad in conception and bold, even sensational, in execution. He throws a powerful light on the under world and exposes the degradation, horror and mystery of the secret police system. The book is unusual in many respects, and it is indispensable to those who wish to understand the feverish conditions in Russia to-day.

GRIGGS, EDWARD HOWARD

Human Equipment:
Its Use and Abuse

(In The Art of Life Series)

12mo, cloth, 50 cents, net; by mail, 55 cents.

This deals compactly with the problem, so acutely important in our money-mad society, of the right use of things—the relation of man, both individually and collectively taken, to the tools and equipment of civilization. Its central thesis forms a trenchant criticism of the persistent superstition that lavish expenditure in careless luxury benefits society. The author shows, both by economic argument and historic example, that all use of the power money represents for what is either useless or harmful forces someone to work harder somewhere in the social structure, and, unchecked, is paid for at a terrible price in the end. Incidentally, there is an illuminating discussion of the causes of panics—those "clearing houses in which we pay our bad debts."

The style is peculiarly forceful and convincing, and the book is full of wise suggestion for the conduct of life.

The New Humanism

Studies in Personal and Social Development

12mo, cloth, $1.50, net; by mail, $1.60

Ten closely integrated essays interpreting the modern spirit and developing the ideals of the new ethical and social humanism which occupies in our time the place held by the æsthetic and intellectual humanism in the earlier Renaissance.

A Book of Meditations

12mo, cloth, $1.50, net; by mail, $1.60

A volume of personal reflections, sketches and poems dealing with life and art; an autobiography, not of events and accidents, but of thoughts and impressions. Frontispiece portrait by Albert Sterner.

GRIGGS, EDWARD HOWARD, (continued)

The Use of the Margin

(In The Art of Life Series)

12mo, cloth, 50 cents, net; by mail, 55 cents.

The author's charm as a public speaker is here transferred to the printed page. His theme is the problem of utilizing the time one has to spend as one pleases for the aim of attaining the highest culture of mind and spirit. The book contains also an introduction to the series.

Moral Education

12mo, cloth, $1.60, net; by mail, $1.72.

A discussion of the whole problem of moral education: its aim in relation to our society and all the means through which that aim can be attained. An invaluable bibliography with annotations is included.

The parent, teacher and general reader will find the book easy reading, and study-clubs, classes and reading circles will appreciate its adaptability to their needs.

Some opinions of "Moral Education" as expressed by noted educators and other public men may be had on application.

Handbooks to Courses of Lectures

Each contains an introductory note, illustrative extracts, outlines of the lectures, book references and list of topics for the study and discussion of each lecture, and a carefully selected bibliography. The handbooks are of the utmost value to classes in literature and ethics, study clubs, reading circles, etc. The cloth bound editions contain blank leaves for the user's notes.

HARDIE, J. KEIR

India:

Impressions and Suggestions

12mo, boards, cloth back, $1.00, net; by mail, $1.08.

One of the most powerful personalities in England to-day is Keir Hardie, leader of the Labor Party, who, as a boy, taught himself to write by forming letters with his finger-nail on the grimy surfaces in the coal mine in which he was earning his bread. Throughout his life actuated by a love for truth and justice, he wished to see for himself the conditions in which the people whose cause he had espoused in Parliament were living. Two months in India with his eyes open resulted in this vivid picture. There are lessons in it for America, now that her future is bound up in that of the black and brown races under her control.

HIGGINSON, THOMAS WENTWORTH

Things Worth While

(In The Art of Life Series)

12mo, cloth, 50 cents, net; by mail, 55 cents.

The most noted survivor of the best days of American letters gives wise counsel and presents his interesting views on the most important things in life. Colonel Higginson's latest book has received wide recognition and almost universal praise.

HYDE, WILLIAM DE WITT

Self-Measurement

A Scale of Human Values; with Directions for Personal Application.

(In The Art of Life Series)

12mo, cloth, 50 cents, net; by mail, 55 cents.

The author's thesis is that an estimate of a man can be conducted scientifically. He analyzes life, showing its fundamental relations and the varying degrees of fulfillment and of violation of each. His analysis and scale are presented, not for their possible use in judging others, but that they may be applied to ourselves.

IRWIN, WILL

The City That Was

A Requiem of Old San Francisco

12mo, board covers, 50 cents, net; by mail, 55 cents.

Limp leather, in box, autographed, $2.00, net; by mail, $2.08.

This vivid pen picture remains the most effective souvenir of the glory of San Francisco as it was before the earthquake and fire. None is better equipped than Mr. Irwin to chronicle the greatness of "the good, gray city." He wrote con amore and produced a classic.

The Confessions of a Con Man

12mo, cloth, $1.00, net; by mail, $1.10.

Illustrated by W. Glackens.

This is fact, not fiction. The Con Man lives; he spent his life dabbling in every crooked game known to the under world, and he has told his story to Mr. Irwin with the air of a connoisseur in petty crime. Whoever has played cards with a seemingly innocent country man on a railroad train; whoever has tried to discover under which shell the pea lies; whoever has purchased diamonds at half the market value, and whoever has bought a gold brick by any other name will find a sad pleasure in reading these pages.

IRWIN, WILL, (continued)

The Readjustment

12mo cloth, $1.20, net; by mail, $1.30.

A novel whose scene is laid in and about San Francisco. The time is before the fire. The author describes realistically the life and the people, including many characteristic types, some taken from life, and pictures the Bohemian group which he knows so well. It is a novel of psychology as well as action, yet the reader's interest in the love affair of two pairs and the unfolding of their characters is held constantly.

The great success of "The City That Was" is the best evidence that there is none like Will Irwin to draw a true picture of California and its people.

JENKINS, STEPHEN

A Princess and Another

12mo, cloth, illustrated, $1.50 postpaid.

A convincing novel of old New York and Westchester counties before and during the Revolution. Up to the end the reader is baffled by the mystery of the hero's birth and is charmed by the interesting men and women who appear on the scene. New light is thrown on the events of the period and because of this the book should be read by students of American history.

KERST, FRIEDRICH
(Compiler and Annotator)
KREHBIEL, HENRY EDWARD (Editor and Translator)

Beethoven

The Man and the Artist, as Revealed in His Own Words

12mo, cloth, $1.00, net; by mail, $1.10.

Beethoven's own words, culled from letters, reports of conversations, diaries and sources unavailable prior to the compiler's research, and relating to many of the problems of the great composer's life. These have been classified and arranged under appropriate chapter headings.

Mozart

The Man and the Artist, as Revealed in His Own Words

12mo, boards, $1.00, net; by mail, $1.08

The above paragraph describes the scheme of this book as well. The unique personality of Mozart is revealed more effectively in these selected and classified quotations from his own pen than would be possible in the most painstaking study by another, of the light-hearted genius.

The opinions of these two books as expressed by distinguished musicians, and extracts from newspaper reviews sent upon application.

LEONARD, WILLIAM ELLERY

The Poet of Galilee

12mo, boards, cloth back, $1.00, net; by mail, $1.08.

An interpretation by a rationalist of the many-sided Jesus as revealed in the synoptic Gospels. This is a unique and brilliant work that will be as interesting to students of literature as to religionists. The author is Assistant Professor of English at the University of Wisconsin.

LEVUSSOVE, M. S.

The New Art of an Ancient People

The Work of Ephraim Mose Lilien

Illustrated, 12mo, boards, 75 cents, net; by mail, 80 cents.
Limp leather, boxed, $2.00, net; by mail, $2.10.

In this volume Mr. Levussove introduces to American readers the artist Lilien who is not alone one of the leading draughtsmen of the world, but a man with a definite message, the message of the renascent Jewish people. The illustrations are remarkably fine specimens of Lilien's work in various moods.

LUBY, JAMES

The Black Cross Clove

12mo, cloth, $1.20, net; by mail, $1.30.

The author has been engaged on the New York Sun for many years. This is sufficient to indicate that the story is well written. The hero is a New York artist, the heroine a New York society girl, and the scene shifts from the metropolis to the Catskill Mountains. The other woman in the case is a wild girl who loves the mythical spirit of the mountain, an Indian chief who figures in a legend which threads through the story. Country and city types are well depicted. There are several unusual scenes and stirring climaxes and the story leads through doubt, misunderstanding and tragedy to a happy ending.

MARKHAM, EDWIN (Introduction by)

The Marvellous Year

4to, boards, $1.25, net; by mail, $1.35.

Text Anonymous.

Portraits by Gertrude Huebsch.

This volume supplies the most effective memorial to the year 1909 in which the centenaries of so many remarkable men were celebrated. It contains a specially drawn portrait of Calvin, Chopin, Darwin, Fitzgerald, Gladstone, Gogol, Haydn, Holmes, Kemble, Lincoln, Mendelssohn, Poe, Johnson and Tennyson, and a brief biographical essay by a writer who has exacted a pledge that his name be not used, interpreting the meaning of each life for the people of our day.

The introduction is written with a view of unifying the messages of the great lives and to showing their meaning for the purpose of a broad culture.

MASTERMAN, C. F. G.

In Peril of Change

Essays Written in Time of Tranquillity

12mo, cloth, $1.50, net; by mail, $1.60.

A trenchant survey of present-day Anglo-Saxon civilization, illuminating the forces, making for radical change. The work includes brilliant criticisms of men and books, an examination of the newer tendencies in thought, studies of contemporary society and current religious influences. The author is an M. P. and one of the youngest men in Mr. Asquith's cabinet.

A brief appreciation of this book written by Professor Earl Barnes will be sent upon request.

MATTHEWS, FRANKLIN

With the Battle Fleet

Illustrations in color by HENRY REUTERDAHL.

12mo, cloth, $1.50 postpaid.

A description of the memorable voyage of the U. S. Atlantic Fleet from Hampton Roads to San Francisco. The author has caught the spirit of the service and his story, while true in every detail, reads like a romance of travel and adventure. It is truly the epic of the Navy. Mr. Reuterdahl, the artist-laureate of the Navy, and himself an authority on naval affairs, expresses pictorially that which the author has accomplished with the pen. It is a book to stir the blood of every American. Admirals Dewey and Evans and other distinguished men endorse the book.

Back to Hampton Roads

Illustrated, 12mo, cloth, $1.50 postpaid.

This completes the story of the cruise, taking up the narrative at San Francisco, where "With the Battle Fleet" ends. Mr. Matthews was one of the few civilians who went all around the world with our fleet. This book tells of the visits to China, Japan, Hawaii, Philippines, Australia and New Zealand; the countries, people, government; the business, customs, politics. As our horizon widens a need is created for such a book as this, for it enables us to understand much of the feverish striving in the antipodes.

OPPENHEIM, JAMES

Wild Oats

With a foreword by Edward Bok.
12mo, cloth, $1.20 net; by mail, $1.30.

The author of "Dr. Rast" has written a bold and powerful novel whose theme is The Great Black Plague, the most glaring danger of society. He approaches the subject with necessary frankness yet reverently and delicately. While there is every reason to believe that the novel will become the centre of hot dispute none will charge the author with a desire to be merely sensational, for the sanction of authority is given in Mr. Bok's Foreword.

PATTEN, SIMON NELSON

Product and Climax

(In The Art of Life Series)
12mo, cloth, 50 cents, net; by mail, 55 cents.

The author discerns as fundamental evils, overwork and overcrowding, and finds wanting a proper balance between action in toil and reaction in enjoyment. He contrasts simple country life in which activity evokes immediate and healthy response with conditions in the city where toil and pleasure are incongruously joined.

He aims to remedy existing conditions of labor and housing and to bring about the right relation between work and play with the purpose of making a healthier and happier people. A simple diagnosis of the disease and simple suggestions for its cure are offered to those interested in social and moral betterment.

PFLEIDERER OTTO

The Development of Christianity

(Translated by Daniel A. Huebsch)
12mo, cloth, $1.50, net; by mail, $1.60.

This last book by the great philosopher-theologian completes his trilogy of works intended for lay readers as well as ministers. He traces the growth of Christianity from its beginning to the present day, and illuminates this much-discussed theme by his incomparable insight and wisdom.

Christian Origins

(Translated by Daniel A. Huebsch)
12mo, cloth, $1.50, net; by mail, $1.60.

The results of forty years of critical research in the origins and development of Christianity and the Church are here set forth by the late professor of theology at the University of Berlin. This book is truly indispensable to all students of the history and philosophy of religion.

Religion and Historic Faiths

(Translated by Daniel A. Huebsch)
12mo, cloth, $1.50, net; by mail, $1.60.

A brief, lucid interpretation of the great ethnic faiths, of Christianity historically and rationally conceived, and as well a discussion of what religion is in itself, how it originates, and what its relation to ethics is. It is a book especially serviceable to clergymen unable to acquire large libraries and to laymen who are disposed to study comparative religion and to know at least what its conclusions are.

A booklet containing a critical estimate of "Religion and Historic Faiths," by George Perry Morris of the Boston Herald, and of "Christian Origins," by Prof. William Benjamin Smith of Tulane University, will be sent to those interested; also an appreciation of "The Development of Christianity" from the pen of Prof. William Ellery Leonard of the University of Wisconsin.

PRICE, GEORGE B.

Gaining Health in the West
(Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona)
Being Impressions of a Layman Based on Seven Years' Personal Experience with "Climate."

16mo, cloth, $1.00, net; by mail, $1.06.

This is a unique volume, invaluable to laymen, for whom it was written, as well as physicians who may be interested in the treatment of consumption in great altitudes. Very much as would an earnest and well-informed friend, the author discusses with the consumptive all the material and ethical aspects of life in the West. The book has received the endorsement of those interested in the study of tuberculosis, and many specialists are prescribing it instead of drugs.

ROSS, EDWARD ALSWORTH

Latter Day Sinners and Saints
(In The Art of Life Series)

12mo, cloth, 50 cents, net; by mail, 55 cents.

This latest book in the series embodies the indictment by the progressive thinkers of to-day of the most vicious elements of our society, and a programme for social and political house cleaning. It is a brief and compact study for busy people: a survey of the entire subject by an observer trained and unfettered, an expositor fresh and lucid.

SPARGO, JOHN

The Spiritual Significance of Modern Socialism

Boards, cloth back, 50 cents, net by mail, 55 cents.

The author makes clear that Socialism in its economic aspect is but a single phase of a great movement; that in every avenue of its activity, a higher meaning is connoted and that every Socialistic aspiration is as important ethically as economically and politically. He demonstrates that his cause requires no defense on its spiritual side and assumes the aggressive, drawing a powerful indictment against organized religion.

SPARGO, JOHN, (continued)

The Substance of Socialism

Boards, cloth back, $1.00, net; by mail, $1.08.

Mr. Spargo undertakes to make clear many implications of Socialism that are obscure to those who have not studied the subject thoroughly. In the first section he answers those who believe that Socialism is a Utopian project; he proves that it is practicable and compares the movement with other reforms which were at first regarded as the speculations of dreamers. The second part of the book is devoted to a consideration of private property and personal liberty in the Socialist State; the status of both will remain unchanged, he avers. Lastly he answers the school of critics represented by Mr. Roosevelt in his attack on "the foul doctrine of class consciousness." Boldly and uncompromisingly Mr. Spargo takes issue and argues that the doctrine possesses a moral value and that opposition to it breeds anarchy.

Karl Marx, His Life and Work

Cloth, 8vo, $2.50, net; by mail, $2.70.

The first adequate and authoritative biography of the founder of modern Socialism. It presents a vivid picture of the great human figure whose ideas govern a world-wide movement with millions of followers. For twelve years Mr. Spargo has been at work gathering and verifying his material, assisted by Marx's friends the world over, and Mme. Lafargue, his only surviving daughter, with the result that his book will forever be an indispensable one for the study of Socialism, its history and its founder. As a human document it will take rank with the great biographies of literature; as an analysis of Socialism it has no parallel in value to students of economics and politics. The standing of the author places his pre-eminent fitness for the task beyond question.

SUDERMANN, HERMANN

The Song of Songs

[Das Hohe Lied]

Translated by Thomas Seltzer.

12mo, cloth, $1.40, net; by mail, $1.55.

Sudermann's many dramas and novels may be regarded as merely preliminary studies for this, his masterpiece. It is the story of a beautiful girl animated by high ideals and beset by temptations on every side. Lilly suggests, remotely, Daudet's Sappho and Dumas' Camille, in a nobler embodiment. Alone in the world, loving and sympathetic by disposition, she encounters successively sordid poverty, wealth and libertinism, false love, dazzling bohemianism, perfect bliss, then commonplace Philistinism. How she threads her way over high peaks and through dark valleys, how she resists and how she succumbs, are the actuating springs of a novel incomparable in this decade.

TRAUBEL, HORACE

Optimos

12mo, cloth, $1.50, net; by mail, $1.60.

The public will always associate Mr. Traubel's name with that of Walt Whitman, whose literary executor he is. The discriminating, however, have long since recognized Mr. Traubel's independent worth as a poet. This volume contains a selection of the best work that has appeared in "The Conservator" as well as some poems hitherto unpublished.

ZUEBLIN, CHARLES

The Religion of a Democrat

12mo, boards, cloth back, $1.00, net; by mail, $1.08.

The author looks into the future and offers the outlines of genuine democratic religion. The present relations of the individual to the State and the Church are analyzed; the social, economic and religious causes of our unrest are considered, and the way to better conditions is pointed out.

Democracy and the Overman.

12mo, board sides, cloth back, $1.00 net; by mail, $1.08.

Through Mr. Zueblin's keen eyes we are enabled to see things from unsuspected viewpoints. The changing status of women, the influence of the press, modern society in all its ramifications, are passed before us as on a canvas, while a bold and unconventional thinker utters thought stimulating comment.

YEAR BOOKS (Diaries)

Trade Announcement

Season of 1910

IT is with great satisfaction that we place before you HURST & COMPANY'S COMPLETE TRADE AND ORDER LIST for Summer, Fall and Holiday Trade for 1910. It represents time, thought and careful consideration for the wants of the trade and excels any previous effort to please our customers and to lay before them the best in low-priced books on the market. We ask you to examine this list from cover to cover. In it you will find your requirements without the necessity of looking elsewhere.

It represents what rival lists lack—a most comprehensive collection of the World's Best Literature, carefully classified and made into attractive and unique volumes, in various styles and sizes. No effort has been spared in its preparation; the requirements of the trade have been cautiously considered; new designs by the best artists—regardless of expense—have been obtained; the general appearance of the finished product has been executed to a degree that makes the Hurst Line the acme of perfection. Special attention is directed to our large list of books for boys and girls, which becomes a strong feature this season, and to our many Serial lines made up into novelties now so much in demand.

Our entrance into the copyright field is shown by our announcement of a series of Boys' Books on subjects which are before the public constantly and we ask your hearty support for our "Boy Aviators' Series," which will be followed by other interesting lines later on. The prices of our publications throughout enable us to stand pre-eminent among our competitors.

THE CONTENTS

Our catalogue contains Popular and Standard Literature in 16mo., 12mo., octavo and quarto sizes and comprises works on Poetry, Fiction, Romance, Travel, Adventure, Humor, Science, History, Religion, Biography, Drama, etc., etc., besides Dictionaries and Manuals, Miscellaneous Sets, Boys' and Girls' Books, Presentation and Gift Books in Leather and Cloth Bindings, and Juvenile and Nursery Literature in immense variety, both with black and with colored pictures.

SPECIAL NOTE

We ask the trade to secure our samples and prices and make careful comparisons before placing any orders. You will find our publications profitable to handle because they have given universal satisfaction everywhere.

Our terms to parties unknown to us are, cash with order, or satisfactory references.

Electros of any book illustration in this catalogue can be had, without charge. They make excellent "pullers" for advertising purposes.

Prices to the trade upon application. Your orders solicited.

AIRSHIP Story Books

YOU know that AIRSHIPS are being talked about to-day in much the same manner as steamboats and steam engines were a century ago; you know that Aerial Navigation is fast passing the experimental stage and in the near future will become practical carriers; you know that Airships have come to stay.

With these facts before us, we decided that healthy, wide-awake boys with red blood in them, would read with appreciation a series of books by an authority on Aviation, so we offer "THE BOY AVIATORS' SERIES" for your consideration. The books are now being favorably reviewed by the best newspapers in the country.

The Boy Aviators' Series

(TRADE MARK REGISTERED)

By CAPTAIN WILBUR LAWTON

Each volume is of absorbing interest, is well written in a fascinating style by an author whose knowledge of airships is authentic and characteristic, and timely subjects are adhered to. Printed from new, large type plates on good paper and substantially bound with a distinctive design in harmony with each volume. Illustrated with four (4) original drawings. An ideal set of books for wide-awake boys. Each book in a jacket. 12mo. Six titles. Price, 50 cents.
